PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

Church Missionary Society

FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

FORTIETH YEAR.

CONTAINING

THE ANNIVERSARY SERMON,

BY THE REV. HENRY RAIKES, M.A.

CHANCELLOR OF CHESTER;

THE FORTIETH REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE;

AND

A LIST OF SUBSCRIBERS AND BENEFACTORS.

LONDON:

PRINTED BY RICHARD WATTS, CROWN COURT, TEMPLE BAR.

Published for the Society,

BY J. HATCHARD & SON, PICCADILLY; AND L. & G. SEELEY, 169, FLEET STREET.

1840.

Price, Two Shillings.

Communications on the General Business of the Society to be thus addressed—

"SECRETARIES,

"CHURCH MISSIONARY HOUSE,

"SALISBURY SQUARE, LONDON."

Correspondence relative to Association Meetings, and Sermons on behalf of the Society to be addressed—

"THE ASSOCIATION SECRETARIES" (in their respective Districts).

All Bills and Orders for Money to be made payable to the Lay Secretary—D. COATES, Esq.

The Office of the Society is open Daily (Sundays excepted), from Nine in the Morning till Seven in the Evening.

One of the Secretaries attends at the Office daily, between the hours of Eleven o'Clock in the Morning and Four o'Clock in the Afternoon, unless particular business should render it necessary for them to be absent.

The Committee meet, at the Society's House, every Second Monday in the Month throughout the Year, at Twelve o'Clock.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND CONTRIBUTIONS WILL BE RECEIVED AT THE SOCIETY'S HOUSE;

At the Society's Bankers—MESSRS. WILLIAMS, DEACON, LABOUCHERE, and Co., 20, Birchin Lane;

And at the following Places:

MESSRS. HOARE, 37, Fleet Street.

MESSRS. SEELEY, 169, Fleet Street.

MESSRS. HATCHARD & SON, 187, Piccadilly.

In Dublin, by

MESSRS. JOHN DAVID LA TOUCHE & Co.

REV. D. T. K. DRUMMOND, and REV. D. BAGOT.

 The Committee of the Church Missionary Society beg to suggest to the Committees and Officers of Associations, that the most convenient and economical mode of making their Remittances is through the medium of a Banker in the Country to the Society's Bankers, through the Banking-house in town with which the Country Banker corresponds, advising the Secretaries of the payment.

ANNUAL REPORT.

WITH a view to economize expenditure in Printing the Annual Report, the Committee request that Copies not required by the possessors may be returned to the Church Missionary House: and would suggest, whether, in those cases where more than one member of a family is entitled to the Report, one copy of it might not suffice for the information of the whole?

PROPER FORM OF A DONATION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

I GIVE and bequeath the sum of unto the Treasurer for the time being of a voluntary Society meeting in or near London, commonly called or known by the name of "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East:" the same to be paid within months next after my decease, out of such part only of my Personal Estate as shall not consist of Mortgages or Chattels Real, in Trust, to be applied to the uses and purposes of that Society; and for which the receipt of such Treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

 Devises of land, or of money charged on land, or secured on mortgage of lands or tenements, or to be laid out in lands or tenements, are void; but money or stock may be given by Will, if not directed to be laid out in land.

At the Fortieth Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Exeter Hall, Strand, on Tuesday, May 5, 1840—

The Right Hon. the EARL of CHICHESTER, President, in the Chair.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE HAVING BEEN READ BY THE CLERICAL SECRETARIES—

On the Motion of the Rev. Walter Shirley, seconded by the Rev. John W. Cunningham,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, of which an Abstract has now been read, be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee; and that while the Society would acknowledge with unfeigned gratitude to God the large pecuniary means which Christian liberality has this year supplied, it would receive the bounty as an encouragement to hope for the manifestation of the grace of God in continued and enlarged contributions to the cause of Missions to the Heathen.

On a Motion of the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Chester, seconded by the Rev. Dr. Gilly,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting recognises, with humble thankfulness to the Great Head of the Church, the remarkable manifestation of the Divine influence which has been vouchsafed at Krishnaghur; and urges the Members of the Society to unite in prayers and exertions for the extension of the work of grace thrpughout India, and for the removal of every scandal from those who bear the Christian name in that country—especially for the entire relinquishment by the British Authorities of all participation in the Superstitious and Idolatrous systems of the Natives.

On a Motion by the Ven. Archdeacon Wilberforce, seconded by the Rev. Hugh Stowell,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That, from the plans which are now in progress for the extinction of the Slave Trade and the Civilization of Africa, this Meeting earnestly looks forward to increased facilities and advantages, under the Divine Blessing, for the diffusion throughout that country of the Gospel of the Grace of God—the only adequate remedy for the wrongs and miseries of its benighted inhabitants.

At a Meeting of the Society, held in Exeter Hall, on Tuesday Evening, May 5, 1840,

The Most Noble the MARQUESS CHOLMONDELEY, Vice-Patron, in the Chair.

The Rev. Thomas Vores, Secretary, and the Rev. Dr. John W. Doran, the Rev. Charles Hodgson, the Rev. Stewart W. Hanna, and the Rev. John E. White, Association Secretaries, having addressed the Meeting—

On a Motion of the Rev. Charles Frederick Childe,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That, acknowledging with devout thankfulness to Almighty God that the accounts contained in the Fortieth Report of the Society fully prove that the harvest truly is plenteous, this Meeting calls upon all its members and friends throughout the world to continue in faithful and fervent prayer, that the Lord of the Harvest may send forth Labourers into His harvest, and may vouchsafe an increasing blessing on all Missionary labours.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS

OF THE

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and shall be conducted by Patrons, Vice-Patrons, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Committee, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church.

II. The office of PATRONS of the Society shall be reserved for such Members of the Royal Family as may honour it with their protection. VICE-PATRONS shall be appointed exclusively from among the Peers, Spiritual and Temporal. The PRESIDENT shall be such Peer or Commoner, and the VICE-PRESIDENTS such Commoners, as may be appointed thereto.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS.

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upward, and if Clergymen, Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of Fifty-two Shillings and upward per annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, Clergymen making Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying to the amount of Fifty Pounds, shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds and upward shall be Governors for Life.

V. Members and Governors of Associations who contribute the above sums shall be considered as Members and Governors of the Parent Society.

VI. The Committee shall have the power of appointing such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Members for Life, or Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the First Tuesday in May; unless that day shall fall on the 7th of May, in which case the Annual Meeting shall be held, for that year, on Tuesday the 30th of April; when the Proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and a Treasurer and Committee chosen.

VIII. A Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, shall be called at any time, at the requisition of the General Committee; or by any Thirteen Members, on addressing a Letter to the Secretary, specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in Three public Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Rules of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones established, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the General Committee. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed, for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The Committee shall consist of Twenty-four Lay Members of the Established Church; and of all such Clergymen as are Members of the Society. Eighteen Members shall be annually appointed from the Old Committee, and Six from the General Body.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons, as Patrons, Vice-Patrons, and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds is, to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as Agents for the Society in the principal Towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful; the other Committees as often; and at such places as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee; and Three, each of the others. In case of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patrons, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, and Secretaries, shall be considered, ex officio, Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee, annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society; of whom, Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof, to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the general Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which, special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each Candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary*.

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made, to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon his designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report, illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries—these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and discipline of the Church."

Suggested Order of Proceedings at a Meeting preparatory to the Formation of an Association in aid of the Church Missionary Society.

1.—Mr. will move, and Mr. will second, a Resolution, "That be requested to take the Chair."

2.—The Chairman will briefly state the object for which the Meeting is assembled, and then call on the Rev. to offer up the usual Prayer to Almighty God, for a blessing on the proceedings of the day.

3.—After prayer, the Chairman will make such further observations as he may deem necessary, and then call on Mr. to move the First Resolution.

FIRST RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That this Meeting fully recognises the duty incumbent on Christians to employ all suitable means for the propagation of the Gospel throughout the world; and hails, with thankfulness to the Great Head of the Church, the labours of the CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY in its various Stations in Heathen Lands, and among decayed Christian Churches.

SECOND RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That an Association be now formed, and entitled, "The Church Missionary Association;" and that the following be its Officers and Rules:

PRESIDENT. VICE-PRESIDENTS.
TREASURER. SECRETARY.
COMMITTEE:
with power to add to their number.

RULES.

I. Annual Members of this Association shall be all persons subscribing annually One Guinea or upward, or, if Clergymen, Half a Guinea; and also such persons as shall collect in its behalf One Shilling or upward per week.

II. Life Members shall be Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, or, if Clergymen, such as shall contribute Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying bequests of Fifty Pounds.

III. Annual Governors shall be Subscribers of Five Guineas per annum.

IV. Life Governors shall be Benefactors of Fifty Pounds.

V. Members will be entitled to receive the Annual Reports of the Parent Society, and to vote at its General Meetings: and Collectors of One Shilling and upward per week will receive a copy of each Monthly Number of the "Church Missionary Record." Governors will be entitled to receive the Reports; and, if Members of the Established Church, to vote at Committee and General Meetings of both the Association and the Parent Society. Clergymen will have the same privilege as Governors. Contributors of 1*d.* a week and upward will be entitled to receive the Parent Society's "Quarterly Paper."

VI. The objects of this Association shall be, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed persons, and particularly those of the Established Church, in support of the Church Missionary Society; and to recommend proper persons who may offer themselves as Missionaries to the Parent Society—to disperse as widely as possible Missionary information—to promote the formation of Branch Associations—and to procure Collections and other Contributions.

VII The whole of the funds so obtained, after deducting incidental expenses only, shall be remitted to the Church Missionary Society, in aid of its designs.

VIII. A General Meeting shall be held annually, on such day as shall be fixed by the Committee; when a Report of the Proceedings of the Association shall be read, and an account of its receipts and disbursements presented, duly audited.

THIRD RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That the success which, under the Divine Blessing, has attended the Church Missionary Society, in its efforts to make known the Gospel of Christ among the Heathen, is a loud and providential call for increased exertions, for devout thanksgiving to Almighty God, and for continual prayer for a more abundant outpouring of the Holy Spirit, to render the means employed successful.

FOURTH RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That the new and enlarged openings for Missionary exertion, in different quarters, demand our best energies to make known the blessed Gospel of Christ to Heathen and Mahomedan Nations.

A

PREACHED AT ST. BRIDE'S CHURCH,

FLEET STREET,

ON MONDAY EVENING, MAY 4, 1840,

BEFORE THE

Church Missionary Society,

BY THE

REV. HENRY RAIKES, M.A.

CHANCELLOR OF CHESTER.

A

SERMON,

MATTHEW IX. 37, 38.

THEN SAITH HE UNTO HIS DISCIPLES, THE HARVEST TRULY IS PLENTEOUS, BUT THE LABOURERS ARE FEW: PRAY YE THEREFORE THE LORD OF THE HARVEST, THAT HE WILL SEND FORTH LABOURERS INTO HIS HARVEST.

It is more than eighteen hundred years since these words were spoken. It is more than eighteen hundred years since the sight of the multitudes, who flocked to hear the preaching of our Blessed Lord out of every city and village in Judea, moved His compassion; while He saw that they fainted, and were scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd; and drew from Him this remark to His Disciples: The Harvest truly is plenteous, but the Labourers are few. It seemed, doubtless, plenteous to THEM—While they beheld Jerusalem sending forth its thousands of inquirers—while they saw the men of Galilee, of Decapolis, of the regions beyond Jordan, flocking, as with one accord, toward their Master, and asking Him, Art Thou He that should come? or do we look for another?—while they saw such a movement given to the public mind, that it might have been for the moment said, and said with reason, All men are gone after Him;—and while they looked, on the other hand, to the number of those by whom these inquirers were to be met, and these wanderers guided—to the twelve whom our Lord first chose or to the seventy whom He afterward sent out two by two—they might have said, as they did before when comparing the inadequacy of the food provided with the number to be fed, What are these among so many? But had they been able to lift up their eyes as He directed them, and to see the multitudes that should afterward be included within the Gospel call—Could they but have foreseen the spectacle that was to be exhibited at Pentecost, when Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judea, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Asia, Phrygia, and Pamphylia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews and proselytes, Cretes and Arabians—in a word, when the inhabitants of the whole known world should hear, through their representatives collected at Jerusalem, the wonderful works of God, and say, with one voice, Men and Brethren, what shall we do?—how could they have endured the sight, the overwhelming sight, that would have burst upon them?

But, it is strange; it is a fact that may well excite surprise—and, through surprise, lead to some deep and anxious self-inquiry—that the case should remain at present even such as it was then. After eighteen hundred years have passed, during which the Gospel has been spreading itself through the mass, and gradually leavening the lump, the fact is still to be stated as it was even then—The Harvest truly is plenteous, but the Labourers are few: and whether we look at home or abroad—whether we confine our view to our own Canaan, or take a wider glance and sweep over the surface of the globe—one and the same fact is the result of our observation; and the truth which is felt at home is repeated with increasing weight in proportion as we move from the centre. During these eighteen centuries, then, the merciful purpose of God has been, to all appearance, retarded. The Redeemer's Kingdom has been curtailed. His Harvest has not been gathered, through want of Labourers. That travail of His soul, which He rejoiced to see, has not been carried forward; and He must have seen, amidst those fields white already for the harvest, full ears ready to fall to the ground for ripeness, while there was none to collect them. The consideration becomes intensely painful, as we pursue it. We awake from a dream of composure and security, and tremble at the consequences which we may have been incurring. Conscience revives as recollection resumes its office; and, just as the Brethren of Joseph first felt their guilt when they perceived their danger; and they who had lived and slept in unholy calm first cried in the moment of their own distress, We are verily guilty concerning our brother!— so it is easy to imagine a state of things, in which the Christian world may awake to a sense of its responsibility, and stand astonished at the apathy with which the state of the heathen world has been contemplated. For this at least is certain, that during the eighteen centuries which have elapsed since the Gospel first was published, the number of preachers has been inconsiderable, if compared with the number of those who were able to hear, or willing to hear. The work of Evangelization has been carried forward languidly and coldly. Impressions made, have not been improved. The cases are not few where the light, which was once kindled, has been absolutely extinguished and lost. Aggressions on the waste of heathenism have not been pursued as they might have been; and the labours of the first Evangelists seem to have determined a limit for the Kingdom of Christ, and to have traced a boundary, which, till of late, has hardly been advanced, and not unfrequently has been compelled to recede and been withdrawn, instead of being pushed forward and extended by successive acquisitions. During the Apostolic age, we may admit that the power which worked with the preachers of the Gospel supplied the deficiency in their numbers; and the abundant blessing which accompanied their labours made the preaching of one equivalent to that of many. But when that blessing was withheld, or imparted with more of measure, the difference was perceived; and man's insufficiency was seen in the scanty produce that it yielded. It is reasonable to suppose that the whole of the Roman Empire was gone over by the Apostles or Evangelists of the Lord.

We have good grounds for believing that the first generation of the faithful saw the Kingdom of Christ spread to the very limits of the known world; and we know, that wherever the Gospel was preached by the Apostles, it came in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. But we have no reason to believe that the ground thus gained by them was maintained by their successors. We have no reason to believe that those who entered into their labours came with the same Spirit: and we know that they did not come with the same power. The conquest not being carried on and perfected, was nominal, rather than real; and the use of the word "Pagan" shows but too plainly, that while the efforts of the preachers of the Gospel were chiefly employed on the concentrated population of the cities, where there were congregations to encourage zeal, and wealth and feelings to reward it; the inhabitants of the country, the neglected millions who formed the mass of the community, were left, like sheep scattered on the mountains in a dark and gloomy day, the bondmen of the superstitions and ignorance of their forefathers. If Labourers, therefore, were sent into the Harvest, their employment was partial—their number was inadequate. Christianity, in consequence, did not gain its proper hold upon the people. The leaven was hidden in the meal, but the lump was not leavened; and nations which professed the faith of Christ were driven backward and forward by every wind of doctrine, till the root was destroyed, and the life of religion failed: and then, yielding to the pestilential blast, they were overrun by the illusions of the Gnostic heresy, and sank before the power of the Mahomedan invasion.

Such are the facts which seem to prove, that though the Harvest was plenteous, the Labourers were few. The Harvest was plenteous, for the field was the world; and over the length and breadth of that field was the seed of the word scattered by those who went forth from Jerusalem, with the charge to preach the Gospel to every creature. But we dare not say that the Labourers were many. We rather feel—for the evidence of facts seems undeniable—that the successors of the Apostolic preachers did not make up by their numbers for the deficiency in their powers. The Labourers still were few, compared with the expanse before them; and these few were not like their predecessors in the work. Erroneous views of doctrine soon begat divisions; and those divisions produced weakness. Mistaken views of Christianity itself gave a wrong direction to the piety of the age; and men who ought to have been preaching the Gospel were found buried in hermitages and deserts, dead to all the warmth and vitality of the faith which they professed. Of the state of things in these ages we must chiefly judge from the effects recorded. Religion was kept alive; but we can hardly say more. The light shone dimly through the mists by which it was surrounded; and we must rather say, that it was not extinguished, than that it continued to burn. Endowments maintained the existence of a priesthood; and that priesthood still carried the light of Truth in their vessels. All might have been lost, and utter darkness might have resumed its reign, if this had not been so: but that which prevented the light from extinction did not hold it up so as to enlighten others.

In God's merciful providence, a change of dispensation followed. The darkness of the middle ages disappeared, as the mists of the morning are dispersed. The light of Truth broke out. The Sun of Righteousness came forth, rejoicing as a giant to run his course; and we might have thought that nothing should be hid from the heat thereof. The energies of the Reformation seemed sufficient to have evangelized the world; and that power which had broken those chains which the labour of centuries had forged and rivetted on the mind, might have proceeded, flushed with victory, and strengthened by success, to preach deliverance to other captives, by extending to the heathen world the knowledge of the Truth and the influence of the Gospel.

By a singular coincidence, the very period which witnessed the emancipation of Christendom laid open a new hemisphere to the exertions of the Christian world; and we might have thought again that the Church would have recognised the call of God in the enlargement of her opportunities, and would have felt that the discovery of a New World was an invitation to new efforts in the cause of Christ.

Alas! must we confess that this call was neglected—this occasion was lost? Satan, who saw the crisis of his dominion at hand, endeavoured to stay the moment which he was not able to prevent. He sowed divisions in the force which he could not have resisted if combined, and weakened its power by destroying its union.

It thus happened, that those energies which might have evangelized the world were wasted in interminable controversies; and the minds of men were engrossed in discussing the nature of sacraments, or in speculating on the inscrutable decrees of God, while the harvest of the heathen world was perishing on the ground. Nor did the vigour, which this unholy contest engendered in the Christian world, lead to any better results afterward. Controversy may sharpen the intellect, may increase the energy, may assist in clearing the views, and correcting the judgment; but it is not favourable to the higher and holier objects of our Christian calling. If it strengthens zeal, it weakens love. If it gives decision to opinions, it does not give warmth to devotion. Its general tendency is, to withdraw the mind from that which is great and spiritual and incomprehensible, and to fix it on that which is little and narrow, carnal and definite: and the warmth which it engenders, no more resembles that of Christian zeal, than the fire of the volcano resembles that of the meridian sun.

In the fierce civil war of religious opinions which prevailed among Protestants from the era of the Reformation, we may see learning, talent, vigour, exercised; and exercised to an amount and degree which we contemplate with astonishment. But for what purpose—to what end—and with what result? We look back with still greater wonder on the cause, than on the degree of the exertions.

We stand amazed at the pertinacity with which non-essential points were contested or defended. We see ceremonies pressed with a severity which we admit to be unreasonable; and ceremonies rejected with an obstinacy still more unreasonable, still more unjustifiable. We see the professors of the Gospel so absorbed by the imaginary distinctions which separate them from one another, as to forget the great gulph which separates the unbelieving world from Christ; and losing sight of the weightier matters of the Law, while discussing questions of not much more consequence than the tithings of mint, anise, and cummin. Was it for this, we might cry, that they were awakened from the sleep of Popery, and restored to the liberty with which Christ has made us free? Was it for this that the word of Truth was committed to their charge, and the waters of life were opened? Would our Heavenly Master have rejoiced in the spirit which was exhibited among His servants? or were these the labours which He would desire to have promoted by our prayers?

But it is manifest enough, that while the Church was thus occupied within, it could be making no advances without. Its strength was exhausted in controversy; and what was worse, its spirit was changed and affected by the contests in which it had been engaged. A cold, dry, disputatious temper became the character of the Church. If truth was maintained, it was maintained in the abstract, rather than in the application. Religion soon lost its vitality, when it lost its warmth; and ceased to move, when it forgot to love.

It mattered little, therefore, that the contest ceased, if this were the state in which the combatants were left. Engrossed with the subjects of the controversy before them, measuring themselves by themselves, looking merely at those who differed from them, in order to study the weakness of their positions, and to prepare the means of attack; they were incapable of attaining to that higher wisdom which estimates the value of things by the standard of the sanctuary. Their charities became contracted, their views limited, and the waste of heathenism was left without a thought; while all the energies of the human mind were absorbed in subjects which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith. Nor would I here condemn the earnestness with which those controversies were carried on, so much as the bitterness with which they were remembered. The value of the Truth is above all price. For the faith once delivered to the saints we must contend, and earnestly contend: and if the servants of Christ for a time suspended their outward work, and turned to the protection of Truth at home, they merely acted wisely and consistently: for how shall the Gospel be preached effectually, if the Gospel be not known correctly? how shall the people be gathered, if the trumpet give an uncertain sound? or how shall the world be saved, if the Truth, as it is in Jesus, be not fully and fairly stated? For those who thus laboured in the Lord we are thankful! Their exertions in the cause of truth we acknowledge with gratitude, as having strengthened and established the foundation of our common faith. We only mourn over the collapse that followed, when the combatants lingered over the field that had been won, and forgot the purpose to which victory ought to have been turned. The Truth had been established—the essential doctrines of the Gospel vindicated—the scheme of Redemption ascertained and known. Alas! why was this treasure, which had been won with so much pain, so little improved? why were these blessed truths hoarded up, where rust and moth consume, and where thieves break through and steal; when they might have been multiplied to the possessor, by being shared with others? and why was not the word, which Christ had thus freely given to us, broken and distributed among the thousands and millions that were hungering around us?

We come to a period of the Church's history, in which it is easier to explain, than to excuse the principles of action; —a period on which the Church must look back with shame and humiliation, and must remember to its own confusion.

There were some among ourselves, we admit with gratitude, who saw these things as they should have done. The labours of Dr. Bray, the establishment of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, show that there were some whose hearts God had opened to a sense of duty, and who felt for the condition of the heathen world. But what were they among so many? How little did their example operate on the mass of talent, wealth, and power in the kingdom? How weak were their efforts, compared with the demand upon them?

But why have I been following this historical record, and endeavouring to substantiate this chain of evidence as to a fact which we lament? Is it with a view to draw any illusive comparison between the efforts of the present day, and the supineness of by-gone ages; and thus to flatter those who hear me at the expense of our forefathers? Alas, my Brethren, it is not so! for considering the difference in our positions, the difference between the knowledge which prevails now and the ignorance on these matters which prevailed then—between the Missionary resources possessed by the Church when struggling for existence, and those which are possessed by the Church when come to the full maturity of strength—between the nature of the obligation when Missionary objects were first named, and the state of the heathen world first noticed; and the obligation which presses on those who, like ourselves, have admitted the duty in its fullest sense, and have been enabled to guage the depth of that moral wretchedness which belongs to heathenism—considering in this way the difference between their position and ours, I hardly know whether the languor of the Church at present be not more culpable than the inactivity of the Church then; and whether there be not more reason to wonder at the indifference which prevails among ourselves upon the subject, than at the silence which existed then.

Our ancestors did little, we admit, for the relief of the heathen world. But if they did little, they knew little. That they felt the duty, the language of our Liturgy proves beyond a doubt; but they had neither the opportunity nor the means of practising it;—and unpractised duties soon pass into the list of truths which are admitted and forgotten. But in their case these feelings were not drawn out; the facts were not brought home to them. They could not pity sorrows which they had not seen. The imagination was not assisted by the description of eye-witnesses. And their attention was so strongly drawn to the wants of their own household, that they thought not of those who were living in utter destitution.

If I turn, then, from their situation to ours, I am overwhelmed by the comparison! What could have been given, which we have not received? The Church, instead of struggling for existence, has for more than a century been resting in peaceful establishment. Rich, and abounding in goods herself, she might have been sowing beside all waters, and been preparing the means of an abundant Harvest, had she but been mindful of her duty, and diligent in improving her opportunities. The commerce of the country, extending to every climate, its colonial empire spreading over the surface of the globe, have included every facility for obtaining information, and for imparting instruction. We have not been left to infer the condition of the heathen world from abstract views of man's nature, or to collect it from any record of ancient days; but the narrative has come to us repeated by the testimony of eye-witnesses; and the cry of those who are ready to perish has, almost literally, entered into our ears.

Our efforts, also, have not been checked by the difficulty of accomplishing that which we might wish to do. We have not been compelled to do nothing, from the despair of being able to do any thing effectual. A system, an organization of plan, has been accomplished, which renders every effort available, and carries with undeviating accuracy every mite that is given, to the treasury of the Lord.

Our resources again are enlarged in proportion to our knowledge and our facilities. The wealth of the country is the burden under which it groans. Capital is fretting for employment. Men's minds are distracted as to the way in which they shall lay up the goods they have collected; and riches, which might defray the means for evangelizing the world—which might send the messengers of Salvation to every quarter of the globe, and bring back a rich freightage of blessings in return—are accumulated, to the destruction of the owners' peace, and the aggravation of national responsibility.

The man who surveys, at the present moment, the resources possessed by this country—the channels opened—the calls addressed to her—may well be excused in saying, that a dispensation of the Gospel is committed to her. Nay, more: for the gifts and callings of God are without repentance;—and He, who does nothing in vain, gives nothing which He does not expect to see duly and properly improved; not merely is a dispensation of the Gospel committed unto us, but, by that sequence which prevails in all the gifts of God, and couples duty with privilege, the necessity of improvement with the possession of the gift, the dispensation committed must be acted on; and circumstanced as this country is, woe unto it, if it do not preach the Gospel!—Woe unto it!—for the talent which has been entrusted, if not employed, if not increased by use, if not turned to the extension of our Heavenly Master's glory, shall be taken from us, and given to another. That light of Truth in which we now rejoice—that pure and undefiled religion, the undisturbed possession of which is now the real glory of this land, the substance as well as the security of our peace—shall be clouded, dimmed, or darkened, if it be not used to enlighten others. Our commercial resources, the springs of that deceitful wealth in which we are rejoicing, shall be dried up and disappear, if not made subservient to the extension of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. For how can commerce flourish, if confidence be not felt? and how can confidence be felt, if no principle be avowed on which confidence may be claimed? Our colonial empire, that zone of influence by which the globe is girded—which realizes for this country, more than was the boast of empires of antiquity —what is it, or what may it be expected to be, if not knit and compacted together by that which every joint supplieth, where Christian love circulates through a Christianized community? What will it be, if God do not unite those, who form parts of a common empire, and do not make every part contribute to the welfare and prosperity of the mass? What will it be, but our weakness—not our strength? our danger—not our security? In a word, if God withdraw the influence which now, like the power of gravitation, keeps every atom in its proper place, and secures the coherence of the whole; what may the empire of this country be found, but a vast unwieldy mass, exposed to wounds, accessible to inroads at points too numerous to be mentioned, and incapable of bringing its common strength to bear on any common object, from the want of any common interest to bind and unite the whole together?

Alas! may not the time come, when, bereft of all which now constitutes her power and swells her pride, this country may sit alone, and mourn like Jerusalem, because, like Jerusalem, she knew not the time of her visitation? May not a time come, when her colonial possessions shall be seen dropping off one by one, like the ripe figs before the tree is shaken; and dissolving, at their will, a connexion, which has not been binding in its tenure, because it was not sanctified by the manner in which it was contracted.

May not a time come, when her commercial resources shall be smitten; when her ships shall lie rotting in her ports; and when she will recollect with anguish the opportunities that were once possessed of uniting commercial enterprise with Christian charity—of conferring real benefits, benefits not to be forgotten, on the countries with which she traded; and shall mourn over the time, when fleets went forth for every other purpose but that of extending the knowledge of the Gospel; and every want, of which man is conscious, was studiously anticipated, except those which belong to the soul?

Alas! I feel that I need not borrow a Prophet's office, to denounce this possibility. I may refer you to the records of History, to show its certainty. I may refer you to that mysterious notice in the Prophet Ezekiel, where the greatness of Tyre is described, and the fall of Tyre is predicted, in language so peculiar, that we are tempted to think that the fulfilment is yet to be expected. I may refer you to the history of all the states, whether of ancient or of modern times, who have possessed for a period the supremacy of commerce; but who have invariably lost a supremacy which they did not employ to God's honour. I may refer you to these; and might ask, in what do we differ, or how can we hope that we shall be exempt from the consequences of that rivalry which ruined them? If our season of prosperity has been extended beyond theirs, what has been the reason? Simply, my Brethren, this: that as the barren fig-tree was spared at the intercession of him who dressed it, so WE are spared to exhibit on a larger scale the goodness or the severity of God;—His goodness, if we thankfully improve our opportunities, rise up to the call of circumstances, and, proving ourselves good stewards of the manifold grace of God, become the instruments of His mercy in evangelizing the world;—or His severity, if, dead to all the duties we owe to God as well as man—dead to every feeling but that which is base and sordid and selfish—we pursue commerce without considering the purpose for which the reciprocity of wants was instituted; accumulate wealth, without recollecting Him who gave us power to obtain it; and determine to seek nothing but our own advantage. Under these circumstances, that our decay is inevitable seems capable of demonstration to all who admit the being of a God. The higher our previous elevation, the greater, the more awful, will be our fall; and the history of the British Empire, and the history of British Commerce, may remain on record, the last warning given to the world of the danger of misapplying God's gifts, and of neglecting to fulfil His will. In future centuries, Christian travellers may come from other ends of the world, and meditate on this truth, on the very spot where we are assembled. The judgment of Tyrus is read in the present state of Tyre. The traveller who sees the fisherman's net spread upon the rock where Tyre once raised her palaces, and hears no sound but that of the dashing wave on that shore which used to echo with the shout of her mariners, does not derive, from what he sees, so strong or so affecting a lesson as may hereafter be learned on this spot. Future travellers may moralize on the desolation of this mighty city; and while they see the river stagnating amidst ruins, and a wilderness extending over a space which now teems with population, they may learn, with a more solemn application, the danger that there is for states, as well as for individuals, in not knowing the time of their visitation. They may turn to documents which shall prove, to their astonishment, the immense resources that were once possessed by England—shall trace, through historical records, the process of our decay, the apparent causes of our failure—and then shall turn to that Bible which we now possess, to explain the mystery. Yes, my Brethren, of all that you see around you at present, the Bible may alone survive, to regulate their inquiries. The Bible shall survive, though heaven and earth shall pass away. While the Bible survives, truth will be known on earth—wisdom will be within the reach of man; and while men read in that Bible, Them that honour me, I will honour; and they that despise me shall be lightly esteemed; they will need no other comment, in order to understand the mysterious desolation which they shall behold.

But it is not to states or to kingdoms, but to individuals, that we preach. The message that was sent to Nineveh was delivered in the ears of its inhabitants; and we must take care that individuals do not evade the application of truth, by regarding it as addressed to a community. That which is the duty of the state, is the duty of the people composing it. What we call public duty is but the aggregate of private obligations—the work which must be done by the united body, because it cannot be adequately performed by the single members. Those, then, who share in what are called the privileges of the state, its light, its wealth, its freedom, are included in the responsibility of the state. A dispensation of the Gospel is committed to them—a dispensation which cannot be evaded—which must be met—which must be satisfied; and woe unto every one who does not, according to his means, preach the Gospel! And, alas! how many there are involved in this responsibility, who still seem unconscious of the claim; and think we bring some strange thing before them, when we name the wants and the claims of the heathen world!

The world spreads its cold and chilling influence through the Church which it surrounds. Religion itself is tinctured by the prevailing selfishness of the age. Because iniquity abounds, the love of many waxes cold. Satan is hindering, by a thousand devices, the progress of the Kingdom of Christ; and stirs up opposition to distract, and jealousies to divide the force, which ought to be moving on with steady and resistless course against him.

It is not, then, a fact which I am labouring to ascertain and prove, but a principle which I am deducing from facts that seem accumulated beyond the reach of doubt. The Harvest HAS been great, and the Labourers HAVE BEEN few; and I feel that no one can deny the fact. But the question that follows, and the question that must now be pressed, is, the cause of this disproportion. Why are the Labourers few, when the Lord of the Harvest has declared that the fields are white already to the Harvest? Why has this field alone been neglected, when every other field, where harvests were to be reaped, has had its full supply?—The reason, I think, has been already brought to light. It rests on deductions from matters of fact, which are too numerous and too obvious to be denied; but I must add, it may also be inferred from the language employed by our Lord himself.

We have traced the Church's defaulture through the ages which have elapsed; and we have seen the Church falling short of her duty in this respect, simply because she came short of her standard in general. We have seen the Gospel exhibited in a variety of different forms; but in all, deteriorated, perverted, mutilated. We have seen the essential principles of Christianity merged in ceremonies, lost in abstractions; its spirit mistaken, or misapplied; —and the Church's failure has been explained, though it could not be excused, by the errors in which it has been entangled. But we are not left to this solution only. The language of which our Lord makes use, supplies a deep and mysterious notice, as to the cause of this evil, and the means of its reparation. He states the fact as it existed then, The Harvest truly is plenteous, and the Labourers are few;—but then He adds the resolution to which we ought to come: Pray ye therefore the Lord of the Harvest, that He would send forth Labourers into His Harvest.

Was this, then, we might say, to be the resource? Was His own hand straitened, that He could not help? Might not the Lord have given the word, and great should have been the company of the preachers? Might not He, who called light out of darkness by a word, have repeated the work of creation; and formed, in the same manner and by the same means, a new heaven and a new earth, in which should dwell righteousness? That He might have done so, is certain. That He did it not, is clear: and that He adopted a different course, is manifest from the words before us.

He promises no personal interference. He offers no miraculous help. He simply commands the prayers of the Church for the purpose of the Church's enlargement; and employs these ordinary means for accomplishing this extraordinary result. And why was this? We must suppose, that it implies some necessary connexion between the Church's state and the Church's growth. It doubtless was to show us, that the reality of our strength consists in our dependence upon God; that the work is only to be done through the power of God; and that the conversion of the Church itself is to be the means of converting the world to His dominion. He wishes us to see, that a Church wrapped up in form and ceremony—and a Church secure in moral self-sufficiency—and a Church torn to pieces by divisions—and a Church embittered by controversial feelings—will never be a Church of Missionary influence; for it never will be a Church of spiritual and persevering Prayer;—and the Prayer of the Church is named as the means of the Church's enlargement, because the union of Prayer supplies the surest test of the spirit in the Church itself.

It is thus our Lord supplies an answer to the question which we have been asking,—why the Labourers are yet so few, when the Harvest is so large. He says, Ye have not, because ye ask not; or ye ask and receive not, because ye ask amiss.

If our prayers be hindered by divisions among those who, as heirs together of the Grace of Life, ought to be of one mind—if men be found seeking their own things, and not the things of Jesus Christ—if the warmth of feeling be absorbed by the interests of sect or party—if we bring straitened spirits, cold desires, to the Throne of Grace when we implore a blessing on the Missionary work—can we wonder if the blessing be suspended, and the work do not prosper? can we wonder that the Harvest remains ungathered, and that the Labourers are few, when the state of the Heathen world is thus coldly considered? or that God should withhold the help, which He has in readiness to give, while we thus show that we are not prepared to receive it?

O, my Brethren, when will the Church awake to a full sense of her responsibilities and her duties? When will she feel the glorious charge that is laid upon her; and rise up in unity of spirit and in the bond of peace, to accomplish the Lord's work by the force of united intercession?

When shall we see her, laying aside every weight, and the sin that does most easily beset her, running with patience the race that is set before her, looking to Jesus, the author and finisher of her faith; and looking to Him alone?

It is not for us to know the times or the seasons which the Father hath put in His own power; but this we may venture to say, that that time of which we speak will be the season for which we look: and just in proportion as we feel that that spirit prevails among ourselves, may we think that the day is at hand, and that the blessing will be poured out among us.

If the wants of the heathen world were generally felt and generally admitted—if in every place where two or three were met together in the name of the Lord, this formed a part of their supplication—if in every house, where pure hands were lifted up, the same petition were urged—can we doubt that the supplication would be effective—can we think that the answer would be long delayed?

Were this the Church's habit, would not the Church's state be changed? Would not the cry, Here am I, send me! be heard on every side? Should we not see parents coveting this distinction for their children; and dedicating them to the service of the Lord, as Missionaries, as they now devote them to services of a very different character? Would not the rising talent of our Universities be consecrated to this work, and the science of Europe be made the instrument of preparing the way for the Gospel? Might not a movement like that of the Crusades be expected, which should precipitate the religious zeal of this country on those regions which had been made the objects of our commiseration and our prayer? And can we doubt, that, in that case, a career of glory would expand itself before this country, compared with which, all her former achievements would pale and grow dim. A course of triumphs might be anticipated, not destitute of danger, not unpurchased by much of individual suffering—a course, in which the combatants might be in deaths oft, but where the contest should not be with confused noise of the warrior, and garments rolled in blood, but with burning and fuel of fire. A course of conquests should be begun, marked only by the thanksgivings of the conquered; where the field of battle should return no sound but that of praise; and the invading army should be swollen by the force which it overcame; where the efforts made should not exhaust, but strengthen the spirit within; and the power which made the conquest should consolidate the dominion. External activity should be rewarded by internal peace; and that knowledge, which, while retained and unemployed, is apt to ferment and to grow bitter, should be saved from corruption by the way in which it would be employed.

My Brethren, before the vastness of this prospect my mind sinks, while I contemplate it. The destinies of the world seem devolved upon the men of this generation. Such opportunities, as are possessed at present, were never possessed before. Doors are opened which have hitherto been closed against us; and power seems added in proportion to our day.

The whole heathen world, awakening from the sleep of superstition and of ignorance, rising up in the attitude of inquiry, and addressing that inquiry to us, exhibits no other appearance than that of a field white already to the Harvest; and the abundance of the offer upbraids the slowness of the Labourer who is called to enter into it. In truth, can we see the millions of India rapidly divesting themselves of the baser superstitions of idolatry—and borrowing light enough, from what they see in us, to affect a simple Theism—and not recognise the opportunity which is offered, of presenting the Gospel to their acceptance? Shall we hear that they have cast away their idols from a deep conviction of their vileness and impotence; and shall we not teach them to know the one true God, and Jesus Christ, whom He has sent, which is life eternal? Shall we awaken them from the sleep of ignorance by the light of secular knowledge, and not add that better light which shall guide them into peace?

Can we hear of that silent but extensive work of Grace which has been manifested at Kishnaghur, and not acknowledge the hand of the Lord in the work, and the call of the Lord in the movement? It is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes. O my Brethren! if those holy and devoted men who first entered on this work, who bore the heat and burden of the day—if they could behold what you behold—if Brown, if Buchanan, if Martyn, could see the present state of that India over which they prayed and wept in such earnestness of supplication—if they could see the mass heaving with the leaven, and the elements of universal change developing themselves in that population which seemed to be as unchangeable as the mountains—what would be their hopes, their aspirations, their language, at the present moment? They have laboured, and we have entered into their labours; but what shall be said of us, if the opportunity which is offered be lost, and lost through our supineness; if the Lord's work be not done, or only done deceitfully; and we allow that Harvest to perish which we seem specially commissioned to gather? I dare not contemplate the possibility of such a case. The curse of Meroz dwells upon my memory; and I feel that that nation must stand convicted of hopeless apathy and unpardonable indifference, where such means can be possessed, such a call be heard, and no corresponding effort made.

O my Brethren, ye that make mention of the Lord, keep not silence! give Him no rest, till He establish and make Jerusalem a praise in the earth! Let the cry of them that are ready to perish enter into your ears, and stir you up to fresh exertions. On you depends the progress of a work, which not only includes the destiny of our own Church, but which extends to the whole race of man. Your prayers may urge forward a consummation which shall decide the happiness of millions of our fellow-creatures, and secure to us the privilege of being the agents in producing it.

What then remains, but that we pray the Lord of the Harvest to send forth Labourers into the harvest; and that each of us devoutly wait for the call that may decide his course or direct his way? In such a frame, we shall not wait in vain. The prayer of the Church shall not be overlooked. The purpose of the Lord shall be accomplished. Then shall the earth yield her increase; and God, even our own God, shall give us His blessing. God shall bless us, and all the ends of the world shall fear Him.

REPORT,

&c. &c.

INTRODUCTION.

THE Committee, in entering on their Report of the Proceedings of the past Year, feel that it is in no ordinary degree incumbent on them to invite the subscribers and friends of the Society to unite in one common voice of praise and thanksgiving to God. Hitherto hath the Lord helped us. He has granted new tokens of His favour to the Society; He has caused His work to prosper in the hands of His servants; and in the measure of success which He has vouchsafed, He gives an earnest of yet greater blessings in reserve, which are to be asked for with earnest prayer, and expected with lively hope. With mingled praises then for the past, and supplications for the future, the Committee proceed to report the Fortieth Year of the Society's Proceedings.

PATRONAGE.

During the year, the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry accepted the office of Vice-Patron of the Society; the Rev. Dr. Cotton, Provost of Worcester College, Oxford, that of Vice-President; and the Rev. Thomas Fisher, the Rev. John Hensman, and the Hon. and Rev. Baptist W. Noel, M.A., that of Honorary Life Governors.

DECEASE OF MISSIONARIES.

In the course of the year, the following individuals have, in the all-wise providence of God, been called from their labours:—Mrs. Haslam, wife of the Rev. John F. Haslam, who died of consumption, at Cotta, Ceylon, shortly after her confinement, on the 24th of March 1839;—Mrs. Wilson, wife of Mr. John A. Wilson, who died, after severe suffering, at Tauranga, New Zealand, on the 23d of November;—Mrs. Adley, wife of the Rev. William Adley, who died at Nellore, Ceylon, on the 29th of June;—Mrs. Schneider, wife of the Rev. Frederick E. Schneider, who died of cholera, at Benares, on the 28th of July;—and Mr. James R. White, who died of fever, at Sierra Leone, on the 12th of February last, a few weeks after his arrival there.

RETURN HOME OF MISSIONARIES.

The Rev. James F. Schön, and the Rev. Christian F. Schlenker, left Sierra Leone on the 17th of March 1839, on a visit home; and arrived in London on the 12th of June.

The Rev. Frederick Bultmann left Sierra Leone in April 1839, on a visit home; and arrived in London on the 16th of July. Mr. John Warburton, and Mrs. Warburton, left the same place, on account of ill health, on the 21st of May 1839; and arrived in London on the 30th of July. Mr. Henry P. Stedman, in consequence of failure of health, and Mr. Henry Townsend, on a visit home, left Sierra Leone on the 14th of January; and landed at Hastings on the 14th of March.

The Rev. Christopher F. Schlienz left Malta on the 16th of June, for Würtemberg, for the recovery of his health. After some stay there, he arrived in London on the 2d of October. He left London on the 23d of April, in restored health, to resume his labours in Malta.

The Rev. Charles W. Isenberg left Shoa, Abyssinia, in November last, for Malta, on his way home, in order to confer with the Committee respecting his future proceedings in that Mission; and arrived in London on the 30th of April.

The Rev. Samuel Ridsdale, with Mrs. Ridsdale, embarked at Allepie, on the 14th of March 1839, in consequence of ill health; and arrived in London on the 17th of September.

The Rev. Charles C. Mengé left Bombay on the 8th of August last, on a visit home; and arrived in London on the 28th of November.

The Rev. James Selkirk left Point de Galle on the 23d of January, on a visit home; and arrived in London on the 11th of June.

The Rev. David Seddon, and Mrs. Seddon, left Kingston on the 13th of March 1839, on account of ill health; and arrived in London on the 16th of May. The Rev. Charles Carter left Barbados on the 29th of August, on a visit home; and landed at Dartmouth on the 10th of October. Mr. Francis Redford, and Mrs. Redford, left Trinidad on the 23d of January, in consequence of ill health; and arrived in London on the 25th of March.

DEPARTURES AND ARRIVALS OF MISSIONARIES.

West-Africa Mission.—The Rev. James F. Schön and Mrs. Schön, the Rev. Christian F. Schlenker and Mrs. Schlenker, the Rev. Frederick Bultmann and Mrs. Bultmann, the Rev. Ebenezer Collins, Mr. Nathaniel Denton, Mr. William Isaac Murphy, Mr. James R. White and Mrs. White, Miss Middleton, and Miss Ridler, sailed from Gravesend on the 25th of November, for Sierra Leone; and arrived there on the 16th of January.

Mediterranean Mission.—The Rev. Samuel Gobat, and Mrs. Gobat—their services having been transferred, in consequence of health, from Abyssinia to Malta—left Beuggen on the 3d of November, for that Station; and arrived at Malta on the 29th of the same month.

North-India Mission.—The Rev. Charles H. Blümhardt, having, on his expulsion from Abyssinia, been appointed to the North-India Mission, left Malta on the 7th of April 1839, for Calcutta; and arrived there in August. The Rev. James Innes and Mrs. Innes, the Rev. Charles Theophilus Krauss, and the Rev. Christian William Lipp, sailed from Portsmouth on the 20th of June last, for Calcutta; and arrived there on the 25th of September. The Rev. John Philip H. Mengé embarked for the same place, at Portsmouth, on the 19th of February.

The Rev. C. G. Pfander, and the Rev. F. A. Kreiss, formerly employed in Missionary labours at Shusha, in connexion with the Bâsle Missionary Society, having proceeded to India subsequently to the breaking up of that Mission in consequence of the opposition which it encountered, have been, at the recommendation of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, received into connexion with the Church Missionary Society, and stationed at Agra.

South-India Mission.—The Rev. Foster Rogers and Mrs. Rogers, and the Rev. Stephen Hobbs, embarked at Portsmouth on the 27th of June, for Madras; and arrived there on the 13th of September. The Rev. John Chapman, the Rev. John Hawksworth and Mrs. Hawksworth, and Miss Garrett, embarked at Portsmouth on the 19th of February, for the same Mission.

Ceylon Mission.—Mr. J. A. Bulmer arrived at Cotta on the 20th of May last; and the Rev. Francis W. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor, at the same place, on the 1st of July. The Rev. Joseph Knight and Mrs. Knight embarked at London on the 17th of January, for Malta, on his return overland to Ceylon; and reached Malta on the 6th of February.

Australasia Mission.—The Rev. Richard Taylor, after a protracted stay in New South-Wales, landed at Paihía on the 10th of March 1839. Mr. John Mason and Mrs. Mason, having suffered shipwreck off St. Jago on the 24th of April 1839, embarked in the Bay, on board another vessel, for New Zealand, and arrived at Sydney on the 25th of July. The Rev. Robert Burrows and Mrs. Burrows sailed from Gravesend, on the 21st of July, for New Zealand; and arrived at Sydney on the 8th of December.

West-Indies' Mission.—Mr. Edmund Christian embarked at Gravesend on the 29th of November, for Demerara; and sailed from the Downs on the 4th of December: he arrived at Demerara on the 3d of February.

North-West-America Mission.—The Rev. John Smithurst sailed from Gravesend on the 2d of June, for North-West America; arrived at York Fort on the 15th of August, and at the Indian Settlement on the 20th of September.

ORDINATION OF STUDENTS.

The number of the Society's Candidates who have been admitted to Holy Orders during the past year is twenty-six —eight to Priest's Orders, and six to Deacon's Orders, by the Bishop of London; one to Priest's Orders, by the Bishop of Rochester, and two to Deacon's Orders, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, on Letters Dimissory from the Bishop of London; one to Deacon's Orders, by the Bishop of Calcutta; one to Priest's Orders, and three to Deacon's Orders, by the Bishop of Madras; one to Priest's Orders, and one to Deacon's Orders, by the Bishop of Australia; and two to Deacon's Orders, by the Bishop of Jamaica.

INSTITUTION.

It affords the Committee strong satisfaction, to report that the progress of the Institution continues to be marked by very favourable results. The Principal, in his Annual Report on the Institution, noticing favourable circumstances in the conduct of the Students, remarks—

Another striking and most satisfactory indication of Christian Principle is the cheerful submission of the will, as evinced by the consistent observance of every known regulation. In no case has it been necessary to interpose a single word that has been authoritative in its tone. A monitory, or at most an expostulatory remark, has sufficed to maintain a discipline of no ordinary strictness.

Under the head of Missionary Zeal, the Principal observes:—

It will be borne in mind, that, from the very nature of the case, the thoughts and attention of the pupils are more immediately engaged in those studies which are the means to the attainment of the great end. There is, however, satisfactory reason for believing that the end is steadily kept in view; and that the zeal of the Missionary Candidates gains in the solidity and maturity of principle even more than it may lose in effervescence.

The Principal adds:—

On the whole, there is one comment on the foregoing Report, which the Principal feels it his obvious duty to make. It is this—that while the immediate debt of gratitude for the general state of the Institution is due unto God alone, very much is instrumentally attributable to the system which the experience of his predecessor had organized and bequeathed, and to the influence exerted by the Senior Students who were trained under that system.

Eighteen Students have been received into the Institution during the year, and twenty-seven still remain under preparation in it.

NUMBER OF MISSIONARY LABOURERS.

In the course of the past year have been sent forth seventeen Ordained Missionaries and five Catechists; including seven Ordained Missionaries who have returned to their Stations. Twelve of these being married, the total number of individuals sent out is thirty-four.

The total number of Labourers at present engaged in the service of the Society, as Ordained Missionaries, Catechists, or Artisans, amounts to One hundred and eighty-six; exclusive of Native Teachers, and the Wives of the Married Labourers.

MISSIONS.

WEST-AFRICA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1804.

Mission Establishment:

7 Missionaries.	1 Translator.
9 European Catechists.	24 Native Teachers of all Classes.

THIS earliest of all the Society's Missions continues to enjoy tokens of the favour and blessing of the Most High.

CHRISTIAN INSTITUTION.

There are now 19 Students in the Christian Institution. "Many of them," it is reported, "are formed characters, and sincere in their profession. I trust that we shall be able to raise up a faithful seed of them, both for the Colony, and for the services beyond the Colony."

The value of the Institution is appreciated more and more each year. The prospect of carrying the exertions of the Society beyond the limits of the Colony, as will be noticed in a subsequent part of this Report, renders it peculiarly important to secure the advantages of a well-trained body of Native Teachers, who may be ready to contribute their effective services as openings shall be providentially made for their entrance on the wide sphere of usefulness in the Interior.

Progress of Ministerial Labours.

The Missionaries have laboured diligently, both in maintaining Public Worship, and in examining Candidates for Baptism and the Communion.

District Visiting.

For the purpose of training the Natives to habits of spiritual activity, the Missionaries have, more or less, adopted the system of District Visiting. The Rev. J. U. Graf reports, that he had selected thirteen men and four women from among the most consistent Members of the Church, and assigned to them separate Districts of his Parish. The following statements will show some of the results of their inquiries into the state of the people around them. Mr. Graf relates, Jan. 16, 1839—

I met the District Visitors, and gathered from them a good deal of information. The following are some of their remarks: The people generally promise to come to the church by-and-bye—not unlike Felix of old. Some promise to attend on the Means of Grace with the opening of the new church: to which the Visitors reply, that it may then be too late for them. Others wanted time to make up their minds whether they should go to church or not. One man said that he was far too old now: it was not worth while for him to begin to go to church now. Some said that they had often made up their minds to go to church, but Satan had always prevented them from going. One man, a superstitious idolater, related that he had, one Lord's Day, been on his way to church; but having met the favourite snake which he is accustomed to worship and to call to his house by charms, he had taken it as a bad omen, and returned home. I was highly pleased with the seasonable and just answers which the Visitors had given to those whom they had visited.

The need of constant vigilance, however, on the part of their Pastor, was soon perceptible. Some of the Visitors becoming lax in their attention to these new duties assigned them, Mr. Graf remarks, July 26, 1839—

This affords another proof of the weak and infantile state of African Converts in any thing of a spiritual nature. Unless constantly watched over, kindly nursed, and faithfully admonished, they will very soon fall into carelessness, formality, and worldly security; from the simple fact, that their uncultivated minds have not yet obtained that ripeness of decision sufficient to set up a certain religious standard, from which never to depart; or, in other words, to act from principle in Religion.

Effects of Education.

Of the good feeling manifested among the young scholars in the Village Schools, the following instance is related by one of the Catechists:—

July 19, 1839—This day I put thirty of the children to read the New Testament. I sold to the children last evening, and before school this morning, twenty-four Bibles and Testaments: the parents most willingly give their last farthing to purchase Bibles and Testaments for their children. I have also been highly pleased to-day with the generous feeling of some of the children toward one of their fellow-scholars, who has neither father nor mother, and could not purchase a Testament for himself, though he had made sufficient improvement to read it. I took the boy by the hand, and led him to two classes, and said to the boys, "My dear children, this boy has neither father nor mother, and is not able to buy a Testament to read with the other boys in the class: now, if you love him, as that hymn which you learnt last week teaches you 'to love one another,' then you will show your love by giving him a halfpenny or a farthing each toward purchasing a Testament." All looked very sympathetically at me, and said, "Sir, I will give one copper." "I will give another," was the answer from all; and in five minutes I received twenty-four halfpence, enough to purchase a Testament for the poor boy.

It is related also, concerning the benefit of the Sunday Schools, by one of the Catechists, March 18, 1839—

Our Sunday School is in a most prosperous condition. I have received ninety-seven adults and apprentices into it during the past quarter, the majority of whom had never been under any Christian instruction previous to their entering the Sunday School. I rejoice to see the proficiency which some of these people make in reading. One poor woman, fifty years of age, whom I received two months ago into the school, knew not a letter of the Alphabet when I first admitted her; but now she can read the Primer well, and will shortly be able to read the New Testament. The people, also, are regular in their attendance at school on the Lord's Day.

No less encouraging is our Day School. A larger number of children have been promoted to higher classes this quarter than in any preceding one since I have been at Hastings.

Missionary Meetings.

Regular Missionary Meetings are held by the Labourers in Sierra Leone, both for the purpose of giving information, and of exciting an interest in the cause of the Gospel. Mr. Peyton thus describes one of them:—

Nov. 4, 1839—The Monthly Missionary Meeting has been numerously attended this evening; more so than on any former occasion of the kind. Three hundred and twenty-six individuals were present; and many of them seemed to take great pleasure in what was read and spoken to them of the progress of Missions in other parts of the globe. Many of the Natives who did not bring their pence and halfpence, brought them to my house after the conclusion of the Meeting. The Collection has been greater than any before.

The total Contributions raised in aid of the Society are a proof of the effect of these Meetings. The Rev. J. W. Weeks, writing from Regent, July 20, 1839, remarks—

With sincere pleasure I remit a larger sum this year than the last, from the Sierra-Leone Auxiliary Church Missionary Society; namely, the sum of 73*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*

Native Languages.

The Missionaries continue to prosecute the cultivation of some of the Native Dialects of the Countries adjacent to the Colony.

While in England last year, Mr. Schön committed to type, as specimens of the Sherbro' Language, a few chapters of St. Matthew's Gospel, some Parables of our Lord, and a Vocabulary of about a thousand words.

Mr. W. C. Thomson has persevered with success in his translations into the Timmanee Dialect. He reports, in June 1839—

During the quarter now closed, my attention has been chiefly devoted to the improvement and arrangement of my Timmanee and English Dictionary; and I have great pleasure in now laying before you the first volume, in a shape that I trust will be found convenient and easy to use as a book of reference. At the same time, the general minuteness of the analysis of the words, and the familiar mode in which they are illustrated by easy phrases in which they occur, will, it is hoped, enable any one to acquire a tolerably correct knowledge of the language and its pronunciation.

And again:—

Sept. 1839—I have much pleasure in being enabled to lay before you a Second Volume of my Timmanee Dictionary. It does not indeed contain the whole of my remaining materials; but this arises from their having greatly exceeded my previous calculation of a work of two volumes.

The language being sufficiently fixed for the purpose of Religious Worship, Mr. Thomson regularly so uses it, both at Freetown and in the Interior. He relates, June 1839—

On the afternoon of Saturday the 27th of April, I went over to see my friends at Yongoroo; and was welcomed by them, as always before, with the most cordial affection on the part of both old and young. The children especially seemed rejoiced to see me once more, and anxiously inquired when I was likely to come among them. We had Service on the afternoon of the day following, Lord's Day; when we had a good attendance—about 60.

And at Freetown, he writes, June 25, 1839—

Our Timmanee Meetings on the Lord's-Day Evenings are still well attended; and, at the earnest request of some who cannot conveniently come out on these evenings, I have commenced a Wednesday-Evening Meeting. The great desire for books is still unsatisfied, and the want of them is felt to be a great drawback.

The effect of Mr. Thomson's Timmanee Translations is thus described by an individual who has long been resident in that country. On his reading them to the Natives, he relates:—

saying it was "A treih tra bunna," "a great thing;" or rather, "These are great things." As regards the Translation of Watts's Catechism, and the Prayers and Hymns contained in your little book, which you had the kindness to send—I can understand the greater part of them, and I believe so would any Timmanee to whom they were plainly read. I can scarcely describe the effect produced on myself by the little hymn "Come to Jesus," the first time I heard it sung in Timmanee. My heart filled, and my eyes overflowed, as I looked up to God, that the time might soon come when His high praises, through Jesus Christ, would be sung by the Timmanees in their own language.

Freetown Church.

In Freetown, the Committee have the pleasure to report that the Mission Church, formerly called Gibraltar Chapel, which was blown down in 1838 by a hurricane, has been rebuilt. The foundation-stone was laid by His Excellency the Governor, in the presence of nearly all the Members of the Mission. The importance of this Church is thus stated by Mr. Kissling, Aug. 10, 1839:—

> What a delight it was, both to the Minister and people, to assemble in the Society's Church, though yet unfinished, dry and comfortable in the heaviest torrents of rain; and, above all, to see faces from its neighbourhood who had never attended a place of Divine Worship before! I could not refrain from shedding tears of gratitude to our gracious God and Father, who had so far prospered the long-cherished wish of erecting a substantial building for Divine Service and School in this part of Freetown. Heathens and Aku Mahomedans living in this district have promised to attend our Service—some of the former have already made their promise good—and to send their children to school as soon as it shall be opened; which will be in a short time, when the galleries and pulpit are completed.

Want of Churches.

The want of additional churches has become urgent: several of those hitherto occupied have fallen into decay, so that in the rainy season it is not practicable for the congregations to assemble. The provision of Places of Worship in the Colony for the Liberated Africans was undertaken by the Government, when the Committee engaged on their part to provide Teachers. The present deficiency of accommodation for Public Worship is the more to be regretted, as it not only deprives great numbers of the people of the benefit of that ordinance, but in many cases seriously exposes the health of the Missionary by the dilapidated state of the buildings.

Hindrances to the Progress of the Colony.

The condition of the rising generation in Sierra Leone is a source of anxiety to the Missionaries. It is thus described by Mr. Young, July 31, 1839:—

A few of our Youths, who have received an ordinary education in our Schools, are prepared to work their way in society, if they could obtain employment; but there are neither manufactures nor handicraft trades to employ them.

The consequence of this state of things is, that, unable to turn their labour to a profitable account, they form idle and vicious habits, and thus hinder, instead of promoting the progress of civilization in the Colony.

A further drawback on the progress of the Colony is found in the frequent accessions of Captured Slaves brought to Sierra Leone. Whenever this cause shall cease to operate, by the total extinction of Slavery, improvements may be expected to advance with steady pace. The following remark by Mr. Kissling, Dec. 25, 1838, strikingly explains the shifting character of the population, in its present state:—

Not fewer than 13,000 have been registered at Sierra Leone during three years. Such an increase of our population has, of course, a retrograding influence on the state of civilization and the spread of Gospel Truth in the Colony, as the new comers naturally bring with them demoralizing and heathenish practices. Our Labourers, therefore, need to be doubled, in order to preserve what good has already been done, and to extend our exertions to a wider field of labour*.

Your Committee remark, moreover, with deep concern, that while the work of the Gospel is clearly advancing in the Colony, yet the Powers of Darkness are no less manifestly in great activity. The very extensive prevalence of Idolatry is attested by the Missionaries generally; while the increase of Mahomedanism is so alarming, as to have induced them to join in a petition to Government on the subject.

Mission into the Interior.

An expedition into the Timmanee Country was made last autumn, by the Rev. Messrs. Weeks and Graf, and Messrs. Stedman and Thomson, to gather information as to how far that country might present a favourable aspect for the establishment of a Mission. The details of their journey have not reached the Committee; but the party met with a friendly reception in most places.

---

* The following was the population of the Colony, as exhibited in the Census of 1838:—

Males	21559
Females	18381
	39940
Aliens and Strangers,	1611
Total	41551

African Civilization Society.

The Committee, in closing their Report of the West-Africa Mission, notice with strong satisfaction the formation of a new Institution, entitled, "The Society for effecting the Extinction of the Slave Trade, and for Promoting the Civilization of Africa." Though the imparting of religious instruction forms no part of that Society's plan, the Committee are strongly encouraged to hope that its proceedings may, under the Divine Blessing, open the way for the Messengers of the Churches into the Interior of Africa. After dwelling on the baneful effects of the Slave Trade in depopulating and demoralizing that Continent, and the fearful extent to which it is still carried on, the Prospectus proceeds—

> It is the unanimous opinion of this Society, that the only complete cure of all these evils is the introduction of Christianity into Africa. They do not believe that any less powerful remedy will entirely extinguish the present inducements to trade in human beings, or will afford to the inhabitants of those extensive regions a sure foundation for repose and happiness.

Her Majesty's Government also, convinced of the inefficiency of the measures heretofore adopted for the suppression of the Slave Trade, are preparing an expedition up the Niger, with a view to displace that devastating traffic by legitimate commerce, and by drawing forth the abundant resources which Africa possesses within herself. The views of Government are thus explained, in a Letter from Lord John Russell to the Lords of the Treasury, of the date of the 26th of December last:—

> Her Majesty's confidential advisers are therefore compelled to admit the conviction, that it is indispensable to enter upon some new preventive system, calculated to arrest the foreign slave-trade in its source, by counteracting the principles by which it is now sustained. Although it may be impossible to check the cupidity of those who purchase Slaves for exportation from Africa, it may yet be possible to force on those, by whom they are sold, the persuasion, that they are engaged in a traffic opposed to their own interests, when correctly understood.
> With this view, it is proposed to establish new commercial relations with those African Chiefs or Powers within whose dominions the internal slave-trade of Africa is carried on, and the external slave-trade supplied with its victims.
> To this end, the Queen has directed her Ministers to negotiate conventions or agreements with those Chiefs and Powers: the basis of which conventions would be; First, The abandonment and absolute prohibition of the slave-trade; and, Secondly, The admission for consumption in this country, on favourable terms, of goods, the produce or manufacture of the territories subject to them. Of those Chiefs, the most considerable rule over the countries adjacent to the Niger and its great tributary streams. It is therefore proposed to despatch an expedition, which would ascend that river by steam-boats, as far as the points at which it receives the confluence of some of the principal rivers falling into it from the eastward. At these, or at any other stations which may be found more favourable for the promotion of a legitimate commerce, it is proposed to establish British Factories, in the hope that the Natives may be taught that there are methods of employing the population, more profitable to those to whom they are subject, than that of converting them into slaves, and selling them for exportation to the slave-traders.

Under these circumstances, the Committee feel it incumbent on them, in prosecution of one of the primary objects contemplated in the formation of this Society, to be prepared to avail themselves, to the extent of the means which may be at their disposal, of the openings which may be providentially presented, by the measures now in progress, for bearing to the Natives of Africa the good tidings of great joy, which a merciful God proclaims, in His Gospel, to all people.

Your Committee pray, that, under the Divine Blessing, this Society may be an honoured instrument in contributing to accomplish the glowing anticipation of Mr. Pitt, in one of his speeches on the abolition of the Slave Trade:—"Some of us may live to see a reverse of that picture, from which we now turn our eyes with shame and regret: we may live to behold the Natives of Africa engaged in the calm occupations of industry, and in the pursuit of a just and legitimate commerce: we may behold the beams of Science and Philosophy breaking in upon their land, which at some happier period, in still later times, may blaze with full lustre, and, joining their influence to that of pure Religion, may illuminate and invigorate the most distant extremities of that immense continent."*

COMMENCED 1837.

Relinquishment of the Mission.

THE circumstances of the abrupt termination of the Mission to the Zoolu Country, in consequence of the treachery and cruelty of Dingarn, were stated in the last Report. After that event, the Missionaries resided for a considerable time in Albany, waiting to obtain such information as might indicate the next steps to be adopted. Various plans were projected: at one time it seemed that the Country of the Fingoes might present an opening: at another time, the Rev. F. Owen was persuaded that a station, in accordance with the original instructions given him, might be found at Umzimboovoo, about half way between Port Natal and the Cape. Eventually he was led to decide on moving to a station about 800 miles north of Graham's Town, named Mozika, formerly occupied by Labourers sent out by the Protestant Missionary Society of Paris. While some of the party were proceeding thither, Mr. Owen availed himself of a favourable opportunity for visiting Cape Town, with a view to give fresh impulse to the Church Missionary Association formed there in 1837. On returning to Graham's Town, he proceeded to join the party on their way to Mozika. The hardships, privations, and perils, to which they were exposed, were exceedingly great. They eventually arrived at Mozika, at the end of November or the beginning of December.

In the mean time, the Committee have learned that it is the intention of the Missionary Society of Paris to retain the Station of Mozika, and that, for this purpose, two Missionaries are already on their way to the Cape. On the consideration of this unforeseen circumstance, combined with doubts of the expediency of undertaking a new Mission in South Africa, the Committee have seen it to be their duty to relinquish the Mission to that country, and have accordingly written to that effect to Mr. Owen; proposing, at the same time, to the Missionaries, that they should transfer their services to another Mission.

MEDITERRANEAN MISSIONS.

MALTA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1815.

Mission Establishment:

2 Missionaries.	1 European Translator.
1 Lay Agent.	2 Asiatic Translators.
1 Printer.

General View.

THE operations of this Mission are chiefly directed to the various Countries bordering the shores of the Mediterranean. Its principal Stations have been, Malta, Syra, Smyrna, Caïro, and Abyssinia.

The Committee regret to state, that the services of the Rev. C. F. Schlienz have been in some measure interrupted by severe illness; but his health is now re-established. By his visit to this country, the Committee have had the opportunity of conferring with him on various points of moment, which will occupy his attention, and that of the other Labourers in this Mission.

Arabic Version of the Scriptures and Prayer-Book.

Mr. Schlienz continues to be engaged in the revision of the Arabic Version of the Scriptures; and it is one principal object before him, in his return to the Mediterranean. The translation of the Book of Genesis is to be put to press immediately, as a specimen of the work. It has received high testimonials from eminent Oriental Scholars.

The Arabic Prayer-Book is in course of being printed in Malta.

Operations of the Press.

Mr. Weiss reports, concerning the labours of the Press at Malta, Feb. 26, 1840:—

> Through God's mercy, I have been able to bring several of our Maltese labours to some perfection; so that printing goes on with considerably more despatch than in former years. The newly-established Type-foundry, though in its infancy, gives constant proof of its utility. The Lithography has also made some progress.

Some Turkish Tracts were also printed at this press by the Rev. P. Fjellstedt, who visited Malta, from Smyrna, expressly for this object.

Proposed Christian Institution.

It has been intended, ever since the first establishment of this Mission in 1815, to form, so soon as might be practicable, an Institution in Malta; for the purpose of giving a sound and Christian Education to those Young Persons, from the Levant, who might be desirous of such an advantage, and might give hopeful evidences of piety and intelligence.

The Rev. S. Gobat, whose state of health has rendered it necessary for him to leave Abyssinia, has settled with his family in Malta, and is about to commence this work.

GREECE MISSION.

COMMENCED 1828.

Mission Establishment:

2 Missionaries. 1 Schoolmaster. 11 Native Teachers.

The Rev. F. A. Hildner and the Rev. J. T. Wolters have continued without interruption their important labours in the Island of Syra. Miss Wilcox, who was engaged in the department of Female Education, has recently removed to Malta in consequence of marriage, and will there be employed in Infant Schools.

Mr. Hildner, at the close of 1839, takes the following very consolatory review of his past labours:—

At the close of ten years of my Missionary labours at Syra, I feel it to be a sweet duty to raise my voice in thanksgivings to the Lord, for all the benefits which He has vouchsafed to me, His unworthy servant; and especially for all the opportunities which He has afforded me and my co-adjutors in teaching and preaching His holy Gospel to the young and grown-up people of this place.

No hostility whatever has been manifested against us or our work during the year: and the Government and Local Authorities have not only favoured us and our Schools with their protection, but even expressed by letter their satisfaction and thanks with respect to our labours for the education of the Greek Youths, on occasion of the last Public Examination. Our chief attention and strength is still directed to the Schools, which continue indeed to afford a most important and precious field of labour; which, when duly cultivated, will not fail, in the end, to yield, under the blessing of God, an ample harvest of glorious fruit.

Mr. Hildner describes also the desire for education as being manifestly on the increase at Syra. The Public Government zealously prosecute this object. He remarks, October 1839:—

The examination of the Schools is now finished. A great deal of activity for the melioration of these Schools is manifested on the part of the Governor and the School Committee: they try to raise them in every possible way. The number of Schools in Syra, sanctioned by Government, is fifteen; viz. four Infant Schools, six Middle Schools, four Grammar or Hellenic Schools, and one Gymnasium. These Schools have 1607 scholars; among whom are more than 600 girls. Besides these regular Schools, there are twelve smaller ones, not sanctioned by Government, and most miserably conducted, with about 410 scholars; among whom may be 150 girls. The whole number of children under instruction in Syra is therefore 2017, in a population of about 18,000 souls.

Spreading of Infidelity.

This mournful fact is everywhere made more and more apparent, as a principal feature of the present times. The powers of Christ and of Belial appear to be drawing out in battle array. Mr. Hildner states on this subject, Nov. 16, 1839:

It is a fact, that infidelity is gaining ground in Greece, and also an infidel system of education. How to counteract the spread of infidelity has been several times the earnest subject of conversation in our Missionary meetings. Tracts on the Evidences of Christianity, and against Infidelity, are being printed, or have been already printed and distributed, in order that we may do something toward stopping the stream of infidelity.

Distribution of the Sacred Scriptures and Tracts.

On this subject it is reported, Jan. 21, 1840—

Mr. Wolters has returned from his journey for the distribution of Bibles and good books, highly encouraged. Several thousands of copies have been distributed and sold to the people; the greater part through the Schools. We have just received, from the press in Malta, Scott's Commentary on the Four Gospels, revised by Dr. Korck; which proves to be a very acceptable and valuable book to the Greeks.

ASIA-MINOR MISSION.

COMMENCED 1830.

Mission Establishment:

2 Missionaries. 1 Translator.

The plan recommended by the Committee last year has been acted on by the two Missionaries at this Station. Being prevented by the opposition of the Greek Hierarchy from prosecuting the work of Education, they have travelled extensively in the Southern and Northern parts of Turkey. The Rev. J. A. Jetter has visited Ephesus, Patmos, Samos, Cos, Rhodes, Scio, and Constantinople: the Rev. P. Fjellstedt has travelled along the Northern boundary of Bulgaria. In these tours, the distribution of the Holy Scriptures, the promotion of edifying discussion and conversation, and the study of the circumstances of every place, were their leading objects. Deplorably destitute of spiritual light and temporal happiness are those regions which they visited. They explored countries on which Providence has showered every natural resource; but which the sin of man has degraded, impoverished, and ruined. A few extracts from their communications will exemplify these melancholy statements.

At Ephesus, Mr. Jetter remarks, Oct. 18, 1838—

There was not a human soul to be seen at this once populous city: only three or four hundred Yooruck huts, or black tents, were along the road to it. Ephesus presents an awful spectacle of the corruptible nature of human glory. There lies its once splendid temple of Diana of the Ephesians, buried in the earth, and scarcely traceable! There lie large masses of Christian churches, scarcely more discernible!

At Patmos, the scene of the Apocalyptic vision which closes the canon of Scripture, Mr. Jetter, visiting the cave in which the Apostle is traditionally related to have been confined, makes the following mournful statement, Oct. 26, 1838:—

The cave is altogether natural; and was to me a solemn spot. But where are the people now that resemble John, in this island? They are, to every appearance, given to superstition and idolatry. We showed to the man who went about with us a copy of the New Testament in Modern Greek, as also a copy of the Prophets; of which he said, "These books are perfectly useless:" and he would not receive a copy.

Scio, once the most flourishing island of the Greek Archipelago, was found by Mr. Jetter, in his recent visit, just what it ever has been, since the awful revolution of 1821. It still remains, in every sense, both spiritual and temporal, wasted with misery.

In his visit to Bulgaria, Mr. Fjellstedt had many interesting conversations with persons of every class. The result of his remarks is summed up in the following words, July 1, 1839:—

On the whole, I think I may say, that though something could in all probability be done, particularly among the Christians, yet doubtless there would soon be great opposition. However, as soon as we shall have our books ready, we must do all we can to enlighten the people by these means. Many are fond of reading, who are afraid to seek information by intercourse with a stranger.

Mr. Fjellstedt has, moreover, been diligently engaged in his revision of the Turkish New Testament, and in preparing various works in Turkish. He states, Jan. 9, 1840—

With regard to our work during the last year, we have fallen considerably short of what I had hoped to accomplish, because we spent four months in travelling, and a considerable portion of time in printing our books. We have translated, during the year, the Four Gospels, part of the Acts, and the Book of Genesis; also a Biblical History, which will make about 300 pages, when printed.

EGYPT MISSION.

COMMENCED 1826.

Mission Establishment:

2 Missionaries. 9 Native Teachers.

General View of the Mission.

From a communication, dated March 17, 1840, drawn up by the Rev. Messrs. Krusé and Lieder, who continue their valuable labours in Egypt, the Committee rejoice to find that their plans of religious instruction and school-training prosper more and more abundantly. The protection of the Pacha's Government is amply afforded them. They remark—

> We can state, with gratitude to God, that the several branches of our labour in this Mission have not only proceeded quietly, steadily, and constantly; but are, on the whole, in a progressive, flourishing, and more satisfactory state than they ever were before.

Preaching of the Gospel.

On this subject, the Missionaries report concerning their labours both in English and in Arabic:—

> Divine Service in English has been continued regularly every Lord's-Day Morning. The attendance is indeed not large, owing to the small number of English residents here at present.
> The Service in Arabic has been continued, though we cannot yet depend on stated or regular attendants: they chiefly consist of the scholars and servants, with, occasionally, some friends. However, the Word has been preached at all times, and in various ways. For this purpose, people have been visited in several parts of the town, and have been encouraged to visit us again; and we trust that in this manner much good has been done, and the Gospel proclaimed to a considerable extent.

Progress of Education.

Seminary—In this Institution there are at present twenty-four Youths; of whom ten are Boarders, the rest being Day-Scholars. They are daily instructed in the Christian Religion and other useful knowledge. Of these twenty-four pupils, ten are Mahomedans, two are Jews, and the rest are Christians of different Denominations.

Of the progress made by the pupils, the following is the statement by the Missionaries:—

> The elder lads of the first class have now committed to memory all the Catechisms printed at Malta: they have also read more than once all the Arabic books issued from that press; and have several times read through the whole Bible. We are glad to observe, that besides Morning and Evening Prayers, when the Word of God is read and explained, the pupils delight in reading it again privately in their leisure hours. They have also often expressed a desire to have a Commentary on some parts of the Scriptures, like that excellent explanation of the Parables of our Lord; which they have not only read, but studied over and over again with great delight.

The results of the Day-Schools for Boys and for Girls, and likewise of the Sunday School—in which there are young persons of different Religious Persuasions—are thus stated:—

Above 200 children of both sexes, and of various denominations of Christians, as well as Mahomedans, receive daily instruction in the divine truths of the Gospel; which, like the leaven hid in the meal, will operate, spread itself far and wide, and finally manifest its generating and transforming influence, until the whole shall be leavened. Already we see many pleasing results of our labour of love in this benighted country, notwithstanding all the trials and difficulties with which we have had to contend from the beginning. Many of the poorest, who some years ago were instructed in our schools, are now not only respectably employed, and have become a comfort to their parents and relations in providing for their temporal wants, but are as shining lights in the midst of a dark and superstitious generation; with which they continually and earnestly contend for their faith in Christ, having received into their hearts an incorruptible seed, the Word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever. Since these young champions have gone abroad, we have been very seldom troubled by controversial questions; as they are so many living witnesses to the truth of our holy Religion, which we constantly have set forth to them, as it is found in the Holy Scriptures.

Favourable Protection of the Pacha's Government.

The Missionaries report on this subject:—

It is with sincere gratitude to God, in whose hand are Rulers and Princes, that even in the present agitated state of the country, and amid the rumours of war, we have not only been permitted to prosecute our labours in security and peace, but are enabled to record the favourable countenance which our work has continued to receive during the year from Government. The Minister of Public Instruction, Adham Bey, with several other gentlemen, called upon us on the 18th of December, and examined the scholars in our several school establishments. They were surprised to see Christians of different denominations, Jews, and Mahomedans, brought under one and the same rule of Christian instruction, and living together in harmony, as if they were all of one faith. The gentlemen made minute inquiries, and, on the whole, appeared to be pleased and satisfied. Some time after, Adham Bey sent an Effendi and a Teacher, requesting us to show them the Lancasterian School; and to assist them, as far as we might be able, to understand the plan of instruction, as they were going to open such a school for the Government.

Indications of Revival among the Copts.

In the communications of the Missionaries, the following facts are stated, remarkably indicating that the leaven of the Gospel is working in this Church:—

For some months there have been established Religious Meetings in different quarters of the town, where Copts are living, for the purpose of reading the Word of God for their mutual edification. We learn that there are six of these meetings; of which three are in the quarter in which we live. They applied to us for Bibles and Testaments; which we joyfully granted, together with some other useful and Religious Books from the Malta Press, which were not only gratefully accepted, but received with great joy. The Patriarch has sanctioned their Meeting; with the observation, that it was better to meet to read the Word of God than to drink brandy and commit sin.

It appears likewise, that at the suggestion of an English Clergyman visiting Egypt, the Coptic Patriarch had been induced to sanction a plan for the establishment of an Institution for giving to the Coptic Priesthood a superior theological and general education.

Mr. Lieder had performed a visit with Mrs. Lieder to Mount Sinai. The excursion had given him the opportunity of distributing the Scriptures, and of making many valuable observations. It also was the means of restoring him to a degree of health such as he had not for a long time before enjoyed.

Under the encouraging prospects of the Mission in Egypt, Messrs. Krusé and Lieder thus express, in conclusion, their earnest desire for more help:—

May the Lord soon have mercy upon this country, and move the hearts of our Christian friends at home with compassion for the poor inhabitants of Egypt! May He in mercy grant them the spirit of fervent prayer and supplication for the reviving of these fallen Churches of the East, and for the enlightening of the benighted Mahomedan population! May He incline the hearts of our Missionary friends to be more liberal in their contributions for the prosperity of Christ's Kingdom! Above all, may the Holy Spirit raise up able men for the work, endowed with His Divine Grace, to come over and help us in drawing the net, that soon the Promises may be fulfilled, and the nations worship before Him!

ABYSSINIAN MISSION.

COMMENCED 1829.

Mission Establishment:

2 Missionaries.

It has pleased God to crown with success the endeavours of the Missionaries to re-enter Abyssinia. The Rev. Messrs. Isenberg and Krapf left Suez on this arduous enterprise, Jan. 27, 1839. They visited Mocha; from which place they crossed to the opposite coast, passed the Straits of Babel-Mandel, and arrived at Tadjurra on the 4th of April. After encountering the many difficulties which embarrass travellers in these unfrequented regions, they reached the frontier of the kingdom of Shoa on the 31st of May. They had an interview with the King of Shoa, who gave them a favourable reception,

The Missionaries remained together in the kingdom of Shoa until November the 6th; when Mr. Isenberg departed, to return for a season to this country. During these five months they were continually occupied in preaching and discussion, and in obtaining a great variety of information.

Their communications tend to throw great light on the geography of that part of Africa. Mr. M'Queen has gladly availed himself of the communications of the Missionaries, in a Memoir which he is preparing on the geography of Africa.*

Advances of Roman Catholics in Abyssinia.

From the communications of the Missionaries, it plainly appears that the Papacy is following up with vigour its plans for occupying an important position in this country.

General Review of the Mediterranean Mission.

This Mission is still in its infancy; yet the progress of translation, the extension of sound Scriptural education, the decay of Mahomedanism, the toleration in Egypt, and the growing spirit of inquiry in the East, call upon your Committee to persevere. And who can tell, in this our day, when, through the mercy of God, we are beginning to receive blessings on a large scale, how soon the little one may become a thousand?

* Large Extracts from the Journals of Messrs. Isenberg and Krapf are given in Appendix I.

CHINA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1837.

Mission Establishment:

1 Lay Agent.

THE hopes of the Committee, in reference to this Mission, have been, for the present, altogether suspended by the political circumstances affecting China. Mr. Squire, being at Macao as stated in the last Report, was diligently engaged in the study of the native language, and in the distribution, so far as was practicable, of the Scriptures and Religious Tracts.

On the 26th of August last, Mr. Squire quitted his residence at Macao, and went on board a ship for greater security. Subsequently to this, he writes, that the health of Mrs. Squire had suffered seriously, and that, by urgent medical advice, he was proposing to return with her, by the earliest opportunity, to Europe.

The following remarks by Mr. Squire, Nov. 10, 1838, forcibly and affectingly express the claims of this vast empire on the Church of Christ, whenever it shall please God to give a wide door and an effectual for re-entering it.

The world by wisdom knew not God.—China is a comment on these words of inspiration; and it is needless to search into the various crudities contained in many laboured volumes which they hold in high estimation, which, however contradictory in themselves, testify that they have no knowledge of God, of Original Sin, the necessity of an Atonement, or the work of the Spirit. They are equally silent concerning the Resurrection of the body, and life everlasting. One striking peculiarity of this people is, their practice of deifying departed spirits; of paying honours and offering sacrifices to all, but especially to those who have distinguished themselves as poets, moral writers, warriors, or benefactors. In short, the whole empire seems not only to abound in idols, but every age and generation seeks to add to their number. The words of the Prophet regarding Babylon of old seem particularly applicable to this nation and people: It is the land of graven images, and they are mad upon their idols; while the one Living and True God is utterly unknown. Such, in few words, is their present state; and the word of the Lord says, Idolaters shall not enter the kingdom of heaven. What, then, must be their future condition, and the fruit of this false worship?—a total contrariety in heart and life from that holiness without which no man shall see the Lord. Whither then are they hastening?

Friends of the cause of Christ! a voice from these distant shores affectionately addresses you. Remember China: let her be the especial subject of your prayers, until these troubles be overpast. In your Missionary Sermons and Addresses, give her a prominent place. Remember this great nation, which contains the largest portion of the human race which is gathered together under one name and language, groaning under temporal and spiritual despotism.

INDIA AND CEYLON MISSIONS.

The Committee, in entering on the Report of the Society's Missions in India and Ceylon, would express their gratitude to God on the view of the harvest which is now beginning to spring up from the seed sown in years past. The Gospel shines forth in its true character, as the power of God unto salvation, to great numbers. The Spirit of God manifestly blesses the instrument of His own appointing; and the people that sat in darkness are lifting up their eyes to behold that great light which has arisen upon them.

NORTH-INDIA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1816.

Mission Establishment:

22 European Missionaries.	1 European Teacher.
1 Native Missionary.	2 European Female Teachers.
2 Indo-British Missionaries.	3 Indo-British Teachers.
1 Assistant Secretary.	78 Native Catechists & Teachers.
1 Printer.

This Mission has now nine Stations; or, as they might justly be termed, nine separate Missions. The principal are, Calcutta, Burdwan, Krishnaghur, Benares, Gorruckpore, and Agra: the others have not made much progress, or have been only of late re-occupied, after some interruption of Missionary labours.

CALCUTTA.

The Committee have during the past year strengthened their Mission at this important Station. They have now four Missionaries there. The Rev. F. Wybrow has resigned the office of Secretary to the Corresponding Committee, and is now employed as a Missionary at Calcutta. The Rev. T. Sandys has been occupied with the charge of the Institution at Mirzapore, and has also been employed in the general duties of a Missionary: one of his Catechists statedly visits twelve native villages, in each of which there are Native Christians. The Rev. J. C. Thompson has charge of the Hindoostanee Department. The Rev. J. Innes has entered on the duties of the Head Seminary. It is designed that two other Missionaries should proceed to Calcutta from this country during the ensuing summer.

Attendance of Natives on the Ministry of the Word.

On this important subject, Mr. Sandys reports:—

Many Natives, passing during Divine Service, turn aside, and continue in the Chapel Verandah; hearing the Liturgy of our Church, and the preaching of the Gospel of Christ, in their own language, and witnessing the manner in which Christians worship the only Living and True God, through the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Chapel at Potuldungah has been open several evenings in the week during the past year; when the Gospel has been preached in the Hindoostanee, Hinduwee, and Bengalee Languages, according to the character of the congregations. The attendance here has consisted almost exclusively of passers-by, and, consequently, has been various: the average attendance may be stated at from 50 to 150, many of whom remain but a short time, their places being again occupied by others who come in. Some enter into disputes, endeavouring to uphold their own systems, and to point out what appear to them to be the difficulties in the way of their embracing the Christian Religion.

The opening of a New Chapel is thus mentioned by Mr. Thompson:—

On Thursday night, May 7, 1839, a new Street Chapel was opened, in connexion with the Hindoostanee Department of the Church Missionary Society. The place is admirably situated for the work of preaching to the Mahomedans; being in the midst of their dwellings, and close to their College. It will scarcely accommodate 40 people; but on the night of its opening, and on many other nights, there was a concourse of from 150 to 200, standing close to one another, and extending into the street.

The opening of this Chapel created a sensation hardly before known among this class in Calcutta. Some Molwees came from Hooghly, to try and refute us. However, though weak in ourselves, we have full confidence in our Lord and Master; seeing that the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong-holds.

Earnest Study of the Scriptures.

From the following remark made by Mr. Thompson, it is apparent that, besides the Native Superstitions, there is also a subtle and daring spirit of Infidelity at work, opposing the Light of Truth. It need not be feared that the Truth will prevail. He states—

There has been a great demand for our Sacred Book; which I have complied with, as far as I have been able. I understand there is hardly a house in Colingah, the inmates of which can read, that has not our Scriptures; which they closely examine, to see if they cannot bring forward something against it, or refute it. Even in the Mudrissa (College) their other studies were, comparatively, laid aside for the study of our Holy Book.

I was at first rather puzzled, to find out how they became possessed of the same objections which all infidels of ancient and modern date have brought forward; till I was informed that Sabat had written a work in Arabic, in which these and similar objections were embodied.

Administration of Baptism.

Mr. Sandys reports his having admitted many young persons into the Christian Church by Baptism. The effects produced hereby clearly demonstrate that the offence of the Cross has not ceased. He reports, Oct. 26, 1839—

The Schools at Baraset were both, for a time, nearly broken up; almost all the pupils having left in consequence of the commotion produced by one of the late pupils having embraced the Gospel. I hear to-day—28th October—that some of the Boys have returned to school; and I purpose going over to-morrow, with a view to examining them, and encouraging them to endeavour to induce all to return. There were 120 pupils in the Bengalee School, and about 80 in the English; but since the conversion of Mihadib—now Andrew—the numbers have scarcely been a tenth of those mentioned. I confess that I do not feel at all discouraged by such circumstances: I rather take them as proofs that an impression is made upon the minds of the people, and feel encouraged to go on; looking for a blessing from on high, to make our feeble endeavours effectual to the shaking of the ancient fabric of Hindooism, until it shall totter to the very base, and ultimately be completely replaced by the Gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Consecration of the Mission Church.

The Church on the Mission Premises was consecrated by the Bishop of Calcutta on Thursday, October 10, 1839, under the name of Trinity Church.

Progress of Education.

The Calcutta Corresponding Committee report favourably concerning the English School, the School in the Bengalee and Hindoostanee Departments, the instruction of children not Christians, and Schools at various villages around. Their statements exhibit a surprising advance in the most useful studies; viz. Holy Scripture, Catechisms, History, Geography, Grammar, Logic, Arithmetic, Natural Philosophy, &c.

BURDWAN DISTRICT.

Formation of Christian Villages.

The formation of Christian Villages in India is a very important step in the progress of Missions in that country. Mr. Wybrow, who visited this District when on a tour in the Northern Provinces, gives an account of one that has been established in this place:—

At Burdwan there is a very hopeful knot of Christian Families. The Congregation assembling at the Chapel may amount to 200 persons. The pretty dwellings of these people are in our spacious Mission Compound, built under palms and cocoa-nut trees, and skirting the edges of a noble tank. Mr. Weitbrecht maintains strict Christian Discipline; tolerates no open scandal; and punishes, with expulsion from the Mission Compound, an inveterate or obstinate offender. The working of Divine Grace is perceptible in some of the people; and I know not a village in Christian England where the general behaviour—as far as morals and respectability of character are concerned—would give a Minister of the Gospel more satisfaction.

Progressive Influence of the Gospel.

The view of the success of the Senior Missionary at this Station, as taken by his Missionary Brother, is very encouraging. Mr. Wybrow remarks, May 1839—

From time to time Mr. Weitbrecht preached; meeting with a reception, the variety of which quite surprised me. In one village the Brahmins battled against the Truth, as the very retainers of Satan: in the next, there was perhaps an opportunity of preaching a connected discourse to a large assembly of quiet hearers, who offered not one word of objection to the doctrines of the grace of God brought before them. How have I been grieved, when our Glorious Master and Dear Saviour has in all His gracious attributes been brought before them, to see—instead of allegiance instantly being tendered to so good and gentle a Sovereign—a poor ignorant Ryot (cultivator of the soil) prostrate himself before some fat Brahmin, taking his foot with all humility in his hands, and setting it on his own abject neck, in token of his devoted adherence and deep submission to the system of lies which these false priests palm upon the people.

When one of the poor besotted multitude has drawn from the neighbouring well or tank a lota of water, he will approach one of these priests of Baal, and, in a posture of deep humiliation, tender the vessel to him, that he may dip his sacred foot in it.

Mr. Wybrow adds—

I have seen the people in the Chapel paying the most lively attention while I preached, using Mr. Weitbrecht's able interpretation: and, on questioning some charming little boys a few evenings after giving the address, I found that they correctly remembered the anecdotes which I introduced, the illustrations I had used, and the truths which I meant to inculcate by them. Surely great blessings may be anticipated to result from the universal endeavours now put forth to bring up many hundreds of such lads in the nurture and admonition of the Lord!

While the Gospel is thus gradually obtaining a direct influence on the rising generation, others also are giving up their prejudices. Mr. Weitbrecht states to this effect:—

It is a remarkable fact, that the sect alluded to, the Kurta-bhojas, or worshippers of the Creator, among whom Mr. Deerr has been so successful at Krishnaghur, is rapidly spreading everywhere. They have been discovered in several villages in the immediate neighbourhood of Burdwan; and many reside in the town itself. A leader among them, a very intelligent and eloquent Brahmin, lately visited the Mission Premises; and in a long and most interesting discussion that took place, he acknowledged the superiority of Christianity, and evinced a very favourable inclination to it. He said that one step more would bring him to Christ: that he could see no objection to the religion of Jesus, his doubts having been removed by the conversation of the Missionary.

Improvement of the Female Character.

The beneficial effect of the Schools has been remarkably exemplified at this Station. Mr. Weitbrecht relates:—

Several of the girls have, as they grew up, been truly converted to God; and one among the number is a really-devoted character, more resembling, in her energy, decision, and zeal, a European, than a Native Christian. She has, at her own request, been made Superintendant; and discharges her duties with much faithfulness, and greatly to the satisfaction and delight of the younger children. It is somewhat remarkable, that this girl, though of an age to marry, is most anxious, contrary to Hindoo feelings, to wait, "for a time at least," as she says, "that she may be more useful;" and nothing seems more painful to her than allusion to the subject of matrimony. This girl is likewise Assistant in the Infant School, and a very valuable helper.

CULNA.

Here the Society's valuable Catechist, Mr. Alexander, has been labouring with his accustomed diligence; preaching and teaching constantly, conducting a very thriving English School, and superintending, in a very efficient way, Bengalee Schools in seven villages; in every one of which the Christian Scriptures are read and taught.

The very pressing nature of the claims of the Krishnaghur Station have lately obliged the Committee to request Mr. Alexander to remove to that interesting field. He has subsequently been ordained Deacon by the Lord Bishop of Calcutta.

KRISHNAGHUR.

It has pleased the Great Head of the Church, during the past year, to revive the hearts of his Servants labouring in India, by a remarkable manifestation of his influence on the Natives in this portion of the Society's Missions. The information concerning the Religious Awakening at Krishnaghur, communicated by the Bishop of Calcutta, is so copious, that the accounts are given at large in the Appendix.* The circumstances, stated briefly, are as follows:—At the close of the year 1838, the Bishop received information from one of the Society's Missionaries, the Rev. William J. Deerr, concerning large and increasing numbers who had applied to him for baptism from villages around. He described himself as perfectly overwhelmed. The Bishop replied immediately, to comfort him concerning his faith; at the same time requesting an answer to eight or ten questions, calculated to elicit the true state of the case. The reply of Mr. Deerr was such as to fill the Bishop with amazement and joy at the accounts forwarded to him. There seemed to be, he said, hundreds "born at once." He therefore, being himself unable to go thither, desired his Archdeacon to perform this service. The Archdeacon consequently left Calcutta for this purpose, February 8, 1839; and, assisted by four Missionaries, inquired into the state of the professed converts;—from which it appeared, that near sixty villages were thirsting for the waters of life—and that a population in them of from 3000 to 3500 were desiring baptism. The degree of Christian knowledge and character to which they had attained was closely investigated. It appeared that the chief body of religious inquirers had been of a sect entitled "Kurta-Bhoja," or Worshippers of the Creator. They had long expressed their desire to obtain, by devotions, "a sight of God." And when Mr. Deerr preached to them the great mystery of godliness, God manifest in the flesh, they hailed his doctrine, as revealing to them the very thing which they desired. At the same period a dreadful inundation laid waste the country, reducing the inhabitants to the most wretched starvation. The self-denying and benevolent spirit manifested by Mr. Deerr and the professed Christians at this season greatly recommended the Gospel. The result of the visit of the Archdeacon and the Missionaries was, the baptism of several hundreds;—making, with those previously baptized in 1837 and 1838, nearly 1000.

In October 1839, full eight months after, the Bishop of Calcutta himself proceeded to this scene of joy, and beheld with delight the fields white unto the harvest. He arrived at Krishnaghur October 19. He found the number of inquirers to be above 4000; among them, seven Gooroos, or Native Teachers, each one of whom might have 8000 or 9000 disciples. Entering at once upon the duties of investigation, through able interpreters, his Lordship satisfied himself that the flock were generally conducting themselves well—that many inquirers, from distances of fifty miles, were seeking Christian instruction—that nearly 200 of the baptized were considered ready for Confirmation—and, moreover, that ten chapels had been built, of mud and bamboo, costing something less than ten pounds each, and capable of standing ten or twenty years with care. The animating account of the Baptisms and Confirmations conducted by his Lordship can only be described in his own language. The number confirmed by him was somewhat less than 200. He concludes his deeply-interesting communication to the President of the Society in these words:—

And now I commend India, and this most affecting scene of opening blessedness at Krishnaghur, to your Lordship's and the Society's prayers. Let us honour God in this great emergency, and He will honour us. We stand on the margin of grand operations of Divine Grace. India is moving, from Cape Comorin to the Himalayas, and from the Caspian to the Irrawady. Some knowledge of the Gospel is more widely diffused than we imagine. An acute observer, in the service of the Nizam of Moorshedabad, observed lately to the Governor General's Political Agent: "I see what you are about. All India will be Christian—every thing tends that way; and though, as an Hindoo, I cannot assent to Christianity, yet, if you can establish your Christian Morality among us, I allow it will be a great blessing."—Yes, and we will establish that mystery of God manifest in the flesh, on which only can the superstructure of morals be built, and on which, by the grace of the Holy Ghost, it will assuredly be raised.

BENARES.

Sickness and Death of Labourers.

The Committee report, with deep concern, the death of Mrs. Schneider, wife of the Rev. F. E. Schneider, who was temporarily stationed here, and had commenced preaching in Hindoostanee. She gave ample testimony to the Lord's faithfulness in supporting her, as she passed through the valley of the shadow of death.

Both the Rev. W. Smith and the Rev. C. B. Leupolt suffer much in their health from their unremitting exertions.

Methods of Preaching adopted by the Missionaries.

The Corresponding Committee of Calcutta, in reporting on the Benares Station, remark—

This Committee, while making known to the Christian Public that, as respects actual conversions from Heathenism and Mahomedan error, the amount of success at Benares is small indeed, would nevertheless cheerfully subscribe to the remark of one of their body who has lately visited the Missionary Brethren labouring there:—"I have ever asserted my opinion, that the Mission at Benares is one of a very promising character; and justify the correctness of such an assertion, by adverting to the diligent and spiritual faithfulness with which our dear Brethren are constantly setting forth God's pure truth; feeling certain that a mighty engine is at work, and that, under its powerful instrumentality, the strong rock shall sooner or later be broken in pieces."

The Secretary, in one of his Letters, May 1839, thus describes some features of the work at Benares, with respect to the public preaching of God's word:—

Several times have I been with Mr. Smith, preaching in the chapels, the streets, ghauts, and temples of Benares.

He rises far above the fear of men; and seems as much at his ease in the difficult and trying positions in which I have seen him, as I am when addressing Europeans from the pulpit of an English Church.

In common with others of our Missionaries, I have remarked his great address in dealing with the subtle reasoners who stand forth every evening to uphold their falling cause. A Brahmin confessed, in my hearing, that he was a worshipper of the sun; and challenged Mr. Smith to show that he was unreasonable in so doing: "for," said he, "the sun being the gift of the Great God to us, He cannot but be pleased to see such emotions of delight and thankfulness arising within us."—Mr. Smith was quite willing to concede that we might well delight in, and be thankful for, the useful properties of the sun; "but nevertheless," said he, "it cannot but be highly offensive to God, that we should pay it divine honour, and worship it, in His stead. Remark that light"—pointing to one which was burning in a shop adjoining the place in which our evening discussion was carried on;—"doubtless the shopkeeper's little son is very glad of it; he pursues his sport by its rays; and by its help he reads his book, and passes his time pleasantly. His father is not displeased with such satisfaction on the child's part. But should he find him applying his own—that is, the father's—name to the lamp, affecting to reverence it as the author of his being, and transferring to its light all that veneration due to a parent's will and understanding, he would be justly indignant, and would take measures promptly to convince his son of his folly." The application is instantly made; and the crowd often commend the illustrative argument by which even their own champion is defeated. On the occasion to which I refer, the vanquished opponent immediately slunk away, and left the field.

Our friends at home would be delighted with the ability and readiness which many Native Catechists display in arguments of the like nature, and the promptitude with which they reply to objections made. Mr. Smith and myself one night mixed with a crowd in a Benares street, in the midst of which we found the Catechist Tryloke. Two Brahmins were maintaining views of a free-thinking nature, and urged that men might worship God as they pleased. "Having received no directions upon the subject, how," said they, "can men possibly be aware of His will, intentions, and designs?" Without being disconcerted for an instant, Tryloke rejoined, "I beg to know how you can tell what is at this instant passing in this Sahib's mind?" pointing to myself. "How can you be aware of what his thoughts and ideas are dwelling upon?" "How should we know, indeed!" said they: "what a question is this!"—"But," said Tryloke," if he were to tell you, would you know then?" "Of course," said they; "on his giving the information, we should know what thoughts were passing through his mind."—"Exactly so," said Tryloke; "and thus, if God tell us what His mind and will may be—if He reveal to us what His intentions and designs are—we shall have light upon a subject that must otherwise be concealed in complete darkness." The need and the excellency of the Revelation which God has made of Himself, in His word, were then asserted, and dwelt upon.

Abstract reasoning, and a logically-deduced argument, is lost upon an Eastern mind. A pointed narrative—a short and lively allegorical representation—is the attractive dress in which the truth should be presented to the Hindoo; all which circumstances abundantly exhibit to my mind the practical as well as heavenly wisdom of the Saviour of the world, who used precisely such means in declaring the truth to those who listened to the gracious words which fell from His lips.

I have been with Mr. Smith in one of the holiest temples of the holy Benares. "Observe," said a Brahmin, who seemed to be that day one of the officiating priests, "how great is the power of our god!"—it was Gunesh, I think. "Behold what a crowd of people he has drawn together!" Alas! there were indeed, about us, besotted pilgrims from all parts of India! They poured milk upon the brazen bulls that could not drink up the offering of the foolish votaries. I saw women smearing food, which they had prepared, over mouths that had never opened either to eat or to speak: and while this palpable evidence of their own senses was condemning their folly, their deceived heart had so turned them aside, that they could not discern that there was a lie in their right hand. The Brahminee bulls walked familiarly about the temple, eating up the garlands which the worshippers had hung on every shrine, and devouring the provisions of flour, rice, and milk, with which their brazen representatives had been so plentifully supplied. Oh! it was a sight to fill a Christian heart with bitter sorrow and indignant regret. While these feelings were crowding upon me, the false priest made his boast of the power of the god; and asserted that this was the more abundantly proved, in that his influence had even drawn us—Smith and myself—within the precincts of his temple. I was glad to have enough Hindoostanee at command to answer aloud, in denial of the hateful assertion; and to declare how grief and sorrow were stirred within me at the sights which I saw, and the scene in which I was.

They seemed a little moved at my earnestness; and submitted to hear from Mr. Smith a series of arguments, in which truth was asserted and error exhibited. Five Brahmins, one after another, old and young, engaged in the controversy; and no two of them agreed in what they asserted, as to the nature of God, and the way in which He ought to be served. Even in the very house of lies and deadly imposture I could not but rejoice in the thought, that a house divided against itself falleth! Is it not a circumstance to make us glad, when we reflect, that in the heart of Benares—in one of the holiest Temples—two Christian Missionaries, utterly unprotected save by the invisible hand of God the Saviour, should be allowed so to speak, and to depart altogether unassailed, and to a certain extent attended to and respected? Times are certainly much changed; and the progress of truth must be recognised in the negative, if not in the positive success which has attended Missionary effort in Benares.

Progress of Education and Scripture Knowledge.

Mr. Wybrow further reports, May 1839—

Mr. Leupolt is a faithful preacher in Hindoostanee, and also a most able instructor of youth. His admirable methods in his scholastic arrangements cannot be too highly commended. He has under his care nearly 200 orphan boys; most of them rescued from a wasting famine and subsequent pestilence, by which large districts in the Upper Provinces have been devastated. In order to give you an idea of the hopeful nature of these orphan establishments, when under such devoted men as Mr. Leupolt, I would mention here, that when I was present on another occasion at the examination of his schools, the first class of the orphans passed an examination in Divinity, with the result of which I was truly delighted: they proved, by the most apt and copious quotations from the English Scriptures, the unity of the Godhead, the holiness of His nature, the need of a Saviour, the Mediatorial character of Christ, &c. None of us could help congratulating Mr. Leupolt in the warmest manner upon the blessings which God had vouchsafed through him.

On several occasions I accompanied this valued friend to the places of concourse in Benares, and listened with much interest to his preaching and occasional discussion with those who contradicted and opposed. I was exceedingly struck with the beautiful meekness of his demeanour. I have seen him as calm and unruffled as a summer lake, under the most injurious reviling and insulting taunts. Missionaries would do well to pray for grace, that, when they stand in a similar position, they may have strength from above to overcome every tendency to angry impatience and irritability. Herein the most Christian caution is necessary: the subtle Hindoo disputant longs to provoke us, and does his utmost to ruffle the temper. Should he succeed, he triumphs in his deed, salaams the Sahib, and advises him to overcome his own passions before he presumes to lecture other people on the score of their sins.

Nothing is more astonishing than the extraordinary readiness with which the meanest of the people express their ideas, when questioning the truth of positions which the Missionary is laying down. Men in the lowest walks of life, oftentimes, vehemently, energetically, without being at loss for a word, express their thoughts, though large crowds are listening; to speak before which many a modest Englishman would feel unequal, so different are our habits from those of the East. A readiness in extemporaneous speaking should be cultivated by young men intended for Indian Missionaries with the most sedulous diligence; and well do I know how much of this useful talent is to be acquired, by continual, patient, persevering attempts to overcome natural reserve and timidity.

Till the arrival of Mr. Schneider, Mr. Leupolt had been conducting with admirable method and arrangement a very thriving English School in the Bengaleetolah of Benares.

The Scriptural knowledge of the higher classes is a fact to which reference is made with gratitude to God. Though still professedly Hindoos, not a doubt exists as to the fact, that many of the boys utterly despise the creed of their fathers, and at all events give the assent of the understanding to the Divine Authority of the Christian Revelation. The number of boys in this School amounts to 165; who are engaged, as respects the upper classes, in reading the Bible, in History, learning the use of the Globes, Geography, Arithmetic, Hydrostatics, &c.

General View of the Benares' Mission.

The Rev. J. H. Pratt, Chaplain to the Bishop of Calcutta, remarks concerning this Station:—

Inquiry is excited by the public preaching which daily takes place in one of the four Chapels in this city: the Free School is diffusing a knowledge of Christianity among the heathen children, which must produce fruit. These institutions are invaluable. Who knows but that another secret sect of Kurta Bhojas may be growing gradually beneath all this; and that the young men brought up as Christians in the Orphan Schools may be made useful and intelligent members of society by the solid education which they here receive?

CHUNAR.

General View of this Station.

The Society's indefatigable Missionary, the Rev. W. Bowley, is still diligently employed in preaching near and far the word of the Living God.

This laborious Missionary itinerates over a district of great extent, sometimes sheltering himself under his tent, and sometimes in a covered boat of his own contrivance and building, preaching to the inhabitants of the villages and towns that swarm upon the banks of the Ganges. At other times he is engaged in preparing translations of the Word of God; for which he is eminently qualified, being so perfectly master of the vernacular Hindoostanee as to make his addresses and writings peculiarly intelligible to the mass who hear the one and read the other.

Very many of the Hindoostanee Tracts which are in circulation in this dark land are the work of Mr. Bowley; who is, when at his post at Chunar, as industrious in his closet, as when scattering in many directions the seed of Divine Truth.

Mr. Bowley has under his care several Schools, in which Hindoo and Mussulman Children are instructed, and a small number of Orphan Boys and Girls.

GORRUCKPORE.

General View of this Station.

The Rev. M. Wilkinson continues to pursue his labours at this Station. He, like Mr. Bowley, is an itinerant Missionary, delighting principally in this part of his work; in the accomplishing of which he traverses great distances, and often contents himself with the humblest and meanest accommodation. He is listened to with great attention, having attained to great proficiency in Hindoostanee, and adopting an affectionate mode of address, in calling upon those to whom he speaks, to attend to the all-important concerns of their souls.

But it is not only as an itinerant Missionary that Mr. Wilkinson spends his strength. He has been enabled to gather together a flock of two hundred Converts and Native Christians.

At his solicitation, a grant of forest land was made to him by Government, of considerable extent: and with unwearied assiduity he has exerted himself to effect the clearing away of the jungle with which it was covered, bringing it by degrees under excellent cultivation. On the first occasion that Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson went to make their observations on the grant which had been made at his request, they had proceeded but a very little distance into the jungle, when the roar of a tiger, in their vicinity, compelled them to make a precipitate retreat.

How great now the change! The cottages of the Christians occupy the place which was once the very tiger's lair; and, instead of his angry and hostile challenge, the peaceful sound of Christ's Gospel is constantly heard in a beautiful little Church, which has arisen in the wilderness under Mr. Wilkinson's exertions.

The Rev. F. Wybrow, who visited Gorruckpore toward the end of 1838, thus describes this interesting Station, May 1839:—

> I passed a few days with Brother Wilkinson, and was interested with his work and prospects. His people—those whom God has given him from the Heathen—are located on a grant of land made to him by Government. It was once a wild jungle: but now luxuriant crops wave where was once the tiger's haunt; and peaceful cottages, a little Mission Bungalow, and Village Church, stand on the very spot where wild elephants roamed at pleasure. The spiritual mind could indeed delight in the contemplation of the scene; and, looking on the poor people rescued from heathen darkness, and the smiling farms reclaimed from the dense jungle, could pleasurably remember the Prophet's strain: The parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water: in the habitation of dragons, where each lay, shall be grass with reeds and rushes.—There are prospects which the Christian Philanthropist can gladly dwell upon, with respect to our Mission at Gorruckpore. Hundreds of children from our various orphan establishments, as they grow up to be men and women, will find here a comfortable home; and we trust to see a community rising up here, providing for all their own wants, raising their own supplies, exercising among themselves all sorts of trades, and standing in strong contrast with the idolatrous multitudes who surround them on every side.

Danger of a Native Teacher.

In conversation with William Churun, I became aware of the following pleasing fact; which will show his faithfulness as a preacher, and afford an example of the allegorical method by which Oriental Teachers strive to set forth the Truth. William Churun was on a Missionary excursion in the Oude territory, when he fell in with a number of men, who decoyed him from the road; saying that they would bring him to their village, where he would have an opportunity of saying all he wished. When they had thus withdrawn him from the observation of all who might have helped him, they threw off the mask, and appeared in their true colours—a band of Dacoits, i.e. robbers; but before any deed of violence, they demanded of him, whence he came, whither he was going, and what was his purpose? 'Alas!' thought he, 'my last hour is perhaps come, and these plunderers will murder me! let me then die in my vocation, and spend my last efforts as becomes a teacher of the Truth.'

"Ah!" said he, "I heard that some of my relations" [or brethren] "were sick, nigh unto death, of a most malignant disorder; and having procured medicine of a most efficacious nature, suited to their complaint, I was in all haste carrying it to them, when you thus stopped me and interfered with my purpose."—This naturally drew on further inquiry, when William, in all love, declared, that they—even the Dacoits—were his brethren, sick unto death of the disease sin, aud proposed that they should avail themselves of the Gospel Remedy, the efficacious nature of which he endeavoured to exhibit. Much astonished, and struck with involuntary respect, the rude marauders did not harm a hair of his head: they placed him in safety, honourably dismissed him, and bade him in peace pursue his way.

Mr. Wybrow adds:—

I would that my mind could reflect with equal satisfaction on the walk of the mass of Native Christians, as on the godly life and consistent conversation of this faithful brother.

Mr. Wilkinson's health had suffered so severely, that he was compelled to leave Gorruckpore for its recovery. The latest account from Calcutta reports its re-establishment, and his return to his Station.

AGRA.

General View of the Station.

The Missionaries in charge of this Station are, the Rev. J. J. Moore; the Rev. C. T. Hœrnle, with his wife; Mr. David Batavia, Catechist; and Native Assistants. Mrs. Lovatt, widow of the late Master of the English School, is superintending, with praiseworthy care, a number of Female Orphans committed to her charge.

But few vestiges now remain of the excellent Bishop Corrie's labours, or Abdool Messeeh's preaching in this important city.

The name of Abdool Messeeh is, however, still so well remembered, that when Mr. Wybrow, in crossing Agra, was wandering about the streets of the city, inquiring for the Missionary Bungalow, he was at last directed to the desired spot, by catching the name of "Abdool Messeeh ka kuttra," or "the quarter of Abdool Messeeh."

Dreadful Effects of Famine.

A famine has lately devastated this part of India; and dreadful indeed has been the amount of human suffering and loss of life in consequence!

A Relief Committee was formed at Agra, of the English residents: the Rev. J. J. Moore, the Society's Missionary, acted as the Secretary. In distributing relief, Mr. Moore greatly exerted himself, exposing himself daily to the hot sun, the burning wind, and the pestilence that raged to the destruction of thousands.

Not fewer than 200 persons were daily carried forth dead, from the crowded asylum in which the wretched sufferers sought relief.

Mr. Wybrow writes, May 1839:—

I went with Mr. Moore to the place of sepulture; and painful indeed were our emotions, as we stood on the newly-covered graves of 20,000 people! Thousands, however, hail him as their deliverer; and I have been with him in a village where the people did not hesitate to apply to him the appellation "Khoda," that is, "God." Utterly shocked, we both entreated them to use other expressions; but they reiterated, "Has he not given life to us? do we not owe our existence to him? He is God!" Lamentable as such a declaration was, still it will serve to show the grateful feeling existing on the part of these poor creatures toward their benefactor.

Not fewer than 300 Boys and Girls are in the hands of our friends at Agra—relics of the famine. From these, O may some faithful-ones be given to us, who shall tell their countrymen of better bread than that which the kindness of English Christians gave them, to the preservation of life, when they were perishing!

Mr. Moore's services on this distressing occasion were so highly appreciated, that he received the thanks of the Governor General on account of them.

MEERUT.

General View of the Station.

The only Labourer at this Station is the Rev. R. Richards; who received Deacon's Orders, from the Bishop of Calcutta, in October 1837.

Mr. Richards's health, the Committee are concerned to state, has been so much broken of late, as to disqualify him for laborious exertion.

KURNAUL.

General View of the Station.

An interesting Native Missionary, the Rev. Anund Mes seeh, is labouring alone at this place. He instructs a number of children in the School-house attached to his own dwelling. His manners are peculiarly affectionate; and the little boys seem to love him much. The style and manner of his preaching is highly acceptable to oriental hearers; and he is listened to with considerable attention.

The Rev. Ralph Eteson, now Chaplain at Kurnaul, is kindly and affectionately aiding and counselling this Native Brother in his work and ministry.

Educational Measures.

The course of events in India render the Committee more deeply sensible than ever how inadequate are the means at present employed to the wants of the population of India. They refer to the subject of Christian Education. The Missions of the Society, in this part of the world especially, have advanced to that point, that it is essential so to constitute Schools and Seminaries in general, and Institutions of the highest order, as that they may guide the Natives, extensively and powerfully, into the safe channel of Christian Knowledge and Truth; rescue them alike from their own false philosophy and from European Infidelity; and raise them to the standard of able and sound spiritual Teachers of their countrymen. A prudent yet vigorous movement in this respect is indispensable at the present crisis: and while every thing in the state of India demands, every thing also appears to favour, the introduction of some well-digested plan of Christian and useful Education.

Head Seminary.

The Rev. James Innes has entered upon his duties as Master of the Head Seminary, with a general expectation of the Society's friends, both in Calcutta and in the other Stations of North India, that this Institution will prove an important instrument in training Young Natives for the work of the Christian Ministry.

Secretaryship of the Corresponding Committee.

The Rev. F. Wybrow has been led, by circumstances, to resign the office of Secretary to the Corresponding Committee. Mr. Wybrow at the same time expressed his wish to be employed, in connexion with the Society, as a Missionary. This offer was thankfully accepted by the Committee; and Mr. Wybrow is now acting in that capacity in Calcutta. He had already made so much proficiency in Bengalee, as to be able to preach in that language. The details of visits which Mr. Wybrow made to the Upper Provinces, at the end of 1838, exhibit the progress of the Mission in the different Stations.

SOUTH-INDIA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1814.

Mission Establishment:

1 Lay Assistant Secretary.	1 Indo-British Missionary.
18 European Missionaries.	5 European Catechists and Teachers.
3 Native Missionaries.	299 Native Catechists and Teachers.

This Mission has six Stations; the principal of which are Madras, Tinnevelly, and Travancore.

MADRAS.

Corresponding Committee.

In the last Report, the Lord Bishop of Madras was stated to have accepted the office of President of the Corresponding Committee. The advantage resulting from his Lordship's paternal interest in the Mission has been manifest.

It is with sincere regret that the Committee have to report, that the health of the Rev. J. Tucker, Secretary to the Corresponding Committee, requires his return for a season to this country. The best arrangements practicable were making to supply the duties of the office which he has, for a period of seven years, so ably and beneficially filled. He sailed from Madras on the 20th of February.

Ordination of Mr. Elouis.

Mr. Elouis, who went out with a view to assist in the work of Education, and especially in the Madras Institution, has been admitted, by the Bishop, to Deacon's Orders.

Education.

In the Institution, in the Society's connexion with Bishop Corrie's Grammar School, and in the Schools directly under the Society's management, satisfactory progress has been made. Of the first named of these Establishments the Bishop writes, Jan. 16, 1840:—

Our Institution at Madras continues to flourish, under the devoted and truly valuable superintendence of the Rev. J. H. Gray, whom I highly esteem and respect; and I question not that, with the Divine Blessing, it will prove an inestimable benefit to hundreds and thousands in Southern India.

Of the Schools, Mr. Gray reports, that there are six in connexion with the Madras Mission; one being in the city itself, and five others in the Mission Villages. He remarks, Jan. 8, 1839—

There is one pleasing feature which appears in all the Schools—the breaking down of prejudice in regard to Female Education. Twelve months ago there was scarcely a school in which a girl was seen; and now very many flock to the schools, and some have even become proficients in learning.

The useful application of the talents of the Young Students in the Institution is apparent from the following account, by Mr. Gray, June 17, 1839, of a Tamul Sunday School in Madras:—

A Sunday School for Tamul Children was opened in February last. Four Students from the Institution, and six others, members of our Native Congregation, are Teachers in it. The average number of boys and girls who have attended since its commencement has been 68; and more than 80 have been present on some occasions.

Church Building Fund.

In proportion as the numbers of Converts multiply, the want of suitable places for Worship is more sensibly felt. This fact has led the Corresponding Committee to make an appeal to the Christian Public for the purpose of raising a Church Building Fund. In this document, it is remarked with much feeling—

Christianity has now made that progress among the Natives of India, that it becomes our imperative duty to provide substantial Places of Worship for the people; not merely mud-houses of prayer, but buildings that show stability, and bear witness that God is honoured among us. The want of churches, in the Tinnevelly Mission especially, is very great. The subdivision of the Mission into separate districts, each under the separate charge of a Missionary, has necessarily increased this want; and the people are becoming more than ever anxious to see churches rising in their populous villages.

The Corresponding Committee add—

May it please God to bestow upon His Church in India all those privileges which most of us have enjoyed, or might have enjoyed, in England; as well as those minor blessings, the sweet associations connected with the stillness of a peaceful Lord's Day, and the "sound of the church-going bell"!

The expense of building a neat and substantial church, capable of containing 800 people, is stated to be, at one Station, about 1500 Rupees—150*l.*

The Missionaries, writing from Palamcottah, mention a fact, in reference to the building of Places of Worship, which shows the Native Christians to be willing of themselves.

As a gratifying instance of good feeling on the part of one congregation, and a proof that permanent benefit has been derived from the Gospel, we may mention, that the Congregation at Alvarneri have come forward in a noble manner, and offered—though they are palmyra-climbers, who are but poor people, and number only about 40 families—to contribute 100 rupees toward the erection of a substantial Building with a tiled roof—to be a witness to their children's children of their sincerity—instead of the mud-walled and thatched Church in which they now worship.

*Bishop Corrie's Grammar School.

Of this Institution it is reported, June 30, 1839:—

There has been no marked change in the condition or prospects of the School since the date of the last Annual Report. Seven Youths, who had been for some time under instruction at the School, have been removed to an Institution established by the Church Missionary Society. Others have left the School, to enter on the duties of life; and four boys have recently been nominated to scholarships attached to the Vepery Grammar School.

MAYAVERAM.

This Station is at present under the charge of the Rev. Foster Rogers. Mr. Rogers arrived at Madras in June last, and is intended for the Madras Mission; but proceeded to Mayaveram, on a temporary arrangement with a view to his studying the Tamul uninterruptedly. The Bishop of Madras remarks of this place, Jan. 16, 1840:—

I passed lately a few hours—all that I could spare—at Mayaveram; where I had the pleasure of seeing the Rev. F. Rogers, and of hearing him spoken of in terms of high praise.

The Committee have made arrangements which will lead, they trust, to the permanent re-occupation of Mayaveram by European Missionaries.

TINNEVELLY.

The Committee are bound to record, with sentiments of deep gratitude to the All-gracious Head of the Church, that the Mission in Tinnevelly is gaining increased health and strength. In the Five Districts into which it was stated in the last Report to have been divided, there is a manifest improvement, whether attention be directed to the state of the Ministry and the Congregations, to the character of the Catechists and Subordinate Assistants, or to the work of Education and other details. On each of these points the following Extracts from the Communications received by the Society afford satisfactory evidence.

The Ministry.

On the work of the Ministry it is remarked—

Our unfeigned thanks and praises are due to Almighty God for the blessings of peace which, after so long an interval, we have at length, in this part of the Mission, begun to enjoy. The arrangements contemplated for the partition of the Northern half of the Mission, and partly effected last year, have all been successfully completed, and harmony and order everywhere established. The facility which this has afforded us, of carrying out with effect the wholesome discipline of the Church, has been truly gratifying to ourselves, and most conducive to the healthy state of our congregations.

Another writes—

Several new Congregations have been added to the Mission.

And concerning those who are added to the Congregations, the following important observation occurs:—

The number might certainly have been swelled, if hopes had been held out that worldly assistance would be rendered, in complaints, and other worldly troubles of the people. One large and respectable village offered to come under instruction, and build a church, provided that I would in some way or other interfere respecting their taxes. My answer to all such invariably is, that God has sent me here neither to be ruler nor judge in their worldly affairs, but to preach the Gospel, and show them the way of Salvation. And it is remarkable, that though this declaration is not very acceptable to many, yet, when I make it honestly and fairly, the very Heathen themselves approve of it, and acknowledge its justness, even though their hopes of assistance should be disappointed.

The degree of religious proficiency is thus stated by one of the Missionaries :—

I find that the people are increasing in knowledge. Many can repeat the Catechism, which includes the Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer. Some few repeat two or three chapters in the New Testament; and are able to give the heads of the Parables, and a fair account of many historical facts related in the New Testament. Not many of the adults are able to read. Taking this into consideration, the knowledge which they acquire is very fair: probably there is more Scriptural Knowledge than among the same number of uneducated people in England. However, to abandon outward Idolatry, and to learn something of Christianity, is comparatively easy; but to give up deceit, lying, covetousness, and other sins, is a far different matter. Idols of wood and stone may be utterly despised, while the idols of the heart may be cherished and adored.

The dutiful attachment of the Native Converts to their Pastors cannot be better exemplified than in the following fact related by Mr. Pettitt :—

In one of my visits, I was obliged to pass a village without having Divine Service. The people immediately concluded that it was intended as a punishment for their indifference; so that, without delay, they set about a reformation; and had arranged to come to me in a body last month, to beg that I would visit them, had I not unexpectedly gone to their village, to have Service the evening before.

Selection of Catechists.

This change in the general state of the Mission is to be attributed, among other causes, to the great care which is now exercised in the selection of Catechists, on whom so much of the instruction and discipline of the Natives necessarily devolves. The Bishop of Madras has, with the greatest earnestness, addressed himself to this momentous question. His Lordship pointedly remarks, April 27, 1839 :—

The progress of Christianity, so far as it depends on man, depends very essentially on the Catechists. A good Catechist is the Missionary's right hand: he cannot feed his Native Flock without him.

Feeling that Christianity will never be widely diffused throughout

India until we have a strong body of well-educated and enlightened Native Clergy, I cannot but hope that the day will come, when, with God's Blessing, the office of Catechist will be made, as it were, a kind of apprenticeship to that of Deacon and Presbyter; and the prospect of obtaining admission into the Ministry being thus held out to them, the Church will be blessed with a far more efficient body of Catechists than she possesses at present.

It is highly encouraging to find the Missionaries writing as follows, concerning those Catechists whom they have recently employed :—

The return of so many Catechists to the Society, so far from creating a surplus number not required for congregations, has left us still to experience some difficulty in supplying all our congregations with suitable Teachers. We have many indications of a steady improvement in knowledge, and, we may add, in Christian character, among the Catechists.

In connexion with this subject, we give the following Extract from the Report of this Mission :—

In the last Report, we had to mention the transfer of three Boys of promising character to Bishop Corrie's Grammar School in Madras: and we are now happy to add, that two other Boys, whose abilities and character were satisfactory, were sent to Madras in February last, and have likewise been admitted into that School.

Catechists' Book Society.

A Book Society, adapted for this important class of Missionary Labourers, has been established, with a view to promote their improvement in whatever pertains to their office. Mr. Pettitt writes concerning it—

The conduct of the Catechists has, with some exceptions, been satisfactory; and many of them have evinced a desire to acquire Scriptural Knowledge, that they may become the better qualified for their work. It is our wish, of course, not only to encourage, but as much as possible to excite, such a desire, and to satisfy it with suitable works, either original, or translated into the Tamul: for which purpose a Book Society has been established in the Mission, the Prospectus of which is already before the public. It is obvious, that sound Scriptural Knowledge is the first qualification for a Catechist; and feeling this, a Scripture History will, I hope, be speedily supplied.

Catechists' Widows' Fund.

A Fund has also been raised among the Natives for the benefit of the Widows of Deceased Catechists. In their first Report, it is remarked—

Surely we ought not for a moment to account it an affliction, that there are now five Widows on the Fund; but rather rejoice that this Society puts forth its energies, fulfils the object of its establishment, and every month performs a work well pleasing to God, and consoling to the hearts of those who have been plunged into grief.

Revision of the Tamul Prayer-Book.

During the last half year, the revision of the ordinary Services of the Common Prayer-Book by Mr. Pettitt has been finished; and, by the kindness of the Corresponding Committee, carried through the Press, and circulated among Tamul Scholars, for their opinions and remarks.

EDUCATION.

SEMINARY.—Of this Establishment, it is remarked by the three Missionaries writing from Palamcottah:—

It is gratifying to have the testimony of those who attended the recent Half-Yearly Examination, that the Boys had not lost ground, but had made better progress in their learning than could reasonably have been expected. In English Reading, Geography, and Scripture Knowledge, they acquitted themselves creditably.

State of the Schools.

Mr. Blackman remarks of his District:—

The place at which I reside contains a population of about 7000 of different castes: about 300 are Christian, the rest Heathen and Mahomedan. I have the education of the children of this place completely in my own hands.

He further states, concerning Female Education:—

The Kadatchapooram Girls' School has been established about two years, and our expectations of its usefulness have hitherto been fully realized. Nearly thirty girls of the fifty who attend the school are able to read the Scriptures; some of them, very fluently. They have learned Catechisms, and many Hymns. One of the girls, who knew not a letter when the school was commenced, has acquired such a knowledge of reading as to qualify her to act as Monitor. She is a very quick girl, and her conduct most satisfactory: this recommended her to the office, for which she receives half-a-rupee (or one shilling) a month.

Mrs. Schaffter, writing from Palamcottah, Aug. 27, 1839, adds the following particulars concerning Female Education:—

I have now thirty-seven girls in the Boarding School, and twenty-five girls in the Kuruvenkotei School. The last-mentioned school I examined on the fifth of this month; and found the girls, considering them to have just commenced, going on pretty well. They are, I think, improving in the knowledge of the Word of God; but that their hearts are touched by a sense of their sins, I cannot say. They know themselves to be sinners; but I do not think they have ever yet fled to the Refuge from the wrath to come. There are two girls in my School who sometimes show a desire and love for Christ; but I do not think they are decided yet.

TRAVANCORE.

State of the Mission.

The difficulties in which this Mission was involved at the date of the last Report still continue to exist.

In the month of February last, the Rev. J. Chapman, B.D., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, left this country for the Travancore Mission, with a view to take charge of the Syrian College.

Translations and the Press.

The Rev. B. Bailey still continues his employments in the departments of Translation and Printing. His eldest son, after having studied the art of Printing, has recently gone to India, with a view to employment as a Printer. The Rev. H. Baker is still occupied in the superintendence of Schools.

Mission Church at Mavelicare.

The Rev. J. Peet is stationed at Mavelicare, a large town in Travancore. A Church has been erected at this place. Its importance, and the hopeful circumstances attending the commencement of his labours there, are thus stated by him:—

> This town was formerly the seat of Government, and a place of great note: it is, even now, called by the Natives the "Eye of Travancore." It is situated within a few miles of twenty-one Syrian Churches, most of which are easy of access from it: and, according to a census taken in 1837, there is in Mavelicare and the adjacent districts a population of no fewer than 267,352 individuals. In Mavelicare alone the population amounts to 63,652. Among this number are some of the most rich and influential people of the land. Most of the reigning Rajah's family dwell near the Mission Premises; and, in consequence of this placé having been the seat of royalty, a vast number of Brahmins are fed and lodged at the public expense.

Hopeful State of a Nair.

The remarkable circumstances which, in the course of providential events, have brought a Syrian of piety and rank into the sphere of Mr. Peet's labours, are thus related:—

From what has been said about Mavelicare, and the number of Brahmins living in it, it will create no surprise to hear that this is one of the strongest holds of Idolatry in Travancore. Yet even here a copy of our Common-Prayer-Book, translated into the vernacular tongue, found its way, about three years since—according to the individual's own statement—into the hands of a Nair of the first class, residing in the fort near to the Rajah's Palace, and among all the Brahmins. By reading this book, the man's attention was aroused to consider the Christian Religion: with his own system he was well acquainted. After having perused the Prayer-Book, his interest in the subject was fully awakened. He next procured and read with avidity the New Testament, and some other works; which were the means of shaking his confidence in his own faith, and half awakening his mind to a conviction of the truth of the Christian Religion. Such was his state, when, about twelve months since, upon my first coming to Mavelicare, I met with him. By the blessing of God upon our mutual conversation upon the great subject of Religion, and by his attendance upon the means of grace, he made a rapid progress in divine knowledge, and gave good evidence, so long as six months since, that he was really converted to the faith of Christ, and publicly declared that he would become a Christian.

Mr. Peet adds:—

On Lord's Day, June 9th, in presence of my own little congregation, and a considerable number of strangers, I baptized him and his wife—when, at their own request, they took the names of Cornelius and Mary—as the happy first-fruits of the Mission. We had a most solemn and affecting season; and I trust the power of the Holy Ghost was with us, to comfort us, and crown our labours with success. Up to this time, Cornelius and Mary have gone on steadily; happy in their escape from misery, and waxing bolder in their Christian Profession. Cornelius has a surprising knowledge of the truths of our Religion, and is well able to give a reason for the hope that is in him. Mary has a good understanding; but, as she cannot read, comes every day, after settling her household affairs, to my dear partner, to learn to sew, read, and be further instructed and established in the truths of Christianity.

COCHIN.

Views of the Mission.

The Rev. S. Ridsdale's place at this Station has been supplied by the Rev. H. Harley.

At this Station, the regular attendants on Public Worship are more than 700 in number, and the Communicants 170.

Mr. Harley thus writes, March 7, 1839:—

Mr. Ridsdale preached his farewell discourse to both the Malayalim and English Congregations last Lord's Day. It was truly affecting to see the Malayalim Children and People weeping so bitterly as they did at the thoughts of losing him so soon.

ALLEPIE.

View of the Mission.

The Rev. Thomas Norton and his two sons continue labouring at this Station; and extend their exertions to various out-stations.

Of the state of the Mission in Allepie, Mr. Norton, in April 1839, reports:—

The general character of my people is much the same as stated on former occasions: several of them are making progress in Christian Knowledge, and, I trust, in heartfelt experience, and corresponding consistency in their walk and conversation: and those concerning whom we cannot as yet rejoice as truly converted to God, prove that they derive extensive benefit from the Christian Religion: they are separated and weaned from idolatry, and all that savours of it: they live within the bonds of Christian marriage, and walk accordingly; and their general tone of conduct bespeaks them as directed by a higher rule than is to be found without the Christian Church.

The Congregation numbers upward of 500 individuals.

Mr. Norton makes the same remark with the other Missionaries as to the need of superior Native help. He observes, April 24, 1839:—

The three individuals just named are very closely occupied in their studies. One of our greatest trials is the paucity of SUITABLE assistance in the work: by "suitable," I mean men of real piety, with some talent, who will feel interested in the message of Redeeming Love, and desirous that those whom they address should, with the Divine Blessing, receive it.

Native-Female Schools.

The Corresponding Committee at Madras remark generally on this subject, in reference to the whole South-India Mission:—

At every Mission Station, except Madras, there are Female Boarding Schools, under the immediate superintendence of the Missionary's Wife. At Palamcottah, are Mrs. Schaffter's and Mrs. Pettitt's; at Satankoollam, Mrs. Blackman's; at Cottayam, Mrs. Bailey's and Mrs. Baker's; at Cochin, Mrs. Ridsdale's, now under the care of Mrs. Harley; and at Allepie, Mrs. Norton's. Mrs. Blackman is also introducing Female Day Schools into the surrounding villages.

BOMBAY AND WESTERN-INDIA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1820.

Mission Establishment:

6 Missionaries.	2 European Teachers.
1 Master of the Money School.	14 Native and Country-born Teachers.

This Mission, as stated in the last Report, has two Stations: one at Bombay, the other at Nassuck.

BOMBAY.

Educational Establishment.

After much delay and difficulty, the Corresponding Committee have succeeded in obtaining premises for the educational establishment, which it is designed to establish in this Presidency, under the designation of the Money Institution. It is not expected that there will at present be found any considerable number of Christian Youths desirous of a superior Education. In this respect the Presidency of Bombay is still far behind those of Calcutta and Madras. But as the Bishop of Bombay remarks, on behalf of the Corresponding Committee, of which his Lordship is President—"We shall begin with a school, and work up into something higher." Mr. J. S. S. Robertson has been actively engaged in training classes for this Institution. He remarks of those under his teaching, January 23, 1840:—

> The daily attendance at present is about seventy; only fourteen of whom are as yet capable of receiving the benefit of my instructions. The under classes are attended to by an Indo-British Schoolmaster and two Native Assistants. I am very sorry that all I can write about, to the Committee, is labour rather than fruit. May the Lord grant His Spirit to bless the seed which is daily sown! We have a Missionary Prayer-Meeting every Monday Evening; in which we are joined by our beloved Brother, the Rev. George Candy, of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Mr. Robertson at the same time reports:—

I am engaged every Lord's-Day Afternoon with a class of Natives, from seventeen to twenty-five years old, who read the Bible in English: they are generally Writers in Government Offices, or have some other literary employment. Some of them are hopeful, inquiring after Truth in general, and convinced of the errors of their own religious system. I wish I could add, that they are friendly to the Christian Religion. In addition to my daily engagements in public, I have a class of advanced Youths, who attend my own house two or three evenings every week.

It is the wish of the Committee that the Rev. G. M. Valentine, while engaged in the general duties of the Mission, should especially aim at cultivating habits of friendly and intelligent Christian intercourse with the higher classes of the Natives, with a view to interest them in plans of education for their Youth.

Opposition of Natives to the Gospel.

The Committee learn, from the latest communications, that there is again a great excitement at the Presidency, in consequence of the baptism of two Parsee Boys, some time since, by Dr. Wilson. Alluding to this state of things, the Lord Bishop of Bombay emphatically remarks, Jan. 30, 1840:—

But the Lord reigneth, be the people never so unquiet. My advice is, to work hard, fairly, uprightly, but quietly, and keep out of the noise. Offer up many prayers; and I think a blessing will appear.

NASSUCK.

Labours in the Ministry, in Schools, and in Translations.

At this Station, the Rev. J. Dixon still continues his labours in Mahratta Translations. The duties performed by the Rev. C. P. Farrar and Mrs. Farrar, who are now in this country on account of health, have been undertaken by the Rev. Cyrus Stone and Mrs. Stone. Mr. Stone writes, Oct. 2, 1838, concerning his labours in the Ministry and Schools—

I have taken charge of the Schools in the Wada; namely, an English School of thirty-one scholars, eleven of whom are boarders; and a Mahratta School of about fifty scholars. Mrs. Stone has taken charge of the Girls' Mahratta School, of about sixty girls; and the Girls' English and Mahratta Boarding School, of fifteen scholars.

All the Schools in the Wada attend Mahratta Service daily, in the Chapel.

The Rev. C. C. Mengé has principally been engaged with the Hindoostanee Schools, and the Mahomedan Population. He states, April 2, 1839, concerning his labours in this department—

As to the progress of the knowledge of the Gospel among the Mussulmans in Nassuck, public Divine Service in Hindoostanee has been performed every day, by myself, in the large School-room. The room opens upon the high road, so that passers-by have ample opportunity to hear and to see. It is regularly attended by the children of the school and the domestics; and by occasional visitors from among the Hindoos and Mussulmans, who sit down quietly and listen to the Word of God.

Mr. Mengé has also been engaged in the translation of several useful books for the service of the Mission.—He is at present on a visit to this country.

State of Goa.

The Rev. C. F. Warth, besides his regular labours in the Ministry, chiefly with the Heathen Mahratta Population, has been obliged, by his state of health, to make a tour of considerable extent. On this occasion he continually preached; and distributed Religious Tracts, which were sought for with great avidity. As his tour led him to the Western Coast, he visited Goa, the city of Churches and Colleges, the far-famed seat of Roman-Catholic Superstition. His description of its present state is deeply affecting, and teaches a solemn lesson to all engaged in Christian Missions. He writes—

Dec. 26, 1839—As I approach Goa, I observe more bungalows and churches scattered over the country. From the top of every hill, a fine and beautiful white-washed church smiles down into some green valley, or peeps out of a grove of cocoa-nut trees; and the standard of the cross is established on every cross-way. It is very pleasant to see this, especially in a country like India. But where is the power of the Cross? The word of the Cross has long ago ceased to be proclaimed; the churches are scarcely ever used; and only a few persons of the poor classes are seen to worship some saint, or an image of Mary: of the worship of God in spirit and in truth little or nothing is known. These people are very little wiser than the Heathens around them; their worship is not much purer than theirs; and the poorer classes of them look altogether inferior to the Hindoos.

CEYLON MISSION.

COMMENCED 1818.

Mission Establishment:

8 Missionaries.	104 Native Catechists and Teachers.
2 Native Missionaries.	25 Native Schoolmistresses.
1 Lay Agent.

The Committee rejoice to be able to report of this Mission, as in former years, that the Annual Meeting of its Members, in the autumn of 1839, was marked by the spirit of brotherly love and harmony.

Visit of the Lord Bishop of Madras.

The Mission in this island has, during the last year, had the benefit of the Visitation of the Bishop of Madras; the first since the separate establishment of that See. His Lordship writes from Madras, January 16, 1840:—

I have recently returned from a visit to Ceylon; where I inspected, with deep interest, the Society's Missions at Cotta, Kandy, and Baddagame. Severe illness, combined with the unfavourable season of the year, prevented me from reaching Jaffna.

Ordination of Two Natives.

His Lordship, in writing to the Committee, states this important fact;—the first of that nature which has taken place in this island; to be followed in due season, as the Committee earnestly trust, by many similar occasions. The Bishop writes, Jan. 16, 1840—

When at Colombo, I had the infinite satisfaction of admitting to Deacon's Orders two Native Youths educated at Cotta. I trust I need not say, that I did not take this step rashly or unadvisedly, or without prayer to God for guidance; for I feel most deeply my responsibility to lay hands suddenly on no man, and most especially on a Native. It is, however, my firm persuasion, that, in ordaining these two young men, I have faithfully made choice of fit persons to serve God in the office of Deacon. Perhaps I cannot better give you my opinion of them, than by writing out a passage respecting them, from a sermon preached by me on the Lord's Day after their Ordination:—" For the other two, into whose spiritual and moral proficiency I have felt it an especial duty to inquire, both in the usual course of official examination and by the more certain process of private and confidential intercourse—for the two recently-ordained Deacons of the Church of Christ an especial and deep interest must be felt by you all. They are Natives of this island; and they fully know the thick darkness which broods upon the souls of their countrymen, to whom they have now solemnly pledged themselves to bear the light of Christian Truth, that the kingdom of God and His Christ may supersede the kingdom of the devil and his angels. Will you not pray for them, that they may faithfully give of the bread of life to those of their poor ignorant countrymen who, through the Divine Blessing on their ministry, may be brought to know, that there is One mighty and most ready to save?"

The Bishop adds the following remark:—

I shall watch their progress with the warmest interest; convinced, that unless it please Providence to interfere with a miracle, India and the Isles will never be really Christianized except through the instrumentality of a Native Ministry.

COTTA.

State of the Institution.

The number of the Students in the Institution is twenty-four. They are under the charge of the Rev. J. F. Haslam; who thus reports of their attainments, March 6, 1839, shortly after entering upon his duties:—

I was agreeably disappointed in the extent of their attainments; of which I had not been led to form a sufficiently high opinion. I think that the Brethren who have preceded me in this office have certainly rather underrated than exaggerated their success in the instruction of these Youths. There is great docility in almost all of them; and some appear to be endowed with very good understandings.

The Bishop of Madras has stated very particularly his views of the Institution, in a communication dated Dec. 4, 1839. His Lordship writes:—

From the Girls' School we went to the pride and glory of Cotta, the Christian Institution; and here began the more important work of the day. Assisted by Mr. Haslam, I examined the four classes in Christian Doctrine and Scripture History, in which I found them remarkably well-grounded; and the two senior classes, in the Greek Testament. These showed a much more accurate knowledge of the language than I was prepared to meet with, both in the Greek Testament and Xenophon's Anabasis. Their Latin, though very respectable, was not so good as their Greek. On the whole, I was highly pleased with them; and, with God's Blessing, I am convinced that this excellent Institution will prove a very great benefit to the island.

The Governor of Ceylon attests, in similar terms, the valuable character of this part of the Society's labours. His Excellency thus writes to the Society, Jan. 16, 1840:—

I most sincerely hope and trust that a blessing will attend your Mission at Cotta; of which, the more I see, the more I can most conscientiously say I fully and entirely approve. A late residence there, for the purpose of retirement from the pressure of business, enabled me duly to appreciate its very great value; and I assure you I have returned fully satisfied of the blessing it diffuses around it. Long may this be the enviable work of your valuable Society!

Progress of Female Education.

In the Report of Cotta for the year ending Sept. 1, 1838, it is stated:—

We are glad to be able to report a considerable increase in the number of Girls; which we think may be regarded as an indication that the old prejudice, "What is the use of teaching Girls to read?" is dying away in the villages around. In recent applications made for schools, the people generally tell us, that in addition to the number of Boys which they specify, they will also send their Daughters.

KANDY.

This central Station of the island continues in charge of the Rev. W. Oakley. The remarks of the Bishop of Madras, on visiting this place, appropriately describe the character and success of Missionary labours here. His Lordship's communication is dated January 16, 1840:—

My next visit was to a place very interesting to me—the Church-Missionary Premises belonging to their Mission at Kandy, which, under the devoted care and unremitting labour of Mr. Oakley, grows and flourishes; and his School-room, which is also his Chapel, is becoming much too small for either purpose. He understands his work, and loves it; and is evidently doing good. His Native Congregation has presented to him, for Divine Service, a remarkably pretty set of Communion Plate. This is the first instance of the kind that I have heard of, and I was quite delighted with it. His School Children were remarkably neat and clean; although mine was an unexpected visit. Thirty-four of the Boys learn English. Mrs. Oakley has a Girls' School on the premises, in which I understand she takes a great interest.

His Lordship also remarks, concerning the Missionary position occupied by Mr. Oakley—

His heart is where it ought to be—in his work. Interference with European Congregations is a most seducing snare to Missionaries; and many, at different times and places, have been caught by it. Mr. Oakley has completely avoided it, though it lay in his path. Would that all would follow his example! It brings with it interference with European politics, European intrigues, European strifes, and bickerings, and heart-burnings, and party estrangements.

Great exertions were made at this Station by the late lamented Rev. T. Browning; and have been assiduously followed up by Mr. Oakley, in order to effect a thorough visitation and examination of the whole Professing Christian Population of Kandy. Mr. Oakley's description of their condition is most deeply affecting. He observes, June 12, 1837:—

The state of this town alone is almost sufficient to overwhelm us, if not to lead us to despair. In 400 families whom I have visited during the last few months, I have not met twenty individuals who even appear to be earnestly seeking the salvation of their souls.

He has, nevertheless, through faith in the Divine Promises, been enabled to continue labouring, in season and out of season.

BADDAGAME.

This Station, formerly under the charge of the Rev. G. C. Trimnell, who is now in this country on account of health, has recently come under the charge of the Rev. H. Powell. An interesting account has been forwarded by him of the state in which he found the Mission. Concerning the state of Education, he remarks, Jan. 24, 1839:—

> All our education here, like that in our National Schools at home, has this to recommend it, that it is conducted upon strictly Christian Principles. The Bible is the text-book of the School. The children are taught to read, to love, and to reverence it; not as something which they are at liberty to believe or disbelieve at pleasure, but as the only Book in existence in which God speaks authoritatively to mankind; as the only Book which points out a remedy for the defects and disorders of the human race; as a Book in which every one, of whatever age, rank, or condition in life, is personally interested; and one also which cannot be neglected without incurring the greatest guilt. In this, then, we may find encouragement.

The results of such education are such as might be looked for: they are thus attested by the Bishop of Madras. Speaking of his visit to this place, his Lordship writes, Nov. 2, 1839—

> Saturday was a white day to me; truly and fully a day of joy and thanksgiving! I have not seen so happy a sight since I came to India.
>
> The children being assembled, and seated in their places, I gave the Candidates for Confirmation a close and really difficult examination; and was highly gratified by their knowledge of Christian Truth;—for it evidently was knowledge, and not a mere thing of rote. As a fair trial of the state of the School, I requested Mr. Powell to question his youngest and least-advanced class; and found a proficiency quite equal to that of children of the same age in England.

NELLORE.

The Rev. W. Adley labours alone at this Station; his fellow-labourer, the Rev. J. Knight, having been on a visit for health to this country. Mr. Adley has been called to suffer severe affliction, in the death of his wife, after a short illness.

In enumerating the amount of Religious Tracts issued from the Press during a period of four years, Mr. Adley states that the number was nearly One million three thousand.

General Review of the Indian Missions.

The Committee cannot review the present state of their Indian Missions without deep thankfulness to Almighty God.

In North India, the establishment of Native Christian Villages, and the thousands of inquirers at Krishnaghur—in South India, the re-union of the thousands at Tinnevelly in harmony and peace, under the teaching of Missionaries of our own Church—in Ceylon, the first-fruits of a Native Singhalese Ministry—the progress of Native Female Education throughout the three Presidencies and in Ceylon—and all these blessings acknowledged, recorded, and fostered by the venerated Prelates of the respective Dioceses—call forth emotions of the liveliest gratitude. The Committee are constrained to add—The Harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the Harvest, that he will send forth Labourers into his harvest.

The Countenance given to Idolatry, a Hindrance to Missions.

While, however, there are these unequivocal indications of a hopeful state of things in India, the countenance still given to the Idolatrous Systems of India operates as a hindrance to the Natives embracing Christianity. The hopes raised in this Country, by the pledges given to Parliament in 1838 by Her Majesty's Ministers that this stumbling-block should be removed, have not, the Committee regret to state, been redeemed. They have therefore prepared a Petition on the subject to the two Houses of Parliament, under a deep conviction that nothing but a strong yet temperate expression of public opinion on the subject can remove this stain on our character as a Christian Nation, and remove adventitious obstacles to the labour of Missionaries among the Natives of India.*

WELLINGTON VALLEY.

Trials attending this Mission.

The difficulties of the Mission to the Aborigines of New Holland have been greatly increased, by various causes, during the past year. It was proposed by Government to establish a Township on the site of the Mission at Wellington Valley: and preparatory to this, a Police Station was formed there. The injurious influence of such a course, in the corrupt state of society around, was most painfully felt by the Missionaries and by the Corresponding Committee. The Committee are thankful to state, that on the evil consequence of the proposed proceeding being strongly represented to the Home and Colonial Governments, the design of forming a Township at Wellington Valley has been relinquished. There are, however, still some unsettled points under discussion between the Government and the Committee, relative to this Mission.

During the closing part of 1838, and for some months in the commencement of 1839, the Colony of New South-Wales was, to a great extent, visited with severe drought. The Missionary Body at Wellington Valley describe the consequent distress as very great. The Agriculturist, Mr. W. Porter, writes on this subject, April 6, 1839:—

> The severe drought, with which the Colony has been visited for many months past, still continues, with all its distressing consequences. We have been prevented from entering into any agricultural employments, in which we ought now to be fully engaged. We have not sown, and cannot sow, one grain of wheat, until the Lord shall be pleased to send us rain: nor can we even plough one single furrow, as a preparatory step. We have spent much time in dragging cows out of the river; the water of which has fallen so low, and left so much mud, that the cows, in going to drink, stick fast in it, and are too weak and poor, through the scarcity of food, to get out again without help: we have sometimes had two or three in a day to drag out. The distress is becoming truly alarming; as it will be impossible, in a short time, if the drought continues, to obtain the necessaries of life—flour and salt. We have been obliged to use the greatest possible economy in giving food to the Natives, which has caused a great many of them to go away; and those that do remain are very unsteady in their habits, sometimes being with the police constables, and sometimes with us, just as it suits their fanciful minds. Our horses are very poor: we have scarcely one that is fit to do a day's work. We endeavour to keep alive those that we do work, by giving them a few reeds, which the Natives get for us out of the river. Our wheat crops having entirely failed, we are obliged to buy every bushel we want, at a high price.

Actual Progress of the Mission.

In the Annual Report of the Mission to Government for 1838, the Rev. Messrs. Watson and Günther, and Mr. W. Porter, represent that some advance had been made in the work of the Mission, notwithstanding the various disheartening circumstances with which they were surrounded. They remark—

The Young Men have improved, both in reading the Holy Scriptures and in acquiring Religious Knowledge. They frequently ask important questions on religious subjects, and the explanation of Holy Scripture; which proves that they are not inattentive to what they hear and read. The Children daily read the Holy Scriptures: they have also commenced learning English Grammar and Geography, and are taught writing and accounts. The Boys appear to be capable of learning any useful trade; and probably would soon make considerable proficiency, with proper tools and materials, and under a patient instructor. They laid the floor of one of their own huts with brick ends, very well. They are very useful in the garden, and are partial to working there. As it regards the Adult Natives generally, to be occasionally visited by them, or occasionally to visit them in the bush, is not sufficient: they need to be under continual instruction and training, like children. If—as is almost universally asserted throughout the Colony—the Aborigines of New Holland be more deeply sunk in moral degradation, and possessed of less intellectual capabilities, than those of any other Heathen Country, it must follow, of course, that, in endeavouring to raise them in the scale of human society, and to make them acquainted with the Gospel of Jesus Christ, before their case can be fairly declared hopeless, a longer time must be allowed, and more energies put forth, than have been devoted by Missionaries in other parts before they saw any permanent fruit of their labour.

Mr. Günther thus speaks, Nov. 30, 1838, respecting the gradual weaning of the Aborigines from their unsettled habits and gross ignorance:—

So far as regards the knowledge of Religion, the observance of Religious Ordinances, a consciousness of what is right and good, and the contrary, there is undoubtedly some, and, I should say, much improvement. Occasionally, also, we have observed Religious Impressions in some of them, and more reflection and inquiry than is commonly witnessed in the Blacks of this country who have not had the benefit of being taught. As to civilization, though they all at times show something of their savage disposition, on the whole the conduct of a considerable number evinces a change for the better. I do not speak of a real change of principles. Some are becoming more steady, less addicted to their wandering habits, desire to have huts for themselves, and have built two for their use. As it regards general and domestic work, some do at times very well. Habits of cleanliness, likewise, are obtaining with several.

MORETON BAY.

The Rev. J. C. S. Handt has continued to labour at this place. There is, however, little progress of the Missionary work among the Aborigines, owing to their vagrant habits and savage character. "The Aborigines," Mr. Handt observes, "have visited the Settlement, in general from ten to forty, both adults and children—sometimes more, and at other times less; and it was seldom that there were none at the Settlement."

The consideration of the small prospect of present usefulness has led the Committee to decide that Mr. Handt should resume his labours at Wellington Valley.

Visit of the Bishop of Australia to the Mission.

THE intended visit of the Bishop of Australia to this Mission was mentioned in the last Report*. His Lordship accordingly proceeded to New Zealand at the close of 1838, on board H. M. S. "Pelorus." He landed in the Bay of Islands on the 22d of December, 1838; and sailed from the Thames, for Norfolk Island, on the 11th of January 1839. The Bishop addressed a Letter to the Committee on the 28th of March, detailing his views of the Mission. This Letter is printed in the Appendix†. During his stay, the Bishop admitted the Rev. O. Hadfield to Priest's Orders; and administered the rite of Confirmation to about twenty young persons of European Parentage, and to double that number of Native Converts. Previously to the Bishop's departure he received a respectful and affectionate Address from the Missionaries and Catechists, expressive of their sense of the favour conferred upon them by his visit—of their thankfulness for his pastoral advice and exhortations—and of their hope of the renewal of his visit. In his reply, the Bishop assured them of the interest which he took in their important work, and of his satisfaction at the progress of their labours.

In writing to the Committee, the Bishop bears the following Testimony to the Missionaries.

With regard to the Missionaries of the Society, I must offer a very sincere and willing testimony of their maintaining a conversation such as becomes the Gospel of Christ, and the relation in which they stand to it, as the professed guides and instructors of those who are, by their agency, to be retrieved from the service of sin. Their habits of life are devotional: they are not puffed up with self-estimation; but appeared, to me, willing to learn, as well as apt to teach: and among themselves, they appear to be drawn together by a spirit of harmony, which is, I hope, the sincere effusion of their hearts; prompted by that spirit, of which love, gentleness, and goodness, are among the most delightful fruits. It is upon the continuance of this spirit among themselves that I raise my principal expectations of their continued success among the Natives. Without unanimity, there can be no successful combination of their exertions, nor is any blessing upon them to be hoped for, such as has hitherto visibly attended them, and in a very ample measure.

The Bishop thus expresses his opinion on the Large Number of Converts.

At every Station which I personally visited, the Converts were so numerous, as to bear a very visible and considerable proportion to the entire population; and I had sufficient testimony to convince me that the same state of things prevailed at other places which it was not in my power to reach. As the result of my inspection, I should state, that in most of the Native Villages, called Pas, in which the Missionaries have a footing, there is a Building, containing one room, superior in fabric and dimensions to the native residences; which appears to be set apart as their place for assembling for Religious Worship, or to read the Scriptures, or to receive the exhortations of the Missionaries. In these buildings generally, but sometimes in the open air, the Christian Classes were assembled before me. The grey-haired man and the aged woman took their places, to read and to undergo examination, among their descendants of the second and third generations. The Chief and the Slave stood side by side, with the same Holy Volume in their hands; and exerted their endeavours each to surpass the other, in returning proper answers to the questions put to them concerning what they had been reading. These assemblages I encouraged, on all occasions; not only from the pleasure which the exhibition itself afforded, but because I was thus enabled, in the most certain and satisfactory way, to probe the extent of their attainments and improvements. The experience thus acquired, has induced me to adopt the habit of applying the term "Converts," to those alone—for many such I found there were—who, in the apparent sincerity of their convictions, and in the sufficiency of their information, compared with their opportunities of acquiring it, may be considered Christians indeed. They have, as the Society is probably informed, the whole, I believe, of the Liturgy in their own language; accompanied, for several years past, with portions of the New Testament.

Colonization Proceedings.

In the last Report, the Committee noticed the plans brought forward for the Colonization of New Zealand, and the measures which they had taken in consequence*. The subject was subsequently referred to in the House of Commons, by Sir R. H. Inglis; and produced the following remarks from Mr. H. Labouchere, then Under Secretary for the Colonies:—

In answer to the question of the Hon. Member, I beg to state, that, in consequence of various circumstances, Government has come to the determination of taking steps which will probably lead to the establishment of the British Colony in that country, as the number of British Subjects there renders the establishment of some Authority absolutely necessary; but as those measures are still incomplete, I trust the Hon. Baronet will excuse me from entering further into them. A number of persons have gone out to New Zealand; and, in order to protect the Aborigines, and for the maintenance of good order, it has been thought fit that measures should be taken to establish legal authority in the island.

With regard to the New-Zealand Land-Companies, I need hardly assure the Hon. Gentleman, that these Companies could not have been hitherto recognised by the Government. They have sent expeditions from this country on their own responsibility, and without any sanction from the Government: at the same time, an explicit declaration was made to them, that, in any future step which the Government might take with reference to New Zealand, it would not consider itself bound to recognise any title to land that might be set up, which should appear to be fraudulent or excessive.

I feel it better to give this explanation, because I perceive, by the Newspapers, that various schemes have been projected relative to the islands. Although, in the event of a British Colony being established in New Zealand, the Government would by no means discourage emigration to it which would be conducted in a manner not to interfere with the rights of the Aboriginal Inhabitants or with any titles to land which shall have been fairly acquired, yet, at the same time, it is necessary that parties should understand, that in the case of land acquired from the Aborigines—a class quite unable to protect, properly, their own interest—it is the duty of Government to protect them; and to see that no title to land be set up, which, as I before said, should appear either fraudulent or excessive*.

At a later period, Capt. Hobson, R.N., was despatched to New Zealand by Her Majesty's Government, in order to acquire the Sovereignty of the Islands, or portions of them, by treaty with the Chiefs. Capt. Hobson sailed to his destination in August last; and the Committee trust that his mission may lead to the most satisfactory arrangement of the important matters confided to him which the actual state of things will admit.

Episcopal Relations with the Mission.

The establishment of Episcopal relations with the Mission was referred to in the last Report†. The Bishop's visit to the Mission will, the Committee trust, promote the satisfactory accomplishment of this object. They fully concur with his Lordship in opinion, that "the Church of England requires to be planted there [in New Zealand] in the full integrity of its system."

Since the Bishop's Letter, above mentioned, reached the Committee, they have taken other steps directed to the effectuating an object, the importance of which they deeply feel.

The Committee proceed to detail the state of the Mission as presented in the communications of the Missionaries.

Northern District.

This consists at present of five Stations—Tepuna; Kerikeri and Wangaroa; Paihía; Waimate; and Kaitaia. Besides the ordinary pursuits of the Mission, are found the labours of a Medical Missionary, the agency of the Press, and the Agricultural Establishment.

TEPUNA.

Mr. King thus speaks, March 5, 1839, of the state of this Station:—

Many of those who make a profession of the Gospel relapse for a time, and then come forward again; so that they do not give satisfactory evidence of their sincerity, and thereby perplex our mind. Nevertheless, the work of the Lord is going on, and will prosper in the thing whereto He sent it; and His Word holds good, that we shall reap, if we faint not. The number of Natives under Christian Instruction, and favoured with the means of grace, is very large; but the number of those only who are, in my opinion, decidedly Christian, is small.

Of Kerikeri, Mr. Kemp reports as follows, April 19, 1839:—

The late changes and movements, especially Mr. Shepherd's moving to Wangaroa, have caused a considerable interruption in our School, at least for a time. I hope, however, that we shall soon be able to have a School on a better footing, and on a larger scale; as the vacant house of Mr. Shepherd, who will shortly move with his family to Wangaroa, will enable us to take in more Native Children, and provide better accommodation for them. The parents have, of late, been more anxious to have their children educated; which is a very pleasing feature in the Mission.

PAIHÍA.

The Rev. H. Williams, the Senior Missionary, labours at this Station. He relates, that at the close of 1838 he had left it, for a visit to the East Cape and Turanga; taking with him a party of Christian Natives, to establish them there as Teachers. "Everywhere," he remarks, "the demand for books was very great and general." He returned to Paihía at the end of the year; and was followed in this tour to the East Cape by his brother, the Rev. W. Williams, in the following spring.

WAIMATE.

At this flourishing Station the Rev. W. Williams has been diligently employed in the labours of the Ministry, in Schools, and in the work of Translation. The spiritual condition of the people may be inferred from the following passages in Mr. Williams's Journal:—

June 30, 1839: Lord's Day—Held Morning and Evening Service at Waimate. At the Lord's Supper, we had about 140 Natives.

July 7: Lord's Day—Held Service at Waimate in the morning, and admitted to Baptism 101 Adult Natives. The whole of these were carefully examined, and manifested a good general knowledge of the doctrines of the Gospel. It may be hoped that they will prove to be true members of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Bedggood, of this Station, writes as follows, Nov. 7, 1838:—

I wish to give one instance of the effect of the Gospel upon the Natives. A few days ago, one of the carpenters, engaged to build the new Church, employed a Native to dig his garden. When he had done his work, he went into the carpenter's shop, to talk with him about his payment. The other carpenter, a cross, surly-tempered man, said to the Native, "Get you out of the shop: we want none of you fellows here!" The Native replied, "Don't be angry: I am come to talk with Benjamin." The fellow said, "I shall be angry;" and, after a few words, began to ill-use the Native in a most barbarous manner; kicking him in the side, because he would not get up. The Native made no resistance, till the man left off; when he jumped up, took the fellow by the throat, held him with one hand as a man would a child, and drew out a plane-iron tied on the top of a stick so as to form a little adze. "Now," said the Native, while he held it over his head, "you see your life is in my hand: you owe your life to the preaching of the Gospel: you see my arm is quite strong enough to kill you; and my arm is willing;—but my heart is not, because I have heard the Missionaries preach the Gospel. If my heart were as dark as it was before I heard them preach, I should strike off your head." He did not return the blows, but made him pay a blanket for the insult.

Operations of the Press.

At the close of 1838, Mr. Colenso thus reports concerning his labours in this department:—

During the last six months I have been engaged as follows:—Printing Office—Printing 500 copies 1½ sheet "New-Zealand Grammar," demy 12mo. Composing "Order of Confirmation," 4 pp. post 8vo., and printing 200 copies of the same. Composing "Order of Consecration of Burial-Grounds," 4 pp. post 8vo., and printing 100 copies. Composing Prayer-Book 1½ sheet, demy 12mo., and printing 7000 copies. Binding Department—Binding 200 copies of St. Matthew's Gospel; 200 copies of St. Mark and Luke; 200 copies of St. John to Romans; 200 copies 1st Cor. to Philemon; 200 copies Hebrews to Revelation; and 9 Old Native Prayer and Scriptures.

Value put on the Scriptures and Liturgy by the Natives.

Various remarks from the Missionaries attest the value put by the Natives on the books printed at Paihía. The Rev. R. Taylor states on this subject, March 27, 1839:—

Much good has been effected: it was only yesterday that I was present when the new Translation of the Common Prayer was distributed; and the anxiety displayed by the poor Natives to obtain a copy surprised me. They were told that something must be given for them. In a very short time, there was a large heap of baskets filled with potatoes, which they thought a small price for the desired book. One said he wanted a copy, that it might be a telescope to hinder his ship from getting on the rocks. It was most gratifying to see the numbers who attend Divine Service. Last Lord's Day there were 700 present; and to see them sitting on the ground, at the feet of their Teacher—old warriors, aged murderers and adulterers, meekly listening to his words—was indeed an interesting sight!

Mr. Matthews writes, March 4, 1839:—

You ask, in one of your Letters, "Do your Natives enter into the spirit of our Liturgy?" I can say, that they prize it much; and more than ever do I myself feel that it is to be prized. They are a very talkative people; and our Service is altogether adapted to their spiritual wants. It being composed of sound Scripture truths, they have something to lead them, and to balance them; otherwise they would so mix up their own native "kupu wakairite" (parabolical way of speaking), as to mislead themselves into the way of error. A few weeks ago I went to Hokianga—a day's trip beyond Wangape. On our return, my Natives, of their own accord—to my surprise and delight—began to speak of our form of Divine Service. They quite sighed after the Psalms, &c., which are repeated in our old rush Chapel. I am more than ever persuaded, that did we all esteem the Book of Common Prayer more, and now and then excite the congregation to order and attention, as well as to inculcate the doctrines contained therein, we should soon see a great improvement. It is a pure, substantial way of serving God which is set forth in our excellent Liturgy. The Natives are naturally fond of display, and therefore a pure mode of worship is the more needful.

Mr. Puckey also writes as follows on this subject, March 4, 1839:—

You ask, "Do the Natives here seem to enjoy the Scriptures, and enter into the spirit of the Liturgy with energy?" I can answer, with much satisfaction, that they do. They read them over and over again, with as great delight as they did at first. I know many who spend much of their leisure time in reading the Bible; and they read so much, that their books soon wear out. Many Natives here, with scarcely any assistance, have taught themselves to read.

Agriculture.

Mr. Davis, who has the charge of the Agricultural Department, writes at the close of 1838—

About fifteen acres of land have been broken up. We have been much hindered, in this department of our work, for want of labourers to clear the land from roots; the carters having been obliged to clear away, before they could plough. Some potatoes have been planted, and some barley and turnips sown. Our wheat is nearly ripe. The crop promised well; but much and serious injury has lately been done by the caterpillars, which have made their appearance much earlier, and in much greater numbers, than heretofore. The latest wheat has also been injured by the frost.

And again, he remarks, Dec. 6, 1838, concerning the trials incident to these employments:—

My wheat-crop, of nearly forty acres, has, until within the last fortnight, had a very promising appearance; but the caterpillars are now making sad ravages on it. Agricultural settlers little think with what drawbacks they are likely to meet in this country.

The effect of example and encouragement, in stimulating the Natives to successful exertion, is thus described by Mr. Davis, Feb. 23, 1839:—

Hill [a Native] has three stacks already in his yard, and a staddle for the fourth. One of the ricks is large; the others are small. He has also some wheat in his little barn. Perhaps he has nearly 150*l.* worth of wheat there altogether. This sight rejoiced my heart, and led me to consider that the introduction of agriculture would be a real blessing to them. The old Chief spoke to me seriously about building a mill in the district. I know they require a mill, and I have no doubt that they would pay for it in time. They appear to be anxious to emerge from their present state: this they cannot do, unless they are taken by the hand.

KAITAIA.

Concerning this Station, which is the most northern one, it is reported, March 4, 1839:—

You would be much pleased to see the regularity maintained at several of the villages around us, in their strictness in attending to their morning and evening devotions; and I have known several instances of their praying privately in the bush, when they have not known that any one was within hearing.

The Natives having heard that it was in contemplation to remove one of the Catechists, so acceptably labouring here, to a new station, their Chief wrote a letter in his own language, with much feeling, to remonstrate against that course. Some of his expressions, translated into English, are as follows:—

Kaitaia, March 5, 1839.

Friends of the Committee—Our hearts have been made dark. We do not like to have our candlesticks taken away. If the Committee strive to take away one of our candlesticks, we shall strive to keep him; and it will remain as a strife between us. If our candlesticks are taken away, and other fathers are given to us, we shall not understand.

Medical Report.

Mr. S. H. Ford, who resides at present in the Northern District, writes, at the close of 1838:—

In making a general statement of my medical engagements during the past half-year, I have to record an amount of sickness, both among Missionaries, Natives, and Europeans in general, which perhaps may be considered as exceeding any that has heretofore presented itself in this island. This may be attributed to the prevalence of a severe epidemic, which made its appearance, in the northern parts generally, in the early part of December, and has since been found in some districts to the southward. During the whole of this month, indisposition was most general; insomuch, that it would have been difficult to point out any family that had not some, if not all, of its members affected by it. The poor Natives, prepared as they are, by a variety of causes, to be the ready victims of disease, were the first to feel its influence; and, both in the Mission Stations and at their native places, were universally affected by it. Scarcely a Native was to be seen moving about at this time; and we thought ourselves fortunate, if one in each family remained to assist us in the supply of each day's wants. Its characters were those of a severe influenza, affecting particularly the chest and head, and producing the aggravated symptoms of a severe cold, with great exhaustion of the nervous system, and intermittent fever. This latter symptom was particularly indicated by great prostration of strength, and indisposition to any exertion.

It was during this period of suffering that the Bishop of Australia visited the Mission. His Lordship interested himself much in the circumstances of the Natives, and obtained for them some immediate additional supplies; and, on his return to Sydney, preached a sermon on their behalf, as did also the Rev. W. Cowper. After the two Sermons, the sum of 86*l.* was collected.

Progress of Intemperance.

Before leaving the report of this part of the island, it is deeply affecting to record the following proof of those demoralizing habits which are constantly introduced by unprincipled adventurers. It is related by the Rev. H. Williams, Jan. 11, 1839:—

> The grog-sellers in the Bay of Islands number about fifty. The degree of vice and wretchedness thus propagated, among the shipping, and the unoffending Natives, must be incalculable.

Southern District.

Although war has not entirely ceased in this district, and occasionally has been waged with ferocity, yet the Missionaries have been enabled to maintain, and even in some measure to recover, the positions originally occupied by them. Maraetai on the Thames, Manukau to its west, Tauranga on the east coast, with its inland adjacent station of Matamata, and Rotorua more in the interior southward, have been for the most part occupied, or else actively visited by the Missionaries.

MARAETAI.

Of this Station, which is under the immediate charge of Mr. Fairburn, it is remarked by the Rev. R. Maunsell, in April 1839—

> I was able to attend the Public Examination of the Maraetai Schools. The number of scholars in all amounted to 200, and among them were some of the Head Chiefs of Ngatipaoa. I am happy also to add, that the answering in the several branches evinced a considerable advance upon that of our last Examination.

It is further stated, by Mr. Fairburn, of this part of the country, in May 1839:—

> The desire for Scriptural Knowledge is daily increasing. The application for books is incessant; and I believe I shall not overstep the bounds of truth, when I say that from 800 to 1000 of the Thames Natives can read the Scriptures. Several of those baptized have gone on visiting excursions to their distant relatives and friends, for the purpose of instructing them in those important truths which they have so lately learned.

MANUKAU.

The Rev. R. Maunsell, who occupies this Station, has been obliged, by the severe and dangerous illness of Mrs. Maunsell, to visit the Bay of Islands, for medical attendance. His fellow-labourer, Mr. J. Hamlin, has communicated fully his views of the ignorance of the Native Converts in Religious matters. He remarks, Sept. 25, 1838:—

The Natives of Manukau are scattered over a considerable tract of country; which makes it rather difficult to visit them often, as many of them at present can only be visited by water: but still I hope that our labours are blessed among them. There have been only five baptized since we have been here; one of whom has, I hope, entered into rest.

Mr. Maunsell adds, in April 1839, the following further particulars:—

We have now well-attended congregations at Manukau Heads, Pehiakura, and the Heads of Waikato; and an increasing desire for instruction among our people. Forty Candidates for Baptism are now on our lists; and those who last year were admitted into the Church, have, up to this period, maintained a very consistent and satisfactory course of conduct.

TAURANGA.

Of this important Station, the Rev. A. N. Brown reports, April, 1839:—

On Good Friday, 1839, five of the Candidates, after long probation and examination, were admitted, by Baptism, within the pale of Christ's visible Church. They had long given satisfactory evidence of their being Believers, not in word only, but in deed and in truth. Our Schools have been carried on with but little regularity, in consequence of the war. More than seventy, however, of the Natives, in those Schools, can read in their own tongues of the wonders of Redeeming Love. Our congregations show a considerable increase upon the last year: there are, probably, 800 Natives who regularly assemble for Divine Service in the Tauranga District, every Lord's Day. We speak not of this number as sincere converts: of the majority of them, perhaps, it may be said, they worship they know not what; yet are we thankful that they thus assemble, remembering that faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God.

ROTORUA.

This Station has been re-occupied by Mr. T. Chapman, since its destruction in 1836. He writes, in April 1839:—

From the first occupancy of Rotorua up to the present moment, a series of hindrances has occurred, which, in the ordinary course of events, might have been expected to have altogether retarded Missionary exertion, and blasted the expectation of Missionary fruit. The former, the enemy has accomplished; the latter has silently grown. War is the leading feature in this unsettled district; and yet it has not prevented the young men from forming themselves into bands, building little rush-chapels, and regularly meeting for Lord's-Day Worship, and Week-day Prayers; while the building these chapels, with but one exception, has been their own voluntary act. The cry for books here has increased to a very great degree, in perfect ratio with the ability and desire to read: and we believe, that did we possess at this present time 500 Prayer-Books, and an equal number of Testaments, the whole might soon be distributed; and allowing, perhaps, a fifth, for the use and encouragement of Schools, the remainder would be bought by the young men who have learnt, or are desirous of learning, to read.

Activity of the Natives in teaching their Countrymen, and in building Places of Worhip.

This forms so important a feature in the operations of this Mission, that although repeated reference has been made to it in the preceding extracts, the Committee give some further proofs of the advancement of the Mission in this respect.

The following instances occur, among others, in the visit of the Rev. W. Williams to the East Cape:—

June 3, 1839—We found at Waiapu the three Native Teachers, left by my brother four months before, very actively engaged. The degree of attention paid to them by the Natives generally is truly astonishing. At Wakawitira, a village of Waiapu, we found a Chapel 60 feet by 28, and the best building of the kind I have yet seen in the country. The congregation on Lord's Day was about 500. Schools for men and boys, and women and girls, are in active operation. Continuing our course along the coast to Turanga, or Poverty Bay, where are four other Native Teachers, we found the same opening for our labours. Indeed, from the centre of the Bay of Plenty, to the Mahia or Table Cape, the Natives are generally ready to lay aside their old superstitions, and to listen without reserve to our instruction.

And again, Aug. 28, 1839:—

I learnt to-day, from one who has been trading in the Bay of Plenty, that at Opotiki, where no Missionary has yet been, he witnessed the Natives assembling for Christian Worship in a regular and orderly manner.

Mr. Brown relates, to the same effect, June 6, 1839:—

From the language held by the leading Chiefs, the prospect of peace seems to be very distant; but, though they mean it not, I cherish the hope that peace, a lasting peace, will ere long be concluded. The Chiefs cannot now raise such an army as they were wont to do, at the commencement of the war. The body of Professing Natives—I say not, at present, Christians—is increasing every month; and this, of necessity, diminishes the number of Satan's belligerents. Those of the Natives who are thirsting for the blood of their enemies know and feel this. One of the leaders in the present war remarked to me, as he was passing on to battle a short time since; "You," i.e. Missionaries, "are stealing away our young men, and we are growing older and more feeble each battle. When a great man falls, there is no one now to take his place, as formerly. We cannot continue fighting much longer in this manner: we must either sit still and believe; or keep on a little longer, and then be all lost."

In another passage, Mr. Brown illustrates the simple nature of some of the more private Religious Services of the Natives. He relates, July 21, 1838:—

After the Evening Service, I found that a few of the Natives had met in our old residence, to hold a Prayer Meeting. They commenced by singing a hymn: a Native then engaged in prayer: that was followed by reading a chapter: another hymn was then sung: and after Ngakuku had addressed them, the Meeting was closed by another extemporaneous prayer. I caught the following sentence in the last prayer:—"O Lord, some of us know thy word; some of us are ignorant of thy word; some of us despise thy word—O Lord, have mercy upon all of us!"

Activity of the Papists in New Zealand.

The Rev. W. Williams writes on this painful subject, Aug. 28, 1839:—

The Papists are on the alert. Their establishment now, is, one Bishop, eight Priests, and two Catechists; and a French ship-of-war is expected to bring, it is said, ten more.

Mr. George Clarke remarks, June 1, 1839:—

We consider it a great mercy that the Natives were permitted to receive unmolested the New Testament in their own tongue, previous to the arrival of false teachers; and that many of them have made it their standard of doctrine and practice.

One Chief is represented as having become more deeply attached to the Society's Missionaries in consequence of what he had seen of Popery. Mr. Baker writes, April 29, 1839:—

He had been to hear the French Roman-Catholic Bishop, and was disgusted with what he saw and heard; stating, that there was too much native foolishness and superstition in what he witnessed, to induce him to embrace that religion. It left the people as it found them—in their sins, and with unrenewed hearts.

It were to be wished that all the Natives should form the same conclusion concerning Popery; but it is to be feared that many will be seduced by its pernicious ways.

Proposed Deputation to New Zealand.

The desire still continues in the Committee to obtain a Clergyman of standing and experience, and also a competent Layman, to visit and examine the state of this Mission. They much regret, that, though they have made their views generally known, they have not yet been successful in obtaining suitable persons for this object.

General Views of the Mission.

The Committee, in conclusion, remark concerning New Zealand, that its circumstances have of late years greatly varied, and may be expected to vary with increasing rapidity, by the introduction of Civil Government and Colonizing Enterprise. The Committee cannot view the past, and the probable future, without claiming, in all fairness, that tribute of respect to the Missionary Body which, by persons who have on the spot paid a candid attention to the subject, has never been withheld from them. The course taken by the Committee, in reference to the charges made against the Missionaries on the ground of improper purchases of land, and to the present circumstances of the Mission, were explained to the Members, in two Statements on those subjects. These Papers are printed in the Appendix*. To those who would detract from the general value of the labours of the Missionary Body, it is the bounden duty of the Committee to present the fact, that to their self-denying, perilous, and persevering exertions it is owing that New Zealand has become what it now is. To them is owing the introduction of agriculture and gardening; the use of the spade, the plough, and the mill: they brought thither cattle, sheep, and horses: they have built houses and chapels: they have cut roads through forests, and constructed bridges over rivers: they have, in a word, been the honoured instruments of rendering New Zealand accessible and safe to emigrants and settlers. In reference to the imputations cast on the Missionary Body on account of their purchases of land, the Rev. W. Williams writes, August 28th, 1839:—

There are those here who think that the Mission is in a most unhealthy state; and that with the want of faith which has been manifested, particularly in seeking a provision for the children, we cannot prosper. I think, however, the Mission Body was never in so healthy a state. There may be excrescences and tumours which require the knife;—and where is the body which is not subject to these? But whether I look at the work in our old Stations—not superficial work, but sound and solid, based on the Word of God;—or whether I look at the more recent Stations of the Northern District, and the regular increase in the Congregations and Schools; or again, I look still further, beyond our labours, where Natives will have Christianity whether we will give it or no; I am constrained to say, that the Body was never in so healthy a state; that we in New Zealand never had greater cause for encouragement, nor the Church at home stronger ground for thankfulness. I therefore will thank God, and take courage.

After the preceding part of the Report of the New-Zealand Mission had been drawn up, the Committee, on the 2d of May, received a Letter from the Rev. W. Williams, dated the 12th of November, taking a general view of the state of the Mission. The Committee have strong satisfaction in making the following extract from this communication; which, while it exhibits the geographical extent of the Mission, narrates many circumstances of deep interest, illustrative of the spiritual effects which, under the Divine Blessing, have followed the labours of the Missionaries. A Map of New Zealand is inserted, in order more clearly to understand Mr. Williams's Letter—

The only course I can take, to give you things as they are, will be, to place before you a Geographical Survey of the whole Island; accompanied by a Chart, marking our Stations; which, while it cannot fail to be interesting, will give you the facts of the case. The whole Island may be divided into Fourteen Districts—Kaitaia, Bay of Islands, Thames, Tauranga, Rotorua, Bay of Plenty, East Cape, Poverty Bay, Wairoa, Entry Island, Taranake, Waikato, Kaipara, and Hokianga.

Kaitaia, beginning from Wangape on the western coast to Waro, thence to Mount Camel and Oruru on the eastern coast, is occupied by the Church Mission. Chapels and regular Congregations will be found at every principal point; and the attention given, increases daily. The last report of Congregations gives an average of 1020.

Bay of Islands, including Wangaroa to the north, as far as Wangarei to the south, and the district of Mangakahia inland, is also occupied by the Church Mission, and is yielding much fruit from year to year. The aggregate of the Congregations is 1940.

Thames, on both sides of the Frith, is generally receiving the Gospel; and I am informed that the Congregations amount to about 700. This again is part of the field of the Church Mission.

Tauranga, including Matamata and Maungatautari, is a Church Missionary Station; and numbers in its Congregations at least 1000.

Rotorua, including Taupo in the centre of the island, although very little has been said respecting it, and though it is still involved in war with Tauranga, has Congregations to the amount of more than 1400. This, too, is under the Church Mission.

Bay of Plenty.—At Opotiki, Toure, Maraenui, and Motu, we have Native Teachers and Schools, but no regular returns. The Congregations at these places collectively amount to not less than 500. Mr. Mair, a merchant of the Bay of Islands, with whose name you are acquainted, was lately there with a vessel purchasing corn; and tells me that the inquiry for books was so great, that if he had had a number of our small Prayer-Books, he could have purchased a cargo with them alone.

East Cape is occupied by our Native Teachers, and the Congregations are upward of 1200.

Poverty Bay, also under the instruction of our Native Teachers, numbers in its Congregations, including those of Uaua, not less than 1000.

Wairoa has only been partially visited; but Native Teachers are proceeding thither, with me.

Entry Island, in which district is included the coast on the main to Port Nicholson south, and to Wanganui River north, has been under the instruction of one of our Native Teachers for the last three years, of whom I will give an account hereafter. Christian Worship has been established in a wonderful manner; and Mr. Hadfield is gone thither, to form a Station.

Waikato is divided between us and the Wesleyans; the latter occupying Kawia and Wangaroa, while Waikato River and Manukau are under the charge of our Missionaries.

Our attention has been turned to Kapiti for some years past. The Chief, Rauparaha, formerly connected with Rotorua, sent a Letter three or four years ago to my brother, requesting to have a Missionary; and his Letter was accompanied by one from a European residing there. No direct steps were taken until Mr. Chapman received at Rotorua a Letter from a Native named Ripahau, formerly living at Paihía, then at Rotorua, and who afterward went on to Kapiti in search of his relatives. This Native's application was for books, and stated that a number of people were anxious for instruction. Mr. Chapman forwarded this Letter to the Bay: and at the period when it was received, there arrived, by a vessel, in the Bay of Islands, from Kapiti, two young Chiefs, nephews of Rauparaha, whose avowed object was to obtain Missionaries and books. From them we learnt the particulars of Ripahau's labours; and had substantial proof of the correctness of a part, in the fact that the two Chiefs read well. They also stated, that at many of the villages the people observe the Lord's Day and hold Worship. For some time Ripahau had a solitary book; but afterward a small supply reached him, in a singular manner. The party of Rotorua Natives who waylaid the little band with Mr. Flatt, on the road from Matamata to Tauranga, and killed Ngakuku's little girl Tarore, took a few books in the spoil. One of these was the Gospel of St. Luke, with Ngakuku's name in it: a part was torn out for cartridges; and the remainder found its way to Kapiti, and was the book from which my informant learnt to read. So mysterious are the ways of God, and His judgments past finding out!

The Papists, I am thankful to say, do not appear to do much..... I hear that two are to be my neighbours at Poverty Bay. The nearer the better!

Our Committee Minutes will not go by the vessel which carries this Letter, but will wait for an opportunity direct to England. When you receive those Minutes, you will notice a request, that 10,000 copies of the New-Zealand Testament may be printed without delay, in England, from the Testament of which you have copies. Our reason for making this application is, that we cannot meet the demand fast enough with our present means. An edition ought to be commenced immediately; but the Prayer-Book will occupy at least the next twelve months, after which portions of the Old Testament will give full employment. You may judge of the rate of demand, from the course we have had to pursue with the Prayer-Book. A commencement was made to print 4000 copies of the Prayer-Book entire; but when it was advanced to the end of the Evening Service, it was deemed expedient to put into immediate circulation the 4000 copies with the addition of the Hymns, and to strike off 3000 more for the entire work; but the 3000 were required as soon as printed. These 6000 copies of the entire work were commenced; but before the type of the three first half-sheets is distributed, we have found it necessary to have 20,000 more of the smaller book, which will make a total of 33,000.

In order to carry on our work, we shall need more help. At the East Cape I shall have a parish of 120 miles in length, with a population of 36,000 souls. This charge will be commenced without any help but that of Native Teachers, about 20 in number.

WEST-INDIES' MISSIONS.

BRITISH-GUIANA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1827.

Mission Establishment:

2 Missionaries. 2 Catechists. 2 Country-born Teachers.

General View of the Mission.

During the past year, the Mission to the Negroes within the Parish of St. Matthew, which was in charge of the Rev. Charles Carter, has been given up; and the services of Mr. Carter have, with his own consent, at the instance of the Lord Bishop of Barbados, been transferred to a Station on the Pomeroon River, which the Bishop has established. The proceedings of the Society are therefore now directed solely to the Indians. The Mission consists of the Station at Bartica Grove, and the operations of Mr. Youd in the Interior.

Bartica Grove.

The Rev. J. H. Bernau reports of the Station at this place, June 28, 1839, as follows:—

There are now sixteen neatly-built cottages, inhabited by upward of ninety souls, including children; and the prospect of being well supplied with provisions, if the Lord bless, is encouraging.

Of the attachment of the Children to instruction, Mr. Bernau gives the following view:—

March 8, 1839—On examining the School Children, I found their progress very encouraging, and their capacity for learning not so defective as one might be led to expect. Whenever it happens that any are fetched back by their parents or relations—a case not frequent hitherto—they never depart but with tears in their eyes, and supplications to their parents to leave them in the place.

State of Education.

Mr. Bernau reports on this subject, October 30, 1839—

Our School has now 49; and will probably soon number 70 children. Mr. Youd has also sent one Macusie Youth for the Normal School: he looks rather delicate from the fatigues of the journey, but will, I hope, soon get better.

The Lord Bishop of Barbados visited this Station for a short time in June last, and made a benefaction to it of 15*l.*, through Mr. Bernau. He was pleased to express himself much delighted with the answers of the children, who were examined before him. His Lordship earnestly requested to have one of the Youths of the Normal School to accompany Mr. Carter to the Pomeroon Station already referred to.

Influence of Gospel-Truth on Savage Minds.

The true spirit in which these wild and untutored Indians are to be addressed, is thus feelingly described by Mr. Bernau, as the result of his experience among them:—

Feb. 22, 1839—There was a time, in my younger years, when I thought that the most startling and awful declarations of the Word of God were best calculated to command attention, and induce faith in the Son of God; but experience among these Heathen has convinced me, that they rather tend to harden than to soften a sinner's heart. It is the preaching of God's free grace and unmerited love alone which draws forth the desire from a soul—Let us love Him, because He first loved us. This free grace and unmerited love are the powerful lever by which men, dead in trespasses and sins, may be raised to life.

Missionary Operations in the Interior.

Since the last Report, the Rev. T. Youd has been under the necessity of quitting Perarara, on the demand of the Portuguese Governor, who claims the sovereignty of that part of British Guiana on behalf of the Brazilian Government.

He again proceeded into the Interior on March 3, 1839; and, after sustaining many hardships, arrived at his newly-chosen Station, near the Urwa Rapids, situated on the River Rupununy, Lat. 3° 26 N., on May 23d.

Labours in the Work of the Ministry.

The Rev. J. G. Mühlhauser thus describes, Nov. 14, 1838, the arduous duties which have devolved upon him:—

Since the death of the two Brethren, Williams and King, the duty has fallen rather hard upon me. I now stay, for some days every week, in the country residence, Belmont; from thence visiting the surrounding Estates. On the Lord's Day I preach three or four times:—once at San Fernando in the morning; in the afternoon, at two o'clock, at Belmont; and twice on Estates in the evening. Thus my time is wholly occupied, in preaching, visiting schools, in attending to the sick, &c. I am glad also to be able to state, that I perceive, and more particularly among my Negro Hearers, some indications of seriousness, and attention to their immortal souls.

In reference to the year past, Mr. Mühlhauser was enabled gratefully to report as follows, on Jan. 10, 1840:—

Another year has passed over our heads; and thanks be to God, that we can say it has passed without any removal from among us! We have been spared;—may it be for His glory and honour, and for the more effectual working out our own salvation through Jesus Christ! With regard to our work, I must confess that it has proceeded with much infirmity. I do think, however, that it has not been in vain in the Lord. San Fernando is daily increasing, and I begin to have a better attendance at Church.

The Rev. A. E. Eckel, writing August 22, 1839, thus describes the character of his Station:—

At Williamville, the aspect is very satisfactory. It is particularly delightful to witness, on the Lord's-Day Morning, the people forsaking their cottages at the sound of the bell, and, in a clean and neat dress, proceeding to the School-house, which we use as a chapel. There are some most excellent characters among these people;—some, of whom we cannot but confidently hope that they are near to the Kingdom of God. Indeed, the people here, with very few exceptions, are extremely well behaved. On seeing the readiness with which they receive instruction, one is ready to hope, of many of them, that they are a people prepared for the Lord. It matters not whether instruction is offered them in their houses, or in the chapels; they are equally ready to attend.

Who would not sympathize with them, and rejoice in the liberty to attend the preaching of the Word of Life which they now enjoy! They have several times expressed a wish to send some present to Her gracious Majesty, as a small tribute of their gratitude and loyalty. Such a present will probably be prepared by them. On a late occasion, when subscriptions were opened in all the Estates of this quarter for the sufferers of Martinique, these people gave about forty dollars, which is much more than the subscription of any other Estate in the quarter. Williamville is the only Protestant Estate.

Progress of Education.

It is stated by Mr. Mühlhauser, January 10, 1840—

Concerning our Schools, I am enabled to say, that they are getting settled; and that the attendance is as good as we can expect, considering the thinness of the population. Our San-Fernando School is in a very thriving state: the number is increasing, and the children make considerable progress in their learning.

The Country Schools are doing very well, and more particularly Belmont. When the others shall have been established a little longer, there is every probability that they will likewise do very well; but it requires some time to bring them to any stability. Our Belmont-Chapel School-house is very well attended on the Lord's Day; and we ought to be thankful that in so few years we number as many as we do.

Conflict between Protestant and Popish Principles.

So long as Popery continues, the strife between it and the truth of the Gospel must remain. Mr. Mühlhauser makes the following important statements on this subject, January 10, 1840:—

Concerning my Country District, I am thankful to say, that there appears some improvement, both in numbers and knowledge; but I am afraid we shall have many adversaries to contend with. It has now come more or less to a crisis, in which it will be decided whether the Roman Catholics will be able to bring back those who have come over to us, or whether the greater part of our hearers will follow the great light that has risen upon them.

Docility of the Negroes.

Mr. Gilbert states, January 1, 1840, on this subject:—

There are many features in the Negro Character which inspire the hope that one day they will be a kind and Christian People. They are willing to be taught, and they are not wise in their own conceits. This is a great encouragement to the Christian Teacher: he feels a pleasure in imparting instruction, when he knows it is gladly received.

The quiet and peaceable demeanour of the Negroes since their freedom has been beyond all praise. Christmas has just passed by. It was formerly a time of great rioting and drunkenness, but is now observed in a more Christian and consistent manner. I have only seen one person intoxicated during the holidays. Belmont Church was crowded to excess on Christmas Day. The people appear to begin to distinguish between pleasures that are innocent and manly, and those that are sinful and brutish.

To the same effect Mr. Hawkins writes, March 25, 1839:—

How great is the contrast between visiting the people here and at home! How often, in England, have I been met with a look, enough in itself to drive one from the door; and also with the excuse, "I am busy now"! Here one is received, in all cases, with the greatest cordiality, and not unfrequently with joy: the man is fetched from his work, and the whole family is called together to hear the Word of God read. The first salutation generally is, "How long it is since we have seen you!" and the parting one, "When shall we see you again?"

Immigration from Distant Parts into Trinidad.

Attention to this important subject is invited by the Missionary Labourers, in several passages of their Letters. The Committee select one, dated January 1, 1840:—

There is a subject to be spoken of yet: it is, the rapid increase of population in this Colony. During the past year, the immigration into this island, from the old Islands, from Germany, France and Switzerland, and from America, has been upward of 1000 souls. They are located in different parts of the island. The immigration from America is spoken of as likely still to exceed 5000 souls. Such is the fertility of this island—not more than one-third of which is under cultivation—that it affords superior advantages to any other of the West-Indian Islands. These emigrants, especially from British North America, are for the most part Protestants; who will, unless provided with ample means of instruction, lapse into forgetfulness of God. Let British Christians extend the arms of their charity to their Sable Brethren, and the Lord will reward them in His mercy.

JAMAICA MISSION.*

COMMENCED 1826.

Mission Establishment:

7 Missionaries.	9 Colonial Catechists.
11 European Catechists.	2 Female Teachers.

General State of the Mission.

There are, at present, Twenty Stations of the Society in this island. They are, generally speaking, in a promising condition. Some of the School-buildings have not yet been completed. They consist of a large School-room, which may also be used as a Chapel, capable of containing from 300 to 600 persons, and a Dwelling-house for the Missionary. In the majority of cases, the expense has been partly, though very inadequately, furnished by Government Grants. Mr. Panton remarks—supporting his observations by the authority of the Bishop's opinion—that building in Jamaica is dearer than in any other part of the British Empire; and, moreover, the Society has been put to additional expense from the localities which have been chosen for the Stations. It has been a principle with the Corresponding Committee, as far as practicable, not to interfere with other men's labours—that the Gospel of our Lord might be preached where Christ before was not named—lest they should build upon another man's foundation. But as, in many of the remote parts of the island, no house for the Missionary could be rented, it was necessary, however expensive, to build one. But though the expense has been great, it has not been misapplied. In many instances, large Congregations have already been gathered together: many of the Negroes have given up their former sinful course of life, and have entered the married state: numbers have been baptized: classes of catechumens for Confirmation have been formed: a considerable number have been confirmed by the Bishop; and of these, many have become Communicants. Some affecting proofs have been furnished of the willingness of the Negroes to assist in raising the requisite buildings; and, to a great extent, a wish for the means of grace has been awakened among them. The Schools are well attended; and the children, though at first wild and unruly, have soon learned to submit to discipline, and, in many cases, now form well-ordered Schools.

The work of the Ministry and Christian Education has steadily advanced throughout the Society's Stations. Congregations, Week-day Lectures, Missionary Meetings, Sunday Schools, Day and Evening Schools, Infant Schools, and the various measures to which in England we are accustomed, now prevail in this island.

Interest taken by the Lord Bishop in the Mission.

It is very gratifying to the Committee to state that the Lord Bishop of Jamaica takes the liveliest interest in the objects of the Society. In a visit which his Lordship paid to the Society's Station, the Grove, Aug. 19, 1838, the late Mr. Corner thus describes the earnestness with which the Bishop addressed his flock:—

He came about half-past ten; by which time the church was so full, that there was hardly room for him to pass through to the vestry. I read the Morning Prayers; after which his Lordship read the Communion Service, I reading the Epistle. On going into the vestry, his Lordship mentioned the gratification which he felt at seeing such a large and attentive Congregation. He then entered the pulpit, and, after the Hymn had been sung, preached from Acts xii. 30, 31. In his practical application of the subject, he affectionately entreated the people to return every Lord's Day, and ask their Minister, What must I do to be saved? and he, as his holy office warranted him, would direct them to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ.

He was so overcome by his feelings, that he shed tears:—I believe they were tears of joy. He intimated to them, that as soon as I had thirty persons ready to be confirmed, he would come and hold a Confirmation; which he trusted would be between this and Christmas. He then took an affectionate leave of the people, and left the School-house.

State of the Normal Schools at the Grove.

The number of Students in this important Institution, at the date of the last return, was seven. Since the death of Mr. Corner, it has been under the charge of the Rev. W. K. Betts; but is at present in need of a Tutor.* One of them has returned, to act as Usher in the School. While yet a Student, his thirst for Biblical Knowledge was strongly manifested by the following fact. The Missionary reported of him, Sept. 29, 1838:—

I cannot give a stronger proof of his perseverance, than that of his having last week finished the reading of Burkitt on the New Testament; which he has read through, in his leisure hours, in fifteen months, taking extracts, as he went along, of what interested him most.

* The Normal School has already sent forth Five Teachers, to assist the Missionaries at this Station.

In the neighbourhood of the Grove is Hope Chapel, which belongs to the Bishop of Jamaica: it has hitherto been the custom for the Missionary at the Grove, under the Bishop's licence, to officiate there. The Normal School is intended for the training of Natives of Jamaica, in order that they may afterward discharge the duties of Schoolmasters, Catechists, and—as it is hoped may be eventually the case with regard to some—of Ordained Missionaries.

RURAL HILL.

The Rev. W. J. Woodcock, who has charge of this Station, thus reports of his pastoral labours, May 19, 1838:—

There is among the people, I am happy to say, an increasing attention to the Word of God; and many are coming forward to be married, and to "sit down," as they call it, who have been, till very recently, serving divers lusts, and consequently utterly regardless of the welfare of their souls.

Much precaution, however, I find to be necessary, in receiving Candidates for the Communion of the Church. The people are remarkably excitable. Many will come, after hearing a discourse on some solemn subject with a close appeal, and express the anxiety which they feel about their souls, and beg to be received upon probation; whose impressions, however, are soon evinced to be only as the early dew. My usual answer, to all who thus come forward, is, "I cannot put you down now; but think and pray over the matter for a week or two, considering whether you can give up every thing you know to be sin—whether you are willing to try to live as a Christian ought to live, in purity and love: and if you continue in the same mind, and can get a Communicant to recommend you, I will receive you on probation."

During the past quarter, I have admitted to the Communion of the Church sixty-three persons; most of whom have been under a course of preparatory instruction and trial for about eight months. Of these, I grieve to say, I have been under the necessity of suspending three. Many of those whom I have admitted are yet very ignorant, though I hope sincere. A few are truly ornaments to their profession.

Concerning the Schools under his charge, Mr. Woodcock reports, April 4, 1838:—

The attendance at our Evening School, held in the dwelling-house, has increased to inconvenience. Our scholars are of both sexes, and of almost all ages, bond and free. We do not, however, allow the Free Children, who attend, or could attend, the Day School, to receive instruction in the evening. It is interesting to see those whose heads are whitened, and whose eyes are dimmed with age, associated with youths, who might be their grand-children, in the endeavour to acquire the elements of learning. The thirst for knowledge is so great, and so general, in this district, as would be scarcely credited by our friends in England. Nor is it confined to this district. So far as I can learn, the same eager desire for instruction obtains equally throughout the island.

MOORE TOWN.

Mr. J. Pollitt, European Catechist and Schoolmaster, labours at this Station. The town is ten miles from the nearest Place of Worship. Mr. Pollitt reports, Dec. 27, 1838:—

I am thankful to state, that a very pleasing change appears to be taking place among the people of Seaman's-Valley Estate. I was, for a few weeks, almost disheartened at the prospect before me; but the cloud appears to have broken, and the day of prosperity seems to have dawned. As a proof of this—and, I think, no small one—they have, for the first time, made a Collection in behalf of the Missionary Cause: it amounts to 30*l.* 19*s.* 1*d.*: this is from a small number of labourers, not amounting to 200, and who have only been free five months.

Three days later, he writes:—

Lord's Day—This morning, an unusual number attended Divine Service: after which we finished making our Collection, which amounted, in Moore Town, to 37*l.* 12*s.* 5*d.*; and shows that the claims of the Heathen continue to occupy the attention of our people. The whole Collection amounts to 68*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*; which, according to the wish of many of the people, I purpose devoting to aid in the erection of our new buildings, in the event of our obtaining sufficient security to commence them.

Willingness of the People to contribute Labour and Money.

Mr. S. Holt having noticed the trouble which he had experienced from the reluctance of some principal persons to assist him in proceeding with the requisite buildings, describes, September 25, 1838, the gratifying conduct of the Emancipated Negroes on his behalf:—

I mentioned the circumstance to a few of the people. They said, "Never mind, Massa; de lumber shall come:"—and come it did; for, on the following Friday, 131 persons went in a body, first to Green-Island Wharf, and returned with a load; afterward they went to Orange-Bay Wharf for another lot; and, in all, brought about 4000 feet of board; and said, "Massa, if him ten times more, we will bring him." I thanked them, and offered to pay them any thing they might charge: but, as if greatly hurt by my offer, they, with one voice, said, "Massa, we no take pay; we now show Buckra [White People] dad him no can top de church: we make we head de cart and we foot de cattle, and dem no can pound dem"—alluding here to my horses having been on several occasions sent to the pound. They wanted also to subscribe among themselves to pay the poundage. This, of course, I did not allow; as they had, in every case, been illegally pounded; and I am likely to succeed, in all but one case, in getting back the poundage-money.

On the same subject, the Rev. J. F. Sessing reports:—

Aug. 25, 1838—Mr. Forbes rode with me to the new buildings; and I was happy to find twenty-two persons giving their day's labour for the Station. I scarcely ever witnessed people in this island working so diligently; and, as I made the observation to one whom I hired to undertake a job, he said, "True, Massa; them work much harder for Massa with give time, than they work for me for hire them." Indeed, they have cleared for the Station more than five acres of land; besides cutting the rails, and partly making the fence for five acres of grass, which were cleared before.

Sept. 2: Lord's Day — Early in the morning we had come to Siloah; but the congregation had, for the most part, seated themselves under the cotton-tree. Mr. Forbes and Mr. Gillies expressed themselves quite affected with the sight of the people assembled all around its trunk, at the bottom of the hill on which they stood; the foot of which is washed by the Black River, rolling in a serpentine direction, and enclosing in its embrace one-half of the land belonging to the Station. I went away to a fence at some distance, and, with a tear of joy, entreated my Heavenly Father's assistance. We received the Sacrament in one of the rooms of the new premises; when two were admitted to join around the Table for the first time.

Dec 25: Christmas Day—The number of people assembled this morning under the cotton-tree amounted to about 700. Messrs. Gillies and Forbes were present. Mr. Forbes read the Prayers; and I addressed the people from the Song of the Angels, Luke xi. 10—14. After the discourse, I read the Missionary Paper for Lady Day 1838 to them, which gave them intelligence of the great good which was being done in Africa, among the very people from whom so many of their forefathers had been separated to be enslaved. All was breathless attention. I told them afterward, that Ministers and Teachers were still being sent there, to carry the "good word" to them; and not to them only, but, at length, to all people. I endeavoured, also, to show them the horrors of heathen darkness and superstition, and the good they might do by their sympathy and their prayers; and particularly I told them that I hoped that they would give me something for the accomplishment of the same object, and let me send it home to the Missionary Society; when 9*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* currency was collected. Many of the people did not know that a Collection would be made, because the number present, when the announcement was made, was not so great as to-day: these promised me to bring what they could afford on the next Lord's Day.

The Rev. W. J. Woodcock relates the following instance of the good-will of the Negroes at another Missionary Station:—

May 23, 1838—Pursuant to my notice of Monday last, we held a Meeting at Rural Hill, for the purpose of ascertaining what the people of the district were prepared to do toward erecting the required Place of Worship. There were present, Deputations from all the Estates, except one; the place crowded to suffocation. After prayer, I delivered to them a short address.

After some conversation, it was stated by the Deputations—That nearly the whole of the able-bodied people of their respective Estates were willing to render assistance, to the utmost of their ability, in the erection of the proposed Chapel—That the old people and others, unaccustomed to work out of doors, were willing to give, instead of labour, what little money they could afford—That on the several Estates of the district there were ten masons and twelve carpenters—That they hoped that Massa would not make the Chapel smaller than he would like, from fear that the people would grow tired of the work.

It was then Resolved—That the people from one or two Estates, as might afterward be determined, should work at the building every Saturday, till it was finished—That it is desirable that, in the first place, a lime-kiln should be built—That the people from Rural Vale and Rose Garden should form themselves into one gang, and commence the lime-kiln on Saturday week.

After some free conversation, I dismissed them all with prayer; omitting my usual exposition, as the hour was late. The evening was a very interesting one.

June 2, 1838—The day appointed for the people of Rural Vale and Rose Garden to clear the bush, and to fell timber for the lime-kiln. At an early hour, there were no fewer than seventy-two people at work. This is a good beginning.

June 9—Forty of the Elmwood people at work upon the kiln. Mrs. Woodcock and myself went up to see them. It was really an interesting sight. There were several whose heads were quite white, and whose backs were crooked with age. I said to one very old woman, whose grand-children were working by her side, "Well, old woman, I did not expect to see you at work: are you not too old and weak?" "No, me sweet Massa, me tank God me some trength lef, and me too happy to help build house!" Indeed, they all seemed to work as if they were "too happy" to be engaged in building a House for the Worship of God. Both myself and dear wife were quite affected with the sight.

June 16—All alive to-day: no fewer than seventy-eight people and three bullock-wains at work. These are divided into three gangs: one at Elmwood, knocking down the old works, and loading the wains; another on Rural Hill, cutting timber and breaking stones for the kiln; the other clearing the site for the new building. I visited each of the gangs, and spoke a word or two of commendation and encouragement to them. The people tell me "dey are proud to have Parson to care for dem, and teach dem good;" but I think I have far greater reason to be proud of such people. They seem to put their whole souls into the work, and are so happy and cheerful withal.

The results which, through the Divine Blessing, have followed from the labours of the Society's Teachers among this Enfranchised Population, have impressed the minds of resident proprietors. Representations have, in consequence, been made, both to the House of Assembly in Jamaica, and to Jamaica Proprietors in this country, of the claims which the Society has established to their support. These representations have been so favourably received by the parties to whom they were addressed, that the Committee are encouraged to hope for effective pecuniary aid to the Mission from these quarters.

NORTH-WEST-AMERICA MISSION.

COMMENCED 1823.

Mission Establishment:

2 Missionaries. 3 Schoolmasters. 4 Country-born Schoolmasters.

Retirement of the Rev. D. T. Jones from the Mission.

THE return of Mr. Jones to this country was stated in the last Report. Having faithfully and laboriously served this Mission for a period of sixteen years, he found his strength unequal to the resuming of his arduous duties in it. This consideration, added to the situation of his family, bereft of a mother's care, has induced him to resign his connexion with North-West America. The Committee, while deeply sensible of the value of his past labours, and affectionately sympathizing with him in his domestic trials, rejoice to learn that he has subsequently, on the spontaneous offer of the Lord Bishop of St. David's, been promoted to the office of Professor of the Welsh Language, in the College of St. David's, Lampeter.

General View of the Mission.

In the course of last year, the Rev. J. Smithurst left this country, in order to assist Mr. Cockran, who was nearly overwhelmed by the weight and multiplicity of his duties. Some idea of the difficulties to be endured in this Mission may be formed from what Mr. Cockran mentions—That when he goes in the winter to preach at a distant Station, the cold is frequently so severe, that he is almost frozen before he arrives at his journey's end; and in the church itself, the breath of the congregation freezes on the roof of the building, and the hoar-frost gathers on his Bible and Prayer-Book.

In spite of all obstacles, much has been accomplished. Since the entrance of Mr. West in the year 1820, 2310 have been baptized, and not a few have been brought fully under the power of the Gospel of Christ.

State of the Congregations and Schools.

That God has eminently blessed the labours of his devoted Servants is apparent, from the following comprehensive view given by Mr. Cockran of the present state of the Mission, in a Letter dated August 2, 1839:—

Our Schools continue to be regularly attended. Our congregations are as large as formerly; and we are waiting with patience for an increase of Labourers, to strengthen our hands. I should have written more largely on this point; but the weather is so oppressively hot, and my Ministerial Duties so laborious, that I have scarcely a thought left for the encouragement of any friends on the other side of the Atlantic. However, thirty-six Communicants have been added to our number; i. e. five at the Upper Church, nineteen at the Rapids, and twelve at the Indian Settlement. A hundred and ten have been initiated into the Church, by Baptism; twenty-seven couples married; and eleven persons buried. This shows that the Ordinances of the House of God are still continuing to excite the same lively interest in the bosoms of our Christian friends which they have done on former occasions.

The ardent attachment of the people to the means of grace is further stated, in the following passage, by Mr. Cockran:—

Our congregations assemble regularly, notwithstanding the natural obstacles which accrue from the cold and storms of winter, and the heat, flies, and rain of summer. This ought to be to us the strongest evidence of their sincerity. Would a people that are naturally indolent, and averse to toil, travel from two to three miles to church, and then retrace their steps through the same difficulties, unless they were deeply impressed with the value of their souls, and of the urgent necessity of using the means appointed by God for saving them?

Pastoral Visit to a Dying Convert.

An affecting instance is related by Mr. Cockran of his attendance on one of his flock, who had been brought out of darkness into the marvellous light of the Gospel. He relates—

Oct. 19, 1838—I was sent for to visit a person who was dangerously ill. On arriving, I found him extremely weak, and suffering great pain. When I had taken my seat by him, he began by reminding me that this was now the third time that I had seen him nearly in the same state. "God," he said, "heard our prayers, and gave me two summers to prepare for death. This, now, is the last sickness in which you will have to visit me. I know that I must soon die; but I have no fear on that account. I have a Saviour, a Friend in heaven, who hears my prayers, who turns my heart away from this world, from my wife and children, and draws it to Himself." Then, stretching out both his arms as a bird spreading its wings to fly, he exclaimed, "I want to go and be with Him who has washed away my sins in His own blood, and now gives me rest and peace in the midst of pain! I have sent for you now, to tell me as much about this new state that I am going to as you know."—This person, by affliction, was led from Heathenism to the worship of the True God. For five years he has been a regular attendant at church, twice a week. At first, he had a most furious temper; but, by putting it under the discipline of the Word of God, through the Divine Blessing he was enabled to keep it under, so that for four years he has been as peaceable a man as any in the neighbourhood. When we witness the Gospel of Christ bringing the Heathen to worship the True God, reforming their characters, soothing their pains, dismissing the fear of death, and inspiring the soul with the hope of everlasting life, we esteem it an invaluable blessing, and pray that it may be published to the whole family of man.

Anxiety of the Indians to have Missionaries.

It was the original purpose of the Committee, that Mr. Smithurst should, after labouring for about a year at the Red River, proceed to the formation of the newly-projected Mission at Cumberland House, as stated in the last Report. Circumstances, over which the Committee have no controul, have hindered the carrying that plan into effect. It is deeply affecting to read the remonstrances which were meanwhile made by the Indians at the Red River, who very naturally desired that the newly-arrived Missionary should remain fixed with them. They write as follows to the Committee, August 7, 1839:—

Our Friends—When we asked you to send us a Praying-master, we did not expect you would order him to go to any other place, but to remain here with us; but we hear from Hudson's-Bay Company Traders, that the Missionary you mention in your Letter is going to Cumberland; but in your Letter, you tell us one Missionary is coming to us. We therefore intend to keep him here. We thank you for him; and we shall take particular care to do as he tells us, and pay particular attention to what he shall say to us: and we shall also pay particular care to what you have said to us in your kind Letter, and shall pay great care to pray to the Great Master of Life: and we shall also pray for you all; and pray for us too. We find the Word of God good; and we intend to follow it to the end of our lives.

Entrance on his Missionary Labours by Mr. Smithurst.

Shortly after Mr. Smithurst's arrival at the Red River, it was arranged that his Station should be at the Indian Settlement. Mr. Cockran kindly proposed that he should remain as his visitor, till his house should be built at the Settlement. On this plan Mr. Smithurst remarks, Nov. 15, 1839:—

I objected to this, on two grounds: first, I wished to be with the people of whom I had the charge; and in the next place, I was aware that the house would not, in the hands of Indians, advance as rapidly when I was absent as if present. After having for a month slept upon the ground in a tent, I did not feel much alarmed at the trifling inconvenience I should have to suffer in an unfinished house. On the Wednesday, therefore, I went down with Mr. Cockran; and the people being assembled in the Church for their usual Service, he gave them a very affecting farewell address, and told them that they were to look upon me as their future Pastor. We were both in tears, as well as the greater part of the congregation. Mr. Cockran no doubt felt as a father would do, in resigning his children into other hands. I felt overwhelmed with a sense of the responsibility I was taking upon myself; and should have shrunk from the task, could I not have looked forward to divine assistance. It was to me an interesting sight, to see the Church filled with Indians, all, apparently, devout, serious, and attentive.

Mr. Smithurst thus describes, Nov. 15, 1839, his regular course of duties:—

On the Lord's Day Morning, I preach at the Rapids; and I have Service here at three and six. I do not preach at the latter Service, but explain the Liturgy of our Church, in which the people take a great interest. The young people who have been taught in the School have most of them Prayer-Books; and, as they understand English, they make the responses very correctly. The singing is also very good. I have about twenty of the best singers for an hour or two in the week, to practise the tune for the coming Lord's Day. In the evening, for an hour and a half after the meeting in the School-room, I have two of the Chief's sons to instruct, with my own servants: they are very regular, and appear anxious to learn. I find great advantage to myself in having them; for as I am learning their language, they give me the pronunciation much better than my Instructor, who is an Englishman. The language which I have commenced is Salteaux, a dialect of the Chippeway: it is that spoken by the tribe to which Pigwys, the Chief, belongs.

Conversion, and Happy Death, of a Young Man.

Some circumstances of a deeply-affecting nature attended Mr. Smithurst's commencement of his Missionary Course, which are thus related by Mr. Cockran, Nov. 12, 1839:—

He has had the pleasure of witnessing two die in the faith of our common Lord; one of whom I have often considered as approaching to eminence for piety. About four years ago, he was awakened to a sense of his sinfulness by the fervent prayers of his mother. At that time, being dangerously ill and expected to die, his mother prayed regularly that the Lord might have mercy on her son. One day, as he lay on his bed, he asked, What can that old woman be muttering? "I listened," he said; "she was praying: the thought struck me, what a wicked creature I am, that I should lie here as unconcerned as a beast, and witness the painful anxiety of my mother concerning the salvation of my soul." This became the turning point of his life. He vowed, that should the Lord restore him, he would go to church and learn His will, and live according to it. The Lord accepted his prayer. Health returned—he remembered his vow, and kept it; his ear was nailed to the pulpit; he joined himself to the people of God, and lived a pious, sober, and upright life. The season of trial returned; death threatened; he leaned his soul upon the Promises of his Saviour, and was kept in perfect peace. Now he has entered into rest.

Mr. Smithurst adds some particulars of his own visits to this young man. He writes, Nov. 15, 1839:—

He was a young man of about twenty years of age. I visited him almost daily; and always found him in the same calm and heavenly frame of mind, resting on the merits of his Saviour, and waiting with patience till he should be relieved from the burden of the flesh. The last time I visited him, I perceived that he was dying; and I said, "Tell me now, John, what is it that supports you, and upon which you are resting your hope?" He replied: "I never did any thing good; but I am resting upon the Lord Jesus Christ." Having prayed with him, he shook hands with me, and said, "Thank you for your kindness to me; good bye; God bless you!" I hurried out of the hut, not wishing to distress him by yielding to emotions which I found it impossible to suppress. I had not been long at home, when his brother came to tell me that he was dead. Thus early have I seen removed, from this garden in the wilderness, a plant which I doubt not is transferred to the Paradise above.

Prayer on behalf of a Missionary.

The Committee are persuaded that the Members of the Society will heartily join in the devout aspiration of Mr. Cockran, on occasion of his beholding his Junior Brother in the Mission thus hopefully entering on his labours:—

He is now in possession of full employment. His clerical duties return daily; and he will have a pretty good share of secular cares, which will gather round him as the shades of the evening. May the Lord give him the wisdom of the serpent, the simplicity of the dove, the patience of Job, the devotion of David, the faith of Elijah, and the zeal and love of Paul, that he may pursue the work of the Lord, and see it prosper in his hand!

STATE OF THE FINANCES.

At the last Meeting of the Society, it was the painful duty of the Committee to state a large deficiency in the Receipts of the year. To meet the financial difficulties which thus heavily pressed on the Society, one of the first acts of the new Committee was, to prepare and circulate an Appeal to the Members on the subject. This Appeal was promptly and cordially responded to. In the event, the Receipts of the year, on account of the General Fund, amounted to 100,252*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.* This sum, however, includes remittances to the amount of 4000*l.*, which belonged to the income of the preceding year. Hence, what may properly be considered as the proceeds of the year 1839—40 cannot be taken at a higher sum than about 96,250*l.* Many of the Association Accounts have not yet reached the Committee, and there has not been time thoroughly to analyse those which have been received; consequently, the Committee are left in much uncertainty as to what may be reasonably relied on as permanent income to meet permanent expenditure. On the other hand, the steady progress of the Missions has necessarily been attended with a proportionable increase of expenditure. The total amount in the preceding year was 90,901*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*; but this sum, though large, does not fully represent the ratio of expenditure in the Missions. The sums which have become payable on account of the New-Zealand and Jamaica Missions, between April 1st, 1839, and March 31st, 1840, are much below the ratio of expenditure in these Missions. The progressive enlargement of the Society's operations will, the Committee conceive, render it impracticable adequately to sustain them, unless the contributions in future years are commensurate with those of the year just closed. The only other alternative—a contraction of operations—is one which the Committee are persuaded that the Members would not sanction, unless compelled to do so by uncontrollable necessity. Though the outlay of the last year was below the ratio of expenditure necessary to maintain existing establishments, not half the deficiency of the year 1838-39 has been replaced. The Committee, therefore, feel that the Society's financial situation is still such as to occasion much solicitude.

But while the Committee thus speak, they would strongly express their devout thankfulness to Almighty God for the powerful sympathy which has been awakened in the public mind on behalf of the Society. Doubtless many of those who have thus been led to put forth zealous exertions have made not a few sacrifices to support this cause. To the Collectors especially, a large debt of gratitude is due. The calls for this liberality wax, indeed, louder and louder. The demands for help, from every quarter of the world, come on with unparalleled rapidity; and the exceeding bitter cry of those who are perishing for lack of knowledge is penetrating every town and hamlet of our land. The Committee, putting their whole confidence in God's mercy, do trust that the grace already so much augmented will continue to increase. They earnestly look forward to that day, when the Christians of our Church shall feel the entire force of that constraining motive urged by the Apostle to the Gentiles—Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for our sakes he became poor, that we through His poverty might be rich.

CONCLUSION.

Your Committee, in closing the Report of their Proceedings during the past year, regard the occasion of the Fortieth Anniversary of the Society as calling for peculiar feelings of humble yet joyful gratitude and hope. If it were commanded of old to the People of God, to remember all the way which the Lord had led them during forty years in the Wilderness, a similar review made by the Friends of the Church Missionary Society will probably lead them to the same result. The conclusion at which the mind must arrive, will be—that in many things the Lord has seen it good to humble and to prove His servants;—still he has led them on by His own right hand—He has never failed those who have felt their dependence on Him—and it is His settled purpose to do them good in their latter end.

The formation of this Society commenced with the present century. During the first fifteen years of its existence, the awful judgment of war separated this nation in a great measure from the Continent of Europe; and it might truly be said that the wall of our Zion was built in troublous times. After this, succeeded the present era of peace; which has already subsisted for twenty-five years. This has, through the good Providence of God, given leisure and scope for extending and maturing those plans of Christian Benevolence, which had previously been devised, and in part commenced, by the zealous Servants of God.

Various and great have been those events, of a Religious and Moral Character, by which the present century has been signalized. In the establishment and extension of Missionary and Bible Societies—in the opening of India to the free preaching of the Gospel—in the Abolition of the Slave Trade, and the extinction of Slavery in the British Colonies—and in the improved systems of National and Christian Education—your Committee trace mighty movements of the most beneficent tendency on behalf of the great family of mankind. Even the Arts and Sciences, ministering to the Cause of God, have during the same period received a fresh impulse, so that in a brief series of years they seem to have outstripped the course of entire former centuries. Witness the improvements made in printing; and the application of steam to accelerate every effort of human industry, and every step of human intercourse.

The members of the Church Missionary Society may, moreover, with heartfelt joy exult in the spirit which has arisen in behalf of the important measure of Church-building, both at home and abroad. As the value of Christian Knowledge has been more deeply felt, Christian Teachers have been multiplied; and as these, with their congregations, have increased, churches have been wanted; so that now, not only from one end of the nation to the other, but even in the uttermost parts of the earth, even in Australia, the cry is loud and earnest for Church Extension.

Nor less do the Committee rejoice in the fact of the extension of Episcopacy in the Colonial Possessions of Britain. At the commencement of this century there were three Colonial Bishoprics: at present there are nine; and there is a strong desire, as well as a pressing want, for more.

In the review of these various leading events, your Committee may justly exclaim, What hath God wrought! Surveying the entire result, let the Servants of Christ ascribe all glory to God; for they must perceive that it is His doing. Nor can your Committee forget by what an amount of human instrumentality these blessings have been acquired—how many lives have been devoted to this glorious work—how many hands have been raised in prayer for its success—how many voices lifted up in praises and thanksgivings to HIM, who has thus, again, begun to pour out of His Spirit upon all flesh.

The Committee trust that they may, without incurring the charge of presumptuous boasting, advert to the indisputable fact, that the Church Missionary Society has been called by Divine Providence to bear an extensive part in the great Religious Measures of the last forty years. Not in a spirit of vain-glory, but with gratitude, they would remark, that on the lists of their Patrons and Subscribers have been found, from the very first, the names of men the most eminent for holy and successful zeal in the cause of Humanity, Science, Loyalty, and Christian principle—men equally distinguished for public spirit and for personal piety. And now that a new era appears, by tokens not easily mistaken, to be bursting upon mankind, the Committee are persuaded that the supporters of the Church Missionary Society are looking to this Institution still to bear no inconsiderable proportion in the work of the Evangelization of the World. They are persuaded that their friends are lifting up many prayers on behalf of this Society—that it may be guided into measures yet more extensive, and yet more effective—that it may be preserved from every wasting error, and every corrupt practice—that it may obtain favour at home, and bear abundant fruits abroad—that it may prosper in its counsels, and dwell continually in the light of God's countenance.

But while there are such marked evidences that the Lord has been reviving His work in the midst of the years, there are tokens no less clear that the Enemy has been, during these forty years, plotting the total destruction of the faith once delivered to the Saints. The open, uncompromising war between Christ and Belial has begun, not in one or two places, but on the arena of the whole earth.

At the close of the last century, Infidelity, after deluging France with blood, apparently staggered, and retreated from the public view. Popery also, having met with signal rebukes from Providence, seemed for a season to be nerveless, decrepid, and departing from the earth. But the monsters were wounded—not killed. They are now standing on their feet again, in fearful energy. Infidelity and Popery are compassing sea and land: they are not invisible, or in disguise; not diffident, or silent: they are around us, and in the midst of us: they clamour, and they act.

At such a period it is, that special influences from above appear to be descending on the true Church of Christ. The Judge of all the Earth, in answer to the many prayers of the Elect, who cry day and night unto Him, will speedily avenge His own cause. By the outpouring of His grace, He gives to His Servants clear proofs that He is near to help and comfort them;—thus fulfilling his assurance, that when the Enemy shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him.

In confirmation of this view, your Committee would refer to the communications received during the past year, from the Bishops of Calcutta and Australia; in which those Prelates exhibit proofs of the working of the Spirit of God on the hearts of men, and urgently press on Christians at home the duty of improving the golden opportunities now placed before them. The Religious Awakenings at Krishnaghur in North India, and throughout the Society's Stations in New Zealand, have deeply convinced those devoted Prelates, that multitudes of the nations in those regions are rapidly preparing for the fullest participation in the blessings of the Gospel: yet, at the same time, they warn us that the Native Converts are not sufficiently disciplined to sustain and carry forward the mighty work commenced among them. Feeble and ignorant, they need the direction of master-minds: they need the help of European Models more extensively presented to their view: in their present infant-state, they need Instructors who should be to them as Fathers in Christ Jesus. They need Pastors, of deep piety, good education, sound judgment, and self-denying habits. At the sight of a few such individuals, arriving in North India and in New Zealand, the hearts of the above-mentioned Prelates would leap for joy: such Teachers would be hailed by the Missionary Band with transport: the Natives would acknowledge them as a gift from Heaven: the wilderness and the solitary place would be glad for them, and the desert would rejoice and blossom as the rose. Going forth in the spirit of the first Disciples of our Lord, they would assuredly subdue kingdoms, bringing thousands and tens of thousands to the obedience of our Lord and our Redeemer.

But where are the men? And, were these two Missions well supplied, where is that further band of Labourers which would still be wanting for the other parched and thirsty places of the wilderness? The world is ready to welcome them: and has the Church of England a hundred Missionaries equally ready to go forth? Does all India—does all China—does the whole world—stand knocking, as it were, at the portals of Britain for answer to the question, "Who is willing to make sacrifices?—who will help us?—who is ready to live among us, to labour, and even die, for Christ's sake and the Gospel's?"

Your Committee feel it to be nothing less than a bounden duty unceasingly to repeat the question—"Who are they that will go forth as Missionaries in the name of the Lord?" Might it not be expected, from our various Seminaries of sound Learning and Religious Education, and especially from the Universities of our land, that they should send forth their fifties and their hundreds, to preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ? Would it not be a glory to Britain thus to act, as a Self-denying Nation? Would it not re-act as a blessing to our Church herself, were she to send forth her sons and daughters, not grudging the very best of them, to live and die in this noblest of all earthly services.

But your Committee would still bear in mind, that unless the Spirit of God be vouchsafed to the Church, all the appeals and exertions made, either at home or abroad, will be in vain. It will be but lost labour, to rise up early, and late take rest, and eat the bread of carefulness, unless the prayer of faith draw down the promised blessing from on high. Not by power, not by might, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts. This is the memorial of the Church, throughout all generations. Animated by this view it was, that our fathers entered on their labours, when founding the Church Missionary Society: their years, consequently, were not consumed in vanity: they ran, not as uncertainly: they fought, not as one that beateth the air: they prospered in their day, and handed down to the present generation a goodly inheritance of measures well chosen—of Evangelical Principles well maintained—of Heathen Countries well occupied—and of faithful Missionaries, well-appointed, cherished, and supported. Let it not be, that the success of this Society should, after forty years' existence, seem to have risen to its zenith, as though it were now destined to decline. Let this, rather, be the conviction transmitted to the Committee of the ensuing year—that the grand scheme of the Evangelization of the World is but at its commencement. Great indeed are the blessings already received; but they who continue faithfully to pray and to labour, shall see greater things than these. Let Thy work, then, O Lord, appear unto thy servants, and Thy glory unto their children! And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us! and establish Thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish Thou it!

JOURNAL OF THE REV. MESSRS. ISENBERG AND KRAPF:

APRIL 2, TO MAY 31, 1839.

April 2, 1839—Zeila is an old town, and was formerly of great importance; but at present it is, for the most part, in ruins. It is surrounded by walls, and has, on the land side, seven pieces of ordnance, pointed toward the Somals; with whom the town has continual intercourse. It appears, however, that they are not on good terms; as every mission into the country for a supply of water, is escorted by a party of soldiers. The town consists of about a hundred straw huts, and eight stone houses. We are not able to ascertain the precise number of inhabitants, or of houses; but suppose the town may contain a mixed population of 800 souls; the greater part of whom are Somals, with some Danakils and Arabs. The language of the Somals appears to have some affinity to that of the Gallas; while that of the Danakils is the same as that of the Shohos, with a little dialectic difference: the nation is the same. Some understand and speak the Amharic also. Considerable intercourse is kept up with Horror. Several small vessels have just returned from Berbera. The market, which is held in that place, and is the only cause of such a concourse of people frequenting it, is now closed, on account of the approaching rains. It appears that the bad quality of the water is a principal reason why no houses or fixed habitations have been erected. I was led to this conjecture by the arrival of a small boat this evening, belonging to Shermarke, a Somal Chief of that country, and a friend of the English, which had come to fetch water. On asking why they came for water, they said that the water of Berbera was so brackish, that it could hardly be used for drinking. On our arrival here, a great crowd of people, chiefly children, gathered about us: the good reception, however, which we met with from the Governor, kept them in order. On the following morning, about fifty armed soldiers accompanied us; and whenever we were in town, a soldier usually preceded us, in order to prevent our being annoyed; until at length the people seemed to have lost their curiosity to see us. During our stay, however, we resided on board the vessel. There were eight boats in the harbour, two of which belonged to the brother-in-law of Sheikh Taib, in Aden. The Rais of one of these boats had seen us last year in Massowah, on our return from Habesh. The harbour is very bad; there being many sandbanks near.

Since last Lord's Day, a brig has been observed off the port; but it could not be ascertained to what nation it belonged: she seemed as though she wanted to make the harbour, but could not. Yesterday evening, three guns were heard from the island of Saad-eddeen: in consequence of which, the Governor despatched a boat thither to day, in order to look out for the vessel, and bring her in. In the afternoon the boat returned: they had seen the brig in the direction of Tajurra; but were unable to reach her, or learn any particulars.

The Governor of the place is a young man, not quite thirty years old, with an intelligent, serious, and grave air and demeanour; of a middling stature and slender make.

The Somals have a singular taste for red hair. This is considered an ornament; and to produce it, they use certain means by which they dye black hair red. The nature of their hair seems to be the same as that of the Abyssinians: it is curled artificially. They also besmear it with butter, but do not plait it; at least we have not yet seen any plaited hair.

The costume of the Natives of Zeila, and the Somals, is nearly the same as that of the Abyssinians; except that trowsers are not universally worn. The females go chiefly unveiled, having only a cloth, generally blue, tied round their heads. The dress of the women is totally different from the Abyssinian and Arab.

The food of the inhabitants of Zeila seems to consist chiefly of maize, dates, and milk, particularly camels': flesh is also eaten by those who can afford it. Rice is imported from India, and coffee from Horror; both of which are dear here.

The traffic of this place, as in Habesh, is conducted chiefly by barter. Cloths are purchased with money; these are exchanged for corn; and in lieu of corn any thing may be procured. The Indian cloth in which they trade is of three kinds. The best is Kash: of this we obtained 17 Zeila yards, about equal to a Brabant yard, for a dollar. An inferior kind is called Hurmia: it is made of cotton, but appears to be stronger than that manufactured in Abyssinia.

April 3, 1839—Late yesterday evening I sent the Governor our recommendations. About half-an-hour afterward, and before he had received them, a messenger arrived from him, asking for them, and bringing back the presents which we had given him, except the lucifer matches; with the remark, that such caftans were not worn in this country: that he would have been glad if we could have given him something which might have shown our respect toward him before the people; but that if we had nothing, it made no difference—he would nevertheless serve us in every thing. The messenger at the same time hinted that a present of about 100 dollars would have been agreeable to the Governor. We sent him word, that we felt sorry at not being able to recompense his kindness by something that might please him; that the object of our journey did not lead us to think of presents, what we had being just sufficient for the indispensable wants of our journey, and that what we had offered him was all we could spare: moreover, that he ought not to estimate our friendship by any present, although we intended in future to remember him in some more positive manner: meanwhile, we thanked him for the friendship shown to us, and commended ourselves afresh to his kindness. The Messenger promised to deliver our answer, and we gave him a dollar in remuneration. He then begged the present returned by the Governor, for himself and his children; but we refused, saying, that as the Governor did not like it, it would serve very well for our own use.

The Governor also informed us, that a boat, which had arrived this evening from Berbera (see above), had brought the news, that Shermarke was on board the brig which had been seen yesterday, and that he had gone to Tajurra.

About 10 o'clock this morning we got under weigh with three other boats, which also go to Tajurra; wind blowing north-east.

I asked some of our crew, who are Somals, whether their hair was naturally red: they answered in the negative. On inquiring how they dyed it, they said, that they besmeared it first with wet lime, afterward with butter, then with mud; and that when the hair began to redden, they applied to it the juice of a plant. The captain said that they moistened the lime with the urine of camels; but the pilot denied it with horror, saying that the Bedouins only did so who do not pray.

Evening.—As the wind was from the north-east, we could not get out into the open sea, but made our way between the small islands along the coast. It was as pleasant as sailing on the Nile. We passed the Sheikh's Islands, and the Island of Hagila; and all the four boats came to anchor near the small island of Assuba. As it was early, we went on shore to gather shells, of which there was a great variety.

April 4—We arrived at Tajurra at half-past two o'clock this afternoon; and went directly to the so-called Sultân, whom we found sitting in the shade before his house, leaning against the wall, with some of his attendants near him on either side. He is an old man of about 60 years of age. He saluted us with gestures; and we delivered our letter of introduction from the Governor of Zeila, which he received in silence. We sat a little while, and then he made us a signal to retire: on which we accompanied our guide, Mahomed Ali, to a house which he showed as our dwelling, constructed of sprigs covered inside and outside with mats, and divided into four apartments, like the houses in Arkeeko. As our baggage was yet in the boat, we had to go on board again, to get it on shore. In the harbour we saw the above-mentioned brig. It was a merchantman, called the "Euphrasia," Capt. Blondeau, a Frenchman, from Mauritius; with whom we met Lieut. Tilley, an Englishman. On reaching our boat, the captain came up to us. We saluted one another; and he then sent a boat to take us to his vessel, where we passed the night.

April 5, 1839—This morning we removed our baggage from the boat to our temporary dwelling. We should have been glad to have arranged matters for our journey; but the captain and Shermarke obliged us, against our will, to settle a quarrel between them, which took up the greater part of the day.

April 6—By the brig Euphrasia, which left early this morning, we despatched letters for Caïro and Europe.—Tajurra is a far more miserable town than Zeila. Its geographical situation is wrongly stated on the maps: it is at a much greater distance from Zeila, and, as we were informed on board the "Euphrasia," its northern latitude is 11° 58′.

The houses are all made of sprigs: there are about fifty connected yards in the place, each of which encloses several sprig hovels. The inhabitants are Danakils: their sovereign is called Sultân, or Dardar Mahomed. He appears to be a good-natured man, but of limited acquirements; as he does not seem to know how to read Arabic, neither does he speak it fluently. The people here have seen but very few Europeans among them; hence we are the objects of their greatest curiosity. This, indeed, was the case also at Zeila; but there we stopped on board the ship, whereas here we live among them, and are consequently much more exposed to their gaze. The so-called Sultân, who, on our first interview with him, put on such a grave air, called on us to-day, to ask for a present: however, his subject, Mahomed Ali, put him to silence.

April 8—Yesterday was a day of trial to us. In the afternoon, the Sultân came with his Vizier and Cadi, to make an agreement with us about the camels and mules for our journey. If the Sultân looks rather diminutive, the Vizier's bodily circumference, on the contrary, is well suited to his title. While these gentlemen were seated with him, the Sultân sent for the Letter from the Governor of Zeila. The messenger, on his return, threw the Letter at the feet of his master: it was then picked up, and the Sultân stuck it into his turban. By this ceremony he wished to display his kingly dignity. A long dispute now ensued about the hire of mules and camels. They asked twenty dollars hire for every mule, and would not consent to any reduction. For every camel they demanded, at first, twenty-six dollars; and when we referred to the order of the Governor of Zeila, that we should have the animals at the usual caravan price, they said that the caravan price for a camel was a female slave. On closer inquiry, we learned that the caravans generally have camels of their own. Only in one instance, when the King of Shoa had ordered some small cannon, he paid a female slave for every camel. This gave us an opportunity to protest against the slave-trade; saying, that we could in no wise engage in such traffic. They then fixed the price of each at twenty-three dollars. At length we determined to purchase two mules, and to hire only as many camels as were requisite to carry our most indispensable baggage, and to let our attendants ride on the same. After these people had left us, we consulted together; but were at a loss what to do, as our pecuniary means were so sadly reduced. Finally, we deliberated whether one of us had not better proceed to Aden, and draw money there. We had, indeed, written to Capt. Haines, and to Bombay, for 400 dollars; but it might be some time before this could reach us. This plan, however, was objectionable in many respects. It is the Lord's will that we here suffer tribulation, that we may draw nearer to Him.

To-day, after supper, the Sultân called on us, begging some medicine for a sick woman. He was more familiar than usual. When we asked how old he was, he replied, "Between thirty and forty." He was ignorant of his own age; but said, "that he was a boy, and unmarried, when he became Sultân." His silvery beard, however, shows that he cannot be far from sixty. On this occasion we also learned that the dignity of Sultân and Vizier is hereditary in this country, and is divided between the two families; so that after the decease of the Sultân, his Vizier succeeds him, and the son of the Sultân succeeds the Vizier. Our Rais, Mahomed Kassem, took leave of us to-day. I gave him Letters for Caïro, which he is to forward by way of Zeila.

April 9—At one o'clock P. M. the thermometer was at 93° in the shade.

April 10—We wrote several Letters last night. Collected to-day some Dankali words: closed the collection of Amharic words from Exodus, and began with Leviticus. We gave some oil of turpentine yesterday, with good effect, to a wife of the Sultân, as a remedy against hysterics.

April 16—We have been detained till this day by the illness of Mahomed Ali, our guide. Wrote Letters for Caïro and London, and sent them to Mocha by a boat belonging to Mahomed Ali. The business about the mules and camels has given us a great deal of trouble, on account of our scanty funds. The Sultân has grown more and more friendly toward us; and once brought us, in his own hands, a jug of milk, and, at another time, a buck. As a present, he only asked for a piece of bafta, to get a dress made for himself; and promised to let us have camels for fifteen dollars each, as we insisted that he should. Yesterday evening, however, when he again called on us, he fixed the price at seventeen dollars; to which we agreed this morning, lest we should cause ourselves any further delay.

Warkieh had yesterday another attack of fever; and I therefore bled him to-day. Br. Krapf is also apprehensive of falling ill again here.

Mahomed Ali expressed his fears this morning, that if this country were frequented by English Travellers, they might put down the slave-trade. We told him that the English would not interfere with their trade, as long as these matters were not settled with the Sultân Mahmoud and the Pasha of Egypt. He is afraid that we are going to persuade the King of Shoa to relinquish the slave-trade, which appears to bring them considerable gain.

The Sultân has just now been here again: he said, that he received yearly 200 head of cattle, camels, cows, sheep, and goats, as a tribute from the Danakil Tribe. When asked whether he had to pay any tribute to the Pasha of Egypt, he said, "No:" but when I asked whether he had to pay a tribute to the Governor of Zeila, he replied, that the Governor of Zeila had three-quarters of a dollar for every female slave sold here, whereas he receives yearly twenty dollars from Zeila.

With the help of God, I have to-day finished the arrangement and insertion into the Lexicon of the words collected from the Pentateuch, and gathered, also, a few Dankali words. May the Lord bless this work, and also my further proceedings, if He permit me to continue them! It is a grain of corn, which one day may bring forth fruit. May He draw our hearts more and more to Himself, though it be through sufferings!

April 18, 1839—We bought a mule from our guide, Mahomed Ali; and the camels are engaged at the rate of seventeen dollars.

April 23—Yesterday the heat was very intense, the thermometer standing at 95° in our room; but to-day it was only 90°, the sky being overcast.

A Mahomedan merchant from Tigrè, who came hither, from Berbera, on commercial business, gave us some information concerning Enarea Sidāma and Guraguē; which he had obtained chiefly from slaves. In these three countries there are many Christians. The race of men in Sidāma is said to be superior, and of a lighter colour even than the Gallas. They say that the present ruler of Enarea, Abba Gibbo, has broken the caravan intercourse between Gondar and Sidāma. His father, Abba Gumbal, sought to destroy his sons and brothers; but Abba Gibbo gained the ascendancy, and deposed his father, leaving him only his pay and the government of a small district. The traffic in slaves is very considerable in these countries, and seems to be much promoted by the King of Shoa. Our guide, Mahomed Ali, is much afraid that we shall persuade him to abandon it. We have tried to set him at ease in this respect as much as possible; but, nevertheless, he appears to distrust the English. Our stay here, which has been very trying on account of the great heat, will now, I hope, soon draw to a close.

The Sultân came again yesterday evening, with a little hurdle-basket full of milk, and to-day he called thrice. We have bought a mule; and negotiated for another, which was found to be unserviceable. The day after to-morrow we are to start for our journey.

This evening Warkieh had a discussion with the above-mentioned Mahomedan Tigrè merchant, Mahomed, concerning Islamism; in which, after a while, Mahomed Ali also joined. Warkieh required witnesses in behalf of the Korân. After a long dispute, the words of Moses, a prophet like unto me, were quoted; when I came to Warkieh's assistance, opposing them with the context, from the midst of thee, as relating to Christ, not to Mahomed; and showing how the Law, the Prophets, and the Gospel agree with one another; whereas the Korân agreed with none of these, which would be necessary if it were the accomplishment of the whole. Mahomed, the merchant, said, "It is true that all wisdom and knowledge is with the Franks; only with regard to religion they are in error." I rejoined: "If you must admit that we are superior to you in the things relating only to this world—and these are indeed very insignificant in comparison to the great questions, 'What must I do to be saved?' 'How shall I save my soul from sin, and the curse which is attached to it?'—do you not think that we also inquire into this most important of all questions?" I then briefly proclaimed Jesus Christ to him, as the only Redeemer sent from God to us sinners—that it was He alone who could save us in the Day of Judgment, when all other prophets, and so-called Saviours, would have to look for help for their own souls. Hereupon he appeared to grow rather thoughtful: for as he rose to retire, he said, "We have discussed many things to-day, and you have frightened us."

April 25, 1839—Yesterday our departure was eventually determined on for this day. Mahomed Ali got half his wages, as guide; viz. 26 dollars of 50; and for the hire for the camels, 34 of the 68; in all, 60 dollars. To the Sultân we gave a present of sixteen yards of bafta, worth a dollar-and-a-half, and a small piece of siamoise, worth two dollars. On asking for more, we also gave him three dollars in silver, an old hankerchief, and some needles.

Here Mahomed Ali again evinced his selfishness, by stating, that he would only guide us as far as the residence of his father, Errer; from whence his father would go with us as far as Ankobar; proposing as dragoman and footman on the road, Ali Arab, a merchant of this place, who is generally employed as dragoman by the Sultân. Of course he durst not ask any thing for his father; but he would not take Ali Arab at his own expense. At last, we agreed to give him fifteen dollars for his companion, as he seemed to be a judicious and well-informed man.

A caravan starting to-day, we wished to join them as far as the salt plain; but two of Mahomed Ali's people having absented themselves with a camel, and not returning till noon, he postponed our departure till the following morning; saying, that we could easily make, in one day, the two little journeys which the caravan would make to-day and to-morrow, as it was only five hours' distance—two from this to Ambabo, and three thence to Düllül.

April 27—Yesterday our departure was finally effected. We rose very early in the morning, and had the camels saddled by a quarter to seven. We then set out, and reached Ambabo at a quarter before ten, where we encamped beneath some palm-trees. The distance from Tajurra is about an hour and a half: it lies W. S. W., at the Gubbat il Charab (the Bay of Tajurra), which extends still farther inland, in a westerly direction. The village Ambabo sprang out of a feud: its inhabitants formerly resided at Tajurra; but falling out with the rest of the citizens, they removed to Ambabo, where they built this village. Our guide stopped behind with Ali Arab, saying, that he would join us in the afternoon, and then proceed with us as far as Düllül. However, when he came up with Ali Arab, about five o'clock in the evening, he said that we were not to start until morning. On remonstrating with him, he said that the road lay along the coast, and was not passable this evening on account of the rising flood; in consequence of which we were obliged to stop. This morning we rose at three o'clock, and, moving at a good pace, reached Düllül at half-past five; and half-an-hour after, made Sukta. As we met no kafila here, we went on to Saggallo, situated half-an-hour S. W. from Düllül. These places are not inhabited, but serve merely as caravan stations, there being water. The distance from Tajurra to this place is about five hours.

April 28: Lord's Day—This morning, as we were about to proceed, a camel was said to be lost, and we could not move before it was found: for the same reason, the caravan which was with us would remain. Mahomed Ali, our guide, seems determined to prolong our journey, as he is anxious to spare his camels. The beast was, however, found in the course of the morning, and we were to proceed in the afternoon. Yesterday, the thermometer rose to $94\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$: to-day, at eleven o'clock, it was at $96\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$. This region is very sandy and stony, and the soil overgrown with dwarfish mimosa-trees, which serve to lodge many of the feathered tribe, particularly sea-birds, pigeons, partridges, and guinea-fowls: there is also a small sort of gazelle, in Arabic called Beni Israel. Besides the above-mentioned, the hare is the only other species of game which resorts hither. There are not many wild beasts hereabouts: the lynx is said to prey upon the goat. We were not able to ascertain whether the leopard is found in the mountains. During our excursions we saw a jackal. This country is by no means deficient in water. At Tajurra there is a walled cistern. On our road hither, and even here, there are spots where the traveller has but to dig a hole in the ground to get water. Its quality depends, of course, on the nature of the soil. Here it is not the best, having rather an unpleasant taste; which is made still worse by a certain herb which they put into their badly-prepared skin bags, and which gives the water a reddish colour and a bitter taste.

The Dankali people of this region have many peculiarities. They are of the same race as the Shohos, and differ from them but little, either in their language or physiognomy. They are, however, less boisterous in their demeanour, though perhaps more shrewd than the Shohos. One peculiarity in their conversation struck us. On saluting one another, or talking together, the person spoken to generally repeats every sentence addressed to him, or at least the last word, which they usually abbreviate, sometimes only pronouncing the last syllable; or the person spoken to expresses his attention by sympathetically uttering after every sentence the protracted sound 'hmm.' They are bigoted Mahomedans; and, in general, very ignorant. Even the women, while grinding, usually chant their creed, "La illaha ill'allah," &c., or other songs of the same tenour. Their mills are much like those on board the Arab vessels. The women do not live much more separate from the male sex than in Abyssinia, nor is their conduct much more moral.

April 29, 1839—We left Sagallo at midnight, and travelled for half-an-hour along the sea-coast, in a due west direction; then turned to the north-west, ascended an eminence, passed the defile Gall'allife'o, and, after a further ascent, the station Derkelle; and at last reached some table-land, called Wardelissan. From this we turned westward, till we arrived at a spot where a few low mimosa-trees were growing, and here alighted to pass the night: it wanted a quarter to eight when we halted. Estimating the distance by our pace during the seven hours and three-quarters' ride, we may have gone over a track of four hours. As we ascended, we breathed a fresh air; but on reaching the table-land, although the sun had only been up a short time, it grew hot, the heat being increased by a south-east wind. The plain was covered with volcanic stones.

April 30—This morning we started at three o'clock; and descended in a south-east and southern direction, through a narrow ravine, called Raisan, which was very toilsome for the camels to pass. This led us to the western end of the Bay of Tajurra, which here terminates in a second bay. From Wardelissan hither we had gone over a track of about an hour-and-a-half extent; which, together with the road where we left the sea-coast to Wardelissan, makes five hours; and deducting the windings, the distance, in a direct line from the spot where we left the shore to the end of the bay, is probably about three hours. From thence we ascended again, and came to table-land; where the volcanic appearance was still more evident, in the burnt minerals, ashes, and lava, which abounded all around. After proceeding another hour in a westerly direction, we saw the salt lake Assal in a valley before us; and at eight o'clock we encamped at the caravan station Daferri, on the declivity of the hill. The heat soon became intense: at noon it was 99°, half-an-hour later 100°, and afterward rose to 102°.

May 1—Yesterday our caravan was induced, through the great heat and want of water, to start at three in the afternoon; and we began to move round the lake. Our course lay south-west; but owing to the ruggedness of the ground, we were obliged to wind our way sometimes in almost opposite directions. We crossed the valley Marmarisso, where the caravans sometimes encamp: then came to an eminence, Muyà; whence we descended a steep declivity, and reached the valley Muyà at seven o'clock, having made about two hours' way; although, in a straight line, the distance from Daferri is hardly three-quarters of an hour. From Muyà we set off at half-past one in the night; and first reached a rather elevated plain, named Halaksitan. On account of the ruggedness of the ground, full of chasms and gulfs, the vestiges of volcanic revolutions, we sought to get round the lake Assal, toward the south, in a semicircle. To effect this, we had to round some mountains south of the lake, and arrived at a resting-place at its southern extremity; but as there was no water, the caravan thought it better not to stop. We now descended to the lake, the shores of which are covered with a thick salt crust, which, to a European, presents the appearance of ice. Hither many caravans resort for salt, to carry to Habesh; of which trade the Danakils make a monopoly, claiming the right to take salt from hence as their exclusive privilege. Formerly the lake must have been situated much higher up; for at the southern and western ends of it a thick crust of white and grey crystal extends along the coast, which, close to the lake, has a saltish taste, the taste decreasing with the distance. We passed over this salt crust from south to west: it rests for the most part directly on the ground, as the water seems to have sunk: in some parts, however, the water is seen beneath; and from hence it is that the caravans take their salt. I examined the salt incrustation in one of these places, and found it to be about half a foot thick. The lake is nearly oval; its length, from north to south, about two hours; and its greatest breadth, from east to west, perhaps one hour. The Danakils believe that there is a subterranean connexion between this salt lake and the Bay of Tajurra, from which it is about two hours' distant, in a direct line. After leaving the lake, we entered a dale toward the west, which ran between moderately-high mountains, first westward, then south-west; and at ten o'clock alighted at a place of encampment called Gungunta, where there is water. About noon the heat rose to 107°; and now, at three P. M., it is 106°.

May 2, 1839—This morning we did not move off till sun-rise, half-past five. Our road lay first west, then south and south-west, through the valley Kellu, which, by its abundance of water and its verdure, strongly brought to our mind the valley of Samhar; with this difference only, that the mountains of the latter are higher, and bear more vegetation. Toward half-past-eight we arrived at our encamping place, Alluli, after having gone over a distance of two hours. Today is not so hot as yesterday, although the wind is equally so.

Had, this evening, a conversation with Ali Arab about the Dankali tribes between Tajurra and Shoa. The chief tribes are the Debenik We'ema, Mudaitu, Ad Alli, and Burhanto; to which latter the Sultân of Tajurra belongs, and Tajurra, the tribe of the present Vizier. The Debenik We'ema, and Mudaitu, appear to be the more numerous; and the latter, perhaps, the more powerful of the Kabyles. The Mudaitus have their chief residence in Aussa, and extend as far north as near Massowah. At Aussa, the Sultân has his Nayb. On our road, the Mudaitus begin in the valley Kellu, and extend as far as the district of Aussa. At present, they are at peace with the rest of the Danakils; although disaffected, especially toward the Debenik We'ema, with whom they had a bloody war some years ago. On that occasion the We'emas called the Bedouins of Aden to their assistance; who sent them 400 soldiers, and with these they conquered the Mudaitus. Afterward, however, they became indignant at the licentiousness to which these 400 soldiers abandoned themselves after their victory, and endeavoured to remove them as soon as possible. "Nevertheless," said Ali, "the people of Tajurra were not prevented from going to Shoa, although the Mudaitus had interrupted the communication. The people of Tajurra went to the end of their bay; from thence proceeded, by night, to the lake of Assal; there collected salt, returned, and then made their way to Shoa through the Somali country, close by Horror."

Ali gave us an instance of the Sultân of Tajurra's weakness. He wished to give his nephew a wife from another Kabyla, who had a settlement in Tajurra. This being refused by the Kabyla, the Sultân commanded them to leave Tajurra: however, the other inhabitants of Tajurra encouraged them to remain. Hereupon they sent to the learned men in Arabia and the Sheikhs at Aussa, for their decision of the matter. They all investigated their codes of law, and found that the Sultân could not force the Kabyla to do as he wished. Now he has prohibited all marriage for a whole year; yet, in general, the Sultân seems to be a good-hearted man. This we conclude, not only from his treatment of us, but also from the manner of his procedure concerning a ship of Diu, about which we often heard at Tajurra. Several years ago, this ship, with a considerable cargo on board, happened to get into the Bay of Tajurra, having lost her course. The people of Tajurra helped them to discharge their cargo into a small vessel, with which they sent a pilot to steer her to Mocha; and, for their trouble, would take no other compensation than 200 bundles of rice and the vessel, out of which the Sultân has constructed a house. This, indeed, may appear an adequate remuneration; but the restitution of all the goods, which it was in his power to have kept in great part for himself, is a very commendable action in a Chief of these savage tribes.

—Yesterday evening, some merchants of the caravan came and asked me whether the Banians have also books. They had heard this from our people, to whom we had told it; and, wondering, said, they knew very well that the Jews, the Franks, and the Kafers in Habesh*, had books, but thought the Banians had none. I told them that they had many books, otherwise it would be inconceivable how they could be so learned and cultivated as they are: that we possessed some of their books; but they had not the Word of God: what they wrote on Divinity, Religion, and Philosophy was only the result of their own thinking, and was not divinely revealed to them.

* Here I rebuked them for calling the Abyssinians, or the Christians in general, Kafer; a name which denotes a man who knows nothing about God, or denies God, or, knowing the will of God, does not act accordingly.

May 3, 1839—Early this morning, at three o'clock, we continued our course, turning westward; then, for a short time, north-west; then again west and south-west, through barren dales, till we emerged into a vast plain, called Anderhadideba, which separates two ridges of mountains. The soil for the first half-hour's march over this plain appeared to be good, but produced nothing, the ground being broken up: afterward, however, it was fertile, grown over with shrubs, especially the juniper. We met with some goat-herds of the Mudaitus; and saw also three fine roes, which we attempted to shoot, but in vain. Toward seven we came to an open spot, called Gagade, where the shrubbery recedes in a wide circle. This being an encamping-place, we here reposed. In our neighbourhood, a Mudaitu, with his wife and goats, had pitched his tent; which was very low, and hedged-in with thorns, according to the custom of the country. The weather is very hot. Between eleven and now—a quarter before two—the thermometer has varied from 106° to 109°: however, the wind is not so hot as it was yesterday and the preceding days. Toward half-past three, 111°; a quarter to four, 107°.

May 4, 1839—Left Gagade at half-past one this morning. The other caravan had already separated from us; one division to go to Aussa; the other, as Mahomed Ali said, because we marched too fast. Our people have already been prevented for several days from riding on the camels; for which we are very sorry; although I myself always walk on foot, for want of a mule. Remonstrances with Mahomed Ali avail nothing: we must submit, especially as his camels are very weak. We moved at first chiefly west, till we arrived at the resting-place, Karautu, where the way to Aussa branches off toward the the west. From Karautu, our course lay south, between mountains, exhibiting traces of volcanic action, with scarcely any vegetation. Only in the valleys did we see grass and brushwood; and even here the ground is likewise covered with ashes. Soon after, we entered a long glen, where we saw many palm-trees, of which not the least care seems to be taken. The Bedouins cut off the tops of these trees, and extract the juice, which is said to be intoxicating. At eight we arrived at Dalibui, a Danakil settlement, where we rested. In the last six hours and a half we had not made above three hours' way. Half-an-hour before noon the thermometer was at 97°; at noon, 98°; at one o'clock, 99°; and remained as high as 97° at five P.M.

A chief occupation of the Danakils, especially of the women, more especially when they travel, is the plaiting of mats and baskets, for salt and corn, from the branches of the palm-tree. The women particularly seem to be industrious. They dress in a very slovenly manner; and frequently wear nothing but a piece of cloth, of a grey, blue, or variegated colour, tied round their hips, and reaching down to the knees, sometimes bound round with a fancifully-wrought leathern belt. Notwithstanding, they are vain, and fond of wearing bracelets and foot-ornaments, ear- and nose-rings, coral strings on their necks, &c.

May 5: Lord's Day—We started at three this morning; and moved in a south-west direction, through the vale of Kurri, till we reached Saggadere, and thence to Small Marha, where we arrived at seven, having passed over a space of about two hours and a quarter in three and a half. We had fresh trouble with our two people, because they could not ride, and were unwell. The heat again rather oppressive: at noon, 95°; a quarter of an hour later, 97°; half-past twelve, 100°; at one, 102°. The road was nearly level, hence no decrease of heat: very little vegetation. It appears to have rained some days since, but the ground seems to have absorbed all the moisture; nevertheless, water is not totally wanting. Our victuals begin to fail; and as our butter is all gone, we have to boil our rice and lentils—which are the only provisions left us—in water and salt. However, if the Lord be our Shepherd, we shall not want; and He will help us through every difficulty, proceed they from whatever quarter they may. The thermometer, at a quarter past two, at 103½°; a few minutes later, at 104°.

May 6—Yesterday, at a quarter to four P.M., we left Small Marha; moved along the valley almost westward; then ascended a hill of about 300 feet elevation, very stony; and afterward took a more southern direction, to a caravan encamping-spot on the table-land, which we reached at a quarter to seven o'clock, having made a way of about one hour and three-quarters in three hours. In the evening, a hot wind blew: the ground beneath us, as we lay stretched upon it, glowed almost like an oven. We set off at half-past three this morning; and marched stumblingly over the stony table-land, till we descended and passed through a ravine, and neared the caravan station Galamo, where we found a few Bedouin huts. General route, south-west. Passed a hill, and came into another valley, where we should have reposed, had we not been encouraged to pursue our journey by the lowering sky protecting us from the burning sun. From Adaita we passed through a grassy plain, in which there were roes and gazelles. From this the road soon led again over a hill, commanding a vast prospect from the summit. Farther on we entered the vale of Ramudeli, where we encamped. We arrived here at half-past eight, having made scarcely three hours' way in five hours' march. The sun now broke through the clouds, and away went the freshness of the air. We lay down beneath some mimosa-trees, and after a while our guide sent his people to go for water; but they returned with the distressing intelligence that they had sought for it in vain. We had taken water in our bags yesterday afternoon at Marha, but it was now consumed, and our guide had calculated on finding water here. The heat is again oppressive; the thermometer being now, half-past eleven, at 102°; the same at two o'clock. The heat here is increased by the north-east wind passing over the scorched hills. We found water at last in this vale, for which the Lord be praised!

May 8, 1839—We left Ramudeli yesterday morning at half-past three; at five o'clock reached Abu Yussuf; and toward half-past eight, Gubaad. Yesterday afternoon, at three o'clock, we left Gubaad, passed through Sankal, and a spot where there is a fountain of water, and arrived at Arabdera about eight in the evening. It was too hot, and I was too tired, to write. The distance between Ramudeli and Gubaad may be about three hours, and nearly the same distance between Gubaad and Arabdera. We left Arabdera this morning at three. It is situated on a vast elevated plain, almost completely covered with volcanic stones. Just before sunrise we came to a wide low plain, where we saw some wild-asses grazing, which took to their heels at our approach. At ten we reached our resting-place Daueilēka, where our camel-drivers dressed a wild-ass which they had killed. In these seven hours we have made about four hours' way. The German hymn, "My life is a pilgrimage," is becoming very familiar to me on this journey.

May 9—Yesterday evening our people seemed to be apprehensive of robbers. They stated that a hostile Kabyla, called Galeila, had gone far away from this part to a watering-place, and that consequently we could not proceed thither; the more so, as the friendly We'ema Dankali, who formerly had kept them under restraint, had removed from among them. This morning we started at sunrise, a quarter before six; and after a short march on the plain westward, ascended a pretty high eminence, called Mari, southward; and at half-past ten reached our encamping-place on the table-land. The air grew more and more pure and fresh as we ascended, and I felt rather refreshed than fatigued when we arrived on the plain. Thermometer 90° at half-past ten; at eleven 93°; half-past twelve, 97°; at one o'clock, 98°. Mahomed Ali says that he has received news that his relations have left Errer for want of rain, and have removed toward the north.

May 10 — Yesterday afternoon, at twenty minutes past three, we set out from our encampment on Mount Mari, and descended a low terrace; then marched on a wide undulating high plain, over loose stones, without a vestige of a path, our guides at a great distance in front, till, after sunset, we reached a declivity, the descent of which was not a little dangerous. Several times the camels could hardly move forward, terrified by the dismal abyss on the right; while the darkness of the night rendered the path under our feet almost undiscernible. At length we reached an eminence at the foot of the mountain on its western side; and there halted, on a stony spot, where the Bedouins used to inclose their herds between loose walls, to keep them from beasts of prey; although there was no fuel to light a fire, nor water to drink. This morning we started off at a quarter before five. When the moon is in the wane, we have in general observed the maxim to rise with it, and prepare our breakfast, and then to proceed while the camels are loading. We descended the remaining declivity; and came to Ahull, where we found four or five hot springs, probably sulphureous. Here we took in water. After a stop of about an hour, we prosecuted our course through a large plain, extending south-east and north-west: our route lay south-west across the plain. We afterward passed over a little eminence covered with volcanic stones, called Lukki; which is nearly flat on the top, as are most mountains which we have passed on this journey. After half-past nine we arrived at a tree, beneath which we reposed. From this spot we have an extensive prospect before us, toward the south-west and west: the country is nearly level, with the exception of some low hills in the vicinity, and two or three higher ones at a distance in the west—the mountains of Argobba, and perhaps of Shoa. Thermometer now, at half-past eleven, at 97°. Left Lukki at three P. M.; and ascended the plain, which was overgrown with grass, in a south-western direction. Mahomed Ali saw a hyæna on the road, and I a dark grey snake of considerable size. We marched till nearly seven o'clock, when we rested on a level spot in the plain of Killele.

May 11, 1839—We started at one in the night, in order to make a good journey to-day; but we had not proceeded far, when we and our animals got into the mud. The rain which fell here yesterday, on the clayey soil, has changed it into mud. However, as we turned as far as practicable to the west, we soon reached a dry spot; and thence took a more northern course, till we met with a new difficulty, and lay down to await day-break. Toward sunrise we noticed several herds of cattle in the valley; and a relation of Mahomed Ali, with a Somali, came to salute him. At half-past seven we set out again, first north, then north-west, then west, and passed two large herds of fine cattle. Here we drank water, and filled our leather bags; and after another hour's march, arrived at Barudega, where we rested under a tree, but were annoyed by insects. By half-past eleven the heat rose to 103°: toward one o'clock a shower fell, and reduced the heat to 95°.

May 12: Lord's Day—Yesterday, at half-past three P. M., we left Barudega; and, pursuing our course south-west through the plain, drew near a low ridge of mountains, stretching south-east and north-west. Toward eight, we came to a place with trees, brush-wood, and water, where we halted and passed the night; as we could not now reach Gaiel, the village of Mahomed Ali's uncle, the Chief of the Debenik We'ema. No sooner had we laid down, than Ernst awoke us, and in a great fright took up a sword and musket; pointing at a beast of prey which he said had come near us, and which he thought was a lion. As it immediately began to howl, we discovered that it was a hyæna. Warkieh now kept watch, but soon fell asleep. When we awoke in the morning, we noticed the traces of two hyænas, which had crawled about our camp and close to our beds. Mahomed Ali, having been awakened bytheir noise, had chased them away by throwing a stone at them; —a new evidence this of the hand of God guarding us against such dangers, and the presumption of the flesh in fancying to be able to guard itself.

It is already the third Lord's Day of our journey from Tajurra, and the sixteenth since we left Caïro. To us it is indeed a great privation to be shut out from celebrating it in communion with our Brethren, wandering about as strangers in Mesech, and our souls often longing in a strange country for the courts of the Lord. However, we are pilgrims for Him, and are persuaded that He will amply compensate us for our actual privations. Would that our present conversation were more sanctified! We shall probably stop here to-day: either the people of the village are unwilling to receive us; or our guide has so agreed with them, that they come out to him, instead of our going to them. We do not lose much by not being among them; but perhaps escape their curiosity, and thus gain more quiet, which we desire, on the Lord's Day.

The heat threatens to become excessive again to-day: about half-an-hour ago the thermometer showed 93°; and now—a quarter past ten—it is at 98°. At half-past one it rose to 107°, and at two to 108°. Mahomed Ali's uncle, to whom he sent a few days since for some camels to assist him, had been out to meet us, with a horse or mule, and some soldiers; but as he went the right road, and we travelled on a bye-way, he missed us. Thermometer, at a quarter-past three P. M., 108°.

May 13—Yesterday evening, after long vacillations, Mahomed Ali at length resolved to go into the village. We started at about half-past five; and entered the village, which was only a quarter of an hour's distance from our camp; and seated ourselves in front of the house and stable of the Dankali Chief, the uncle of our guide.—At this moment we are thronged by men and boys of this country, whom curiosity has attracted to see us. Thermometer, at a quarter past seven, 82°; at half-past eight, 85°. The name Adaiel, for the Dankali people, is the Arabic mode of calling the whole by a part. It is derived from Ad Alli, one of the kabyles of the Danakil, to which the Sultân of Tajurra belongs. The chief seat of this tribe is in the neighbourhood of Shoa; but the greater part is dispersed among different other tribes. Formerly it was probably the most powerful of any, and gave the name to the whole of its former dominion. Apparently, the most powerful tribes at present are the Mudaitus and Debenik We'ema. The former have their chief seat in Aussa, and sometimes get into collision with the We'emas and the rest of the Danakils. They are seemingly more numerous and powerful than any other Dankali tribe. The name Dankali is Arabic; they call themselves Affar. Thermometer, at half-past ten, 98°; a quarter past-eleven, 105°; at noon, 105½°; seven minutes after one, 108½°; a quarter before two, 109°; half-past two, 110°; at three, 106°. For the last few days we have generally had several whirlwinds in the afternoon: when at Lukki, we observed many about noon; it then rained in the afternoon.

May 14, 1839—We set off from Gaiel; and ascended an eminence about two hours from Gaiel, in a south-west direction. Here we encamped near the watering-place Alibēkelé, where the herds of cattle belonging to the Bedouins of this region assemble to drink. Thermometer, a quarter-past two, at 103°; a quarter to three, 101½°; then 101°, as a thunderstorm is approaching; at three, 99°.

May 15—We did not leave Alibēkelé, as Mahomed Ali sent this morning for his father; because there is plenty of water here, but none at the place of his residence. The trade in these countries is carried on by barter. What they call Nile-stuff, that is to say, blue-dyed bad bafta, and grey Indian kosh (linen), are given as money for larger articles. Sixteen native yards of the latter are required for a dress: the former is used by the women to cover the head. For kosh we bought a sheep; for Nile-stuff, butter; and for pepper and needles, milk. Thermometer, at a quarter-past seven A.M. at 87°; ten minutes before eleven, 99°; a quarter past eleven, 102½°; a few minutes after, 106°.

May 16—Every night we are visited by hyænas, which generally venture close to our beds; but although we have kept watch several times, we have not yet succeeded in killing one. Our guide, Mahomed Ali, asserted yesterday evening, that leopards never inhabit the same regions with the hyenas. As we contended against this, he related, that, in his travels, he once saw a leopard, with a sheep between his teeth, encounter a hyæna: the leopard fled to a tree; and the hyæna, unable to follow him, kept watch beneath. At last, the leopard, seeing the people coming at a distance, came down; when the hyæna fell upon him, and tore him and the sheep to pieces, which were found by the people when they arrived at the spot—the hyæna having taken to flight at the approach of men. He assured us that the hyænas are much stronger than the leopards, but that they flee from man; whereas the leopards attack man, although they never make head against a hyæna. This may serve to confirm an event which Mr. Gobat is said to have related among his friends, as an instance of a remarkable deliverance when he slept between a leopard and a hyæna, both at a short distance from him, the hyæna having restrained the fierceness of the leopard during the whole night: in the morning, he said, he threw a stone at the hyæna, whereupon the leopard went away of his own accord. Regarding the Issa Somals, both Mahomed Ali and Ali Arab state that they are malicious—that they steal and murder. Sometimes two or three of them go on a robbing expedition, and, providing victuals for several months, secrete themselves in ambush along the road, and lurk for travellers who may happen to separate from the caravan, to assail and kill them. They are on pretty good terms with the Debenik We'emas: who, however, are on their guard against them. They serve the Alla Gallas as leaders against the Danakils, when not in hostility with each other. They say that the Alla Gallas, through the midst of whom we have to travel for four or five days, are a very dangerous people.* Ali related, that on a journey through their country, their caravan having encamped, with their arms in readiness, and while keeping watch, late in the night they observed a single Galla approaching their camp, crawling on his belly, and in the act of raising his lance to kill a man of the caravan. They then rose to seize him; but he escaped.—Bows and poisoned arrows are still in use among the Somals. Fire-arms are yet little known among these savages. When Br. Krapf fired his pistol, they screamed, and stooped down. They are bigoted Mahomedans. Yesterday, one of them came into our tent, to look at our things. As he was prevented, he pronounced to me the words, "La illaha ill'allah," which I repeated after him. He continued, "Wa Mahomed Russul Ullah," repeating it several times, as he saw that I did not say it after him. Then I said, "Wal Messich ibn Allah." Upon this he rose, and went out.—Mahomed Ali several times expressed his surprise that the Ulemas at Caïro had not persuaded us to become Mahomedans. The principal seat of their learning seems to be Aussa; where they say several Ulemas reside, whose learning, according to Ali Arab, is as the sea. Thermometer, at six in the morning, 78°; at eight, 86°; at nine, 88°.

Yesterday we were again permitted to experience that the Lord was with us in His Spirit of discipline, purifying our conversation and common relationship. May He ever rule among us, and never withdraw His grace from us!

About an hour ago, Mahomed Ali's father arrived on a mule, and without escort. He has not yet been in our tent; but has sent us a handful of coffee-seeds, with the message, that we should prepare some coffee, as he would drink it with us. Thermometer, at a quarter-past ten, 94½°; ten minutes past eleven, 100°; at noon, the sky overcast, 98°; at one, 105½°; after ten minutes more, 107°.

May 17, 1839--We left Alibēkelé yesterday afternoon at three, ascending westward, and in half-an-hour were overtaken by a shower. After stopping till it was nearly over, we made our way with difficulty through the mud. Toward seven, we arrived at a spot called Adaito, where we passed the night. As my coverlit was quite soaked through, I had to make the best of my shirts and sheets during the night. The father of Mahomed Ali brought us milk, which was quite a refreshment. We started this morning about seven. Our course lay over a stony plain with much grass, on which we saw many herds and singing-birds. At half-past eight we reached Hasnadera, the residence of Sheikh Ali, Mahomed Ali's father, where we halted. While pitching our tent, some children brought us grass to strew beneath it, for which they begged coral: when the tent was erected, a bag of curdled milk was brought tc us. We shall stay here at least this day; and then a new period of our journey will probably begin, with our new guide. The Lord be praised, who has helped us thus far! Though not without troubles, yet we are still spared: though not without sins and temptations, yet with obvious proofs of His continued favour and mercy we have got on hitherto.

On the road this morning, I stayed alone with the Lord; and stood before Him, like Jacob of old at the ford of Jabbok;—and He blessed me.

Yesterday evening we saw the mountains of Horror before us, toward the south-west, covered with clouds. The town of Horror is said to be only two and a half days' journey distant from this. We are already in the neighbourhood of the Alla Gallas; who have expelled Sheikh Ali Abé from Errer, and spread themselves as far as that district. Terrible people! seeking your honour in murder!—On asking our guide yesterday, why the Gallas kill people, whether for booty or otherwise, he said, "Their only honour and riches consist in the number of their slain enemies. In other countries, one inquires after the wealth, rank, or condition of a person, in order to honour him; but among the Gallas one asks only how many men he has butchered."—Why should we withhold the Gospel of mercy from these wretched slaves of Satan? Within two days more we shall reach them; and five days it will take us to pass through the midst of them, before we come to the Hawash. Thermometer this morning, at half-past nine, 90°; near ten, 94°. The We'ema Danakil maintain about 100 Somal bowmen, who have been taken from various Somal tribes, and are now naturalized among them: they still preserve, however, their Somal tongue, and marry among themselves, without intermixing with the Danakils. The Danakils regard shooting as unlawful, and therefore employ the Somals in it. They seem to carry on bloody wars sometimes among themselves: the same is also said of the Somals. Thermometer at a quarter-past twelve, 104°; a quarter to one, 107°; at two, 110½°.

May 18—Yesterday evening, Mahomed Ali endeavoured to procure an additional camel; saying, that the four we had were not sufficient, as we should henceforward travel quicker. This morning, at half-past six, we set off from Small Hasnadera, and continued our course south-west over the plain, which was gradually rising. We reached Great Hasnadera at half-past ten, where we halted, as Mahomed Ali said we were to pass the night here. Thermometer at half-past two, 106°; sky overcast.

May 19—On this day, European Christians commemorate the effusion of the Holy Spirit, and the Church is refreshed here and there by a new outpouring of the same; while we here at Mullu, about an hour and a half west from Great Hasnadera, our present place of repose, must pitch our tent in Kedar. May the Lord pour also upon us a shower of mercy, and revive the scorched soil of our hearts! O that the blessed stream from the heavenly altar may also flow to this dead sea of nations, and renew them!

Yesterday evening, at ten minutes before six, we left Great Hasnadera; and moving westward, over very stony ground, reached Mullu, where Sheikh Ali has his chief residence, at half-past eight. Mullu is nothing but a vast plain covered with stones, with here and there a little verdure and a few mimosa-trees, and some scattered sprig hovels. A cluster of such huts form something like a village. As our guide, Mahomed Ali, declared he would stay here to-morrow, and we are to pursue our road, we are writing Letters to go by him. Hitherto I have travelled on foot; but as a mule has been offered me to-day, by the old man, for 15 dollars, to be paid for hereafter, I have accepted it for myself and Warkieh, as he also begins to find walking difficult.

May 20, 1839—This morning, Mahomed Ali consigned us over to the guidance of his father for the succeeding part of our journey; in which transaction, which was conducted rather formally, Ali Arab acted as Targiman. We separated as friends.—The way before us is apparently hazardous; not only on account of the Gallas, whose northern boundaries we shall have to touch, but particularly on account of the hostile Mudaitus, along whose southern border our route lies. On this account, Sheikh Ali declared he would take an escort of his people, for safety's sake. We should have set out this morning; but as there is no water at the next stage, water was sent for, to load a camel. The old man made a strange remark. He said, that the road by which we came was generally destitute of water; but that, on account of our object, no want of water had been permitted on this occasion. Thermometer, at half-past eight A.M. 92°; at one P.M., 106°; at two, 103°.

May 22—Yesterday, our guide left us: to him we gave Letters for Mocha, Caïro, London, Basle, and Barmen. We left Mullu about sunrise; and moving south-west over a plain, arrived, at half-past nine, at a place called Wuderdera, about two hours and a half distant from Mullu. Thence we set out at about half-past three P. M., and journeyed south-west till eight, when the old man said we could not reach the water stage, Korde'eti, that night. This morning, half an hour after we started, we arrived at the water stage, Korde'eti, where we took in a supply, and also watered the animals. Proceeding onward, we soon reached the village Korde'eti, and alighted after we had passed it. Before us, to the north-west, we saw the Baadu and Aialu mountains. Those of Aialu are of considerable height. Ali Arab stated, that on some part of these mountains a bloody skirmish took place last year, between the Debenik We'emas and the Mudaitus; in which the latter had 700 killed, the former 140. Mahomed Ali's statement varied in the number: he said, Mudaitus 1500, We'emas 120. In their wars, the Debenik We'emas always make common cause with the Issa Somals against the Mudaitus, in which event the Issa Somals amount to one third of their number. South-west of us is the Gebel Achmar, or the Galla mountains. The land between us and that mountain is an undulating plain, said to extend from the banks of the Hawash as far as Berbera. Thermometer, at one P. M., 110°.

May 23—We remained yesterday at Korde'eti, it being the last place of the tribe of We'ema. Here we drank milk, and our new guide Sheikh Ali engaged some people of the place to accompany us; because, he said, the journey before us was very dangerous. We started this morning about a quarter past five; and descended gradually, in a south-west direction through the valley, till half-past nine; then stopped at the dry bed of a small brook in the plain, along which numerous mimosas were growing, and put up under a large tree of this kind. The name of this stage is Mētta. Thermometer, near eleven, 98°. At this very moment we see, at about a quarter of an hour's distance, several whirling columns of dust, like smoke; giving the country the appearance of a manufacturing town with numerous huge steam-engines at work. The air is very hazy; and there is a mist on the ground, seeming to cover the mountains from head to foot. Thermometer, at half-past twelve, 103°: wind north-east, warm.

May 24—Left Mētta yesterday at half-past three P. M.; and marching almost west over the plain where we have put up, passed by the village Mētta, and afterward saw herds of large and small cattle. After seven, we came to the village Kummi; and about an hour later, encamped near a deserted and ruined village of the Bedouins. Although we were in want of water, and the watering-place, as the people said, was yet at a great distance, still the old man could not be induced to proceed. Consequently, we lay down to rest, and set off this morning at a quarter-past five; and, pursuing our course over the same plain, west-south-west, saw to the left, at a little distance, Mount Afrabat; to the west of which is joined the small mountain Farsis; and north-west of this Mount Assabot; all inhabited by Ittoos. To the right we saw the high land of Shoa and Efat. The plain on which we travelled terminated in a dale overgrown with grass and trees. Here we passed a village inhabited by Dabanis; and gained an eminence, where we met a woman and her child riding on a camel, laden with her Bedouin tent. She showed us the way to the encamping-place of a caravan, which was awaiting our arrival. At about half-past ten we reached this stage, situated near the watering-place Hamuissa, from which this whole region derives its name; and here we found the caravan. They left Tajurra on the day of our arrival there, and did not arrive here till yesterday evening. Our people had long been desiring to join them; and therefore sent word to them yesterday, in consequence of which they said they had waited for us to-day; otherwise, they would have gone on before. We shall now most likely travel together the rest of our journey: our new companions say they will henceforward travel quicker than they have done hitherto. This region abounds with elephants, which come in great numbers to the water in the night, and suffer no man to approach it. The caravan entreated us to shoot them, but we felt no inclination to do so. Thermometer this morning at five, 69°; during the afternoon, 105°. Early in the morning it is very cool: the warm winds generally blow till late in the night.

May 25, 1839—We started this morning at six, and moved nearly due west, over a fine plain full of grass and trees. Since yesterday, we have noticed a large fire on this plain, which is not yet extinguished. On asking the cause of it, they said it came of itself. At nine, we put up near the village Mullu; which is called Small Mullu, to distinguish it from Great Mullu. This village is surrounded by very high grass, reaching higher than the head of a man on horseback, and excelling in luxuriance the finest corn-fields. It had been agreed upon, that we should repose here for the morning, and resume our journey in the evening, to travel throughout the night, in order to reach the Hawash soon: however, on arriving, we heard that we were to pass the night here, and not to set out before next morning, as the caravan was in fear of the Gallas. They alleged that a battle was soon expected to take place between the Danakils and the Gallas; and that as the Gallas make their invasions only by night, they chose rather to travel during the day. These people alter their statements so many times, that one cannot rely on them; and, by being so apprehensive, give evidence of the truth, that he who does not know and serve the True God can have no confidence in his ideal God.

To-day we had a little elephant-hunting. Soon after we had encamped, four of these animals, three small ones and one of a larger size, were seen near the camp, under a tree in the grass. The people entreated us for a long time to shoot at them; the more so, as they were afraid of their causing some damage to the men or the beasts. We observed them for some time, from a tree, standing and swinging their broad flapping ears, and throwing up dust with their trunks, as if to defy us. At length, Warkieh, who had been engaged at other times in elephant-hunting, grew impatient, took a gun, and went toward them, accompanied by Brn. Krapf and Ernst, who stationed themselves under a tree at a certain distance from the elephants. Warkieh, however, was the only one who could shoot, as the grass was too high for the others. He fired twice with Brother Krapf's double-barrelled gun; and, at the second shot, hit the larger elephant, who shook himself. Upon this, a smaller one, which stood under another tree, took to his heels; and then all fled away. This region apparently abounds in wild-beasts. We bought a zebra-hide for five needles and a few pepper-corns. The zebra was said to have been killed hereabouts; and our people pretended to have heard the voice of one last night. We got plenty of milk to-day, for needles, pepper, and snuff. The people were particularly eager for the snuff. All day we are surrounded by people: their conduct, however, is not at all extravagant. It is a pity that we cannot declare to them the tidings of the Gospel. Thermometer, at half-past four P. M., 102°.

May 26: Lord's Day—To-day we have again had an undesired-for day of rest; as the caravan which we joined the day before yesterday have desired our people to stay here till they obtain some camels, for which they have sent to a neighbouring village. As we objected to staying, our people observed, that we were under some obligation to the caravan, as they had first waited for us, in order that we might travel together through this dangerous country: so we have agreed to wait till this afternoon, and then to proceed, should the caravan obtain the camels or not. They are all in great fear; because yesterday three Mudaitus were here, whom they apprehended to be spies.

The German hymn, "My Saviour receiveth Sinners," is now continually uppermost in mind; and it is particularly consolatory for me to know that the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth me from all my innumerable sins which still cleave to me. To whom could I direct myself, in order to find rest and safety, if this blood did not constantly speak better things than that of Abel? The whole head is sick, and the whole heart faint. Sanctification advances so slowly, that it seems rather to retrograde. Nevertheless, the Lord has called me to glorify Him before the world.

The constant necessity of insisting upon the fulfilment of the stipulated agreements with our fellow-travellers, in order to prevent unnecessary delay, gives much nourishment to the natural man, and many occasions for the excitement of unholy passions. This, however, is our consolation, that the Lord is ever ready to receive us back, and does not take away from us His Holy Spirit — the spirit of faith, of power, and discipline.—Thermometer yesterday evening, near 9 o'clock, 73°; this morning, after sunrise, 66°. The night was pretty cool, although the day was hot: ten minutes past eleven, 104°. Diseases of the eyes are very common in this country, no doubt occasioned principally by the dust with which the atmosphere is constantly filled. A strong whirl of dust came about our tent, and overturned it, just after we left it.

May 27—Yesterday, at three P.M., we left Small Mullu; and journeyed again over a large plain, which at first we found covered with high grass, and afterward with scattered bushes: the soil on the whole appeared fertile. Now and then we met also with an elephant. We marched till half-past eight, and passed the night at Berduda—so another part of this vast plain is called. Here several Bedouins had set up their huts, but most of them left again this morning. Some Chiefs of another Dankali tribe—Takil—came to us, to beg tobacco. This, as it appears, induced our old guide Ali to hasten away the sooner. Other Dankali tribes, inhabiting these regions, are the following:—to the west of the We'emas, the Dabanis, who extend very far: in the district of Hamuissa, up to this, the Mashaikh and Hassoba, among whom also the Takils live.

We left Berduda this morning at half-past five, and crossed the other part of the plain, Halakdiggi. We saw much game, especially large roes, also two ostriches; and, a little before nine, arrived at a place called Hanni, where we found water and trees, and here reposed. Our people, as well as the caravan who accompany us, are in great fear of an attack, and urge us continually to have our guns in readiness. We occasionally tell them of the necessity of a higher protection; but all men have not faith in such a protection. Our journey is, after all, very tedious and trying. Our course, at present, is almost due west. The night again cool. Thermometer, at half-past twelve P.M., 100°.

May 28—We started at ten minutes past two at night; and marching westward, over a barren part of the plain, soon arrived at Great Halakdiggi: thence we crossed an eminence, shortly after sunrise, from which the mountains of Shoa clearly presented themselves to our view. We felt our hearts tuned to praise our God, who had mercifully guided us until now, and brought us so near to the close of our perilous journey. From this eminence we descended into the low country of Small Halakdiggi, where our caravan was to halt. Sheikh Ali, however, was for going on; and he prevailed. After passing through the valley of Small Halakdiggi, we ascended a hill belonging to the chain of mountains which forms the western skirt of the valley of Hawash; then came down into the deep and wide valley of the Hawash, in which we had been able to discern, from the eminence, some parts of the course of this river. At the foot of the mountain the road lay through a forest of mimosa-trees, from which our people collected a good quantity of gum Arabic; and then encamped on a spot called Debhille, near which the trees on one side of the valley are hung with the nests of small birds, sometimes forty to fifty on one tree.

May 29—We started at a quarter-past four this morning; and pursuing a south-west course to the Hawash, reached that river at a quarter-past six, by a road winding through a fine forest, abounding with plants and various kinds of animals. Numerous herds of elephants apparently reside in these regions, as we often found the fresh traces of them on our road. We also heard the braying of a zebra, and the noise of hippopotami by the shores of the Hawash; but saw neither. In crossing the Hawash, I saw some trees crowded with baboons, an animal I had not seen before in Habesh. We crossed the Hawash near Melkukuyu. Although this is the dry season, yet the water was from two to four feet deep. The breadth of the channel is about sixty feet; and the height of its banks, as far as we could judge, averaged fifteen to twenty. Both sides are covered with beautiful forests; the breadth of which however, in this part, is inconsiderable. The river runs north and north-east.

We could not ascertain the situation of its source. The shore to the right is inhabited by the Allas, Ittoos, and Mudaitus; and to the left, by the Danakils, who border on Shoa eastward. From this part, where it has the Argubbas on one side, and the Mudaitus on the other, the river flows as far as Aussa; and there collects in a vast plain, probably because the land ceases to decline, and forms a large lake, the waters of which either evaporate, which is more probable, or escape by a subterranean outlet. At this place the water is said to be putrid, and to emit an offensive smell; but, on digging near the lake, good water may be obtained. On the maps, which in general mark our road incorrectly, the Ittoos, among other errors, are made to inhabit the western, instead of the eastern shore of the Hawash, south of our route: farther south, the Abarras adjoin them; and still farther, the Allas, and other Galla tribes. At noon, after dinner, we went to see a small lake west of the Hawash, which is about ten minutes long and five broad. There we saw as many as a hundred hippopotami playing in the water. We fired a few guns at them: after each shot, they suddenly plunged into the water; and on coming up again, they blew a stream of water out of their nostrils, like whales, and snorted like horses. There are also many crocodiles in this lake—leviathan and behemoth dwelling together. Our people pierced a crocodile nine feet long, which lay in the water near the shore. This region is very prolific for a naturalist.

May 31, 1839—Yesterday morning, at a quarter-past four, we set off from Melkukuyu; and marched over a hilly tract near a small lake, whose waters have a disagreeable taste, and sulphureous smell. On account of its remarkable cleansing quality, our people had washed their clothes very clean in it the preceding day: we could not bestow on it a closer examination. As we proceeded, we first met with a few hyænas, then a zebra, but all beyond the reach of our guns. The region through which we have come is called Dofan. After passing through several forests abounding with game, and rendered lively by the warbling notes of a great variety of birds, about nine we reached a larger lake, in which the hippopotamus is said to abound; but we did not see one. Its name is Le Adoo (far-distant water). Thence we pursued our road westward; and alighted about eleven at Asseboti, in a large sandy plain full of acacias. Setting out again at half-past 3 P. M., we left the caravan behind, and encamped in the evening at Atkonti. On the road we saw several be'ezas, a fine animal of the size of a cow, and shaped like a deer, with horns, not branching, but upright: their flesh is exquisite. This region resembles a cactus garden. We started at a quarter-past four this morning; and after sunrise entered a fine valley called Kokai, with lofty trees, excellent water, abundance of cattle, and a great variety of birds. After crossing several hills, the prominences of the highlands of Abyssinia, which extend from the south far northward, about eight we reached the frontier place, Dinomali; where we were visited, soon after our arrival, by Soliman Mussa, the collector of customs, and Abbagaz Mahomed, the governor of the boundary, who came to inspect our persons and baggage. They were accompanied by Debtera Tekla Zion, the secretary for the salt-trade. During this transaction, the Haji Adam came, the same man whom Br. Krapf had seen last year in Mocha, in the character of royal messenger, saying that he was again on his way to Mocha, and had a Letter and a female slave for us: he soon brought both. Our conscience did not allow us to accept the slave, so she was sent back to Ankobar. The Letter was directed to me: it respected the King's and my own former mission; expressed the King's desire for medicine, a gun, masons, &c., and, if possible, my own personal arrival; and contained, at the same time, the promise, that all my wishes, which I should present to the King, should be gratified; but made no allusion to our Missionary labours. This meeting was quite providential, but connected with no small difficulty to us both. A Letter was now despatched to the King, stating, that the two persons to whom the message of the Haji Adam was directed, had arrived. Quarters were then assigned to us in the village of Farri, till an answer should arrive from the King, when we might pursue our journey.

DATED CALCUTTA, FEB. 27, 1839.

I HAVE this morning promised the Gentlemen of the Church Missionary Calcutta Committee, that I would represent to your Lordship the urgent need of additional European Missionaries in the Station of Krishnaghur, which has been created by the extraordinary promises of success which the goodness and grace of God have been lately opening to the pious subscribers of the great Society over which your Lordship presides, in that particular field of Missionary Exertion. I fulfil my promise at the instant; lest the pressure of incessant duties, which, wave after wave, roll over me, should defeat my purpose. * * *

It was just before Christmas last, that the Rev. W. J. Deerr, hearing that I had returned from the first division of my Second Visitation, sent down a Catechist, to entreat me to come up to Krishnaghur, and advise him how he might best proceed with the large and increasing numbers of Candidates for Baptism who had applied to him from all the villages around. He described himself as quite overwhelmed. —I wrote to him a few lines instantly, to "comfort him concerning his faith;" and promised him to visit his Station the moment I could get away from Calcutta. I begged him to answer me, in the mean time, eight or ten questions also, that I might judge the better of the blessed appearances which he spoke of. On the receipt of his reply, I was struck with amazement and admiration of the grace of God—I could scarcely believe the accounts, for joy. There seemed to be hundreds being "born at once." Finding that I was unable, however, to leave home, from an unexpected crowd of duties, I begged of the Archdeacon to go down without delay, and bring up a full statement of the position of things, that I might submit it to the Church Missionary Corresponding Committee, and advise with them how to meet the rising demand for help. The Archdeacon is just returned; and the meeting of the Committee took place, as I have intimated, this morning: and I am now redeeming the pledge which I made of communicating with your Society, through its honoured President, without an instant's pause.

It appears that between fifty-five and sixty villages are thirsting for the waters of life, in a greater or less degree: they stretch to the north and north-east of Krishnaghur on the Jelingha, to the distance of forty or fifty miles, and to the south-west fifteen or twenty. The numbers described as prepared for holy baptism—in various measures of course—are between 3000 and 3500. The Archdeacon assisted himself at the reception of about 500 souls, including women and children, into the Christian Church: and there seems the fairest prospect, if we can but enter at the wide and effectual door in time, that not only these 3000 or 4000, but the whole population of the fifty or sixty villages, may receive the Christian Faith, and resemble our Christian villages in the time of our Anglo-Saxon forefathers in the 6th and 7th conturies. Such a glorious scene has never yet been presented to our longing eyes in Bengal! and, after making all deductions for overstatements, sanguine hopes, the existence of secular motives, and the instability of large numbers—nay, after allowing for the influence of temporal relief which was exhibited to the sufferers, Christian and Heathen, by one of those inundations to which the sandy banks of the Jelingha are peculiarly liable, and which occurred during the progress of this religious awakening, and which excited a natural admiration, as it ought to do, in the neighbourhood, and contributed to augment the number of our inquirers—admitting all this, and as much more as the most timid observer can require, it still appears that a mighty work of Divine Grace is begun—a work wide and permanent, as we trust—a work marking the finger of God—a work which will demand, and warrant, and repay, all our pastoral care, anxiety, and labour—a work for which our fathers in India, Brown, Buchanan, Martyn, Thomason, and Bishops Corrie, Middleton, and Heber, would have blessed and praised God, in the loudest strains of gratitude and joy.

I am the more struck with this great event, because somewhat similar ones, though on a far smaller scale, have been taking place in the Missions of the Incorporated Society for Propagating the Gospel, around Janjera and Barrypore. I suppose like hopeful appearances more than once blessed the labours of Schwartz. The early tidings from Tinnevelly were not very different, also, as I imagine. We have reason, therefore, to be doubly grateful for every recurrence of these harbingers of the day; and, at the same time, to be doubly watchful, in guarding and training these tender plants, lest they should be nipped by Satan's temptations, or pine away for want of moisture. The fearful relapses of Native Converts and whole flocks, when destitute of adequate instructors, in all parts of India, and after the lapse of a very few years, is a sufficient indication to us of that wonderful connexion in the system of means, which we all acknowledge in theory, but which is no where so prominent as in our labours in a Heathen and Mahomedan Land. Every thing depends, under God, upon incessant culture—and culture by European Missionaries—at least in the actual state of things around us, in this heathen and prostrate country.

But this leads me to present to the Society a sketch of some of the facts which have occurred; and which will enable them to judge for themselves of the accuracy of my own impressions. Possibly I have felt and spoken too strongly.

About four years since, the Rev. W. J. Deerr, Missionary at Krishanegore or Krishnaghur ("the Town of Krishna" no longer, I trust; but rather Anunda Bas, "the Village of Joy," according to the name of the first spot where the blessed baptisms took place,) having heard that there was a body of persons, partly of Hindoo and partly of Mussulman origin, who professed to worship the one true God, and who were exposed to persecution on that account, went to their principal village and spoke to them of the Gospel, but apparently with little impression: he left copies, however, of the New Testament behind, as silent Missionaries; and promised to see them again.

In 1836 he was more cordially listened to—he had repeated interviews—they consented to unite in prayer to Jesus Christ—they begged for Christian Instructors.

Five heads of families were baptized by Mr. Deerr, at his visit the following winter, 1837. A fierce persecution had broken out: their wives and children were forcibly torn from them, and only restored by the interference of the Magistrate. From this date, however, numbers began to flock around the new Christians—the tidings spread—the young converts became each of them Missionaries—one told his brother, another his mother and sister, like the primitive disciples, "We have found the Saviour." Thus the information reached to the extremities of the connexion, for the whole body or sect are connected by intermarriages.

In 1838, the leading men in ten villages, including with their families probably 400 or 500 souls, embraced openly the doctrine of Christ; and, after some months' further instruction, were baptized: these began from that time to celebrate Christian Worship among themselves, and keep holy the Lord's Day. A keener curiosity was thus excited among the connected family or tribe, and more rigid persecution followed. But the flame was so far from being extinguished, that it burned only the brighter, and spread with more rapidity: whole neighbourhoods came over to the Christian Fold, and prayed for instruction in the new religion. Mr. Deerr did what he could, but said little to any one.

In the present winter, 1839, a devastating inundation plunged the whole agricultural population, in a moment, into the most profound distress. Christianity, feeble as it was, produced its immediate fruit: help was afforded: Mr. Deerr stripped himself even of the little fund indispensable for his own necessities and those of his own children, to administer to the sufferers. The Christian Villagers went about in boats over the deluged fields, to see how their brethren did. The neighbours said, "There, see how these Christians love one another! For us, poor fellows, no one cares. Of a truth, there is the true religion among these people."—Your Lordship will here again recognise the scenes of Primitive Christianity.

This was the occasion of Mr. Deerr sending down the Catechist to me at Christmas: the distress was so great, he was unable to relieve it; and the number of inquirers after Christianity, and of Candidates for Baptism, was still more overwhelming and exciting.

The Archdeacon Dealtry cheerfully went, and supplied my lack of service: he took with him the Rev. Krishna Mohana Banerjea — whom I ordained in June 1837; and he found there the Rev. J. J. Weitbrecht and the Rev. T. Sandys of Burdwan and Mirzapore, who had been attracted by the tidings, and came, without concert, to give what aid they could to such a work, at such a moment.

The Archdeacon informed himself, before he proceeded to the villages, of the origin and history of the sect from which the chief body of inquirers and Christians had sprung. It appears that they have been about sixty years settled on the banks of the Jelingha. They called themselves "Kurta Bhoja," Worshippers of the Creator. They had some connexion with the sect of the Durbeshas, or Dervishes, supposed to abound in Persia. They had a firm notion of one Supreme Being—they rejected, with abhorrence, all idolatry—they held very slightly, if at all, by caste —they considered the test of proselytism, not eating, but uniting in prayer to the one true God. They thought, also, that the Deity was to appear, or had appeared, in human form. The persecution which they endured seemed to argue the importance which they attached to their creed, and their sincerity in following it. Mr. Deerr thinks it will be found that some early Christian Missionary had visited them, the tradition of whose instructions had come down to the present generation. More light will be cast on their history, doubtless, by further inquiry. To the grace of God only must we ascribe the faith which receives Christianity aright; as is evident from the bitterness of Islamism, with all its fine theory of the Unity of the Divine Being.

On reaching the first field of labour, the Archdeacon, assisted by his Brethren, proceeded to examine the Candidates for Baptism—about 160 were placed in rows —at the village of Anunda Bas. Their replies were most affecting. They evidently showed an acquaintance generally with the lost estate and sinful nature of man—with the incarnation and holy life of our Lord Jesus Christ—with His atonement —with the doctrines of justification and sanctification, in their substantial import—and with the necessity and duty of following His example. Jesus Christ was the beginning and end of their religion. Prayer to Him was the test of discipleship. The moment any one fell down and called on the Name of the Lord Jesus —the Society will recognise again the Apostolic Faith—he was gathered into their number. They appeared, in short, so far as could be judged, under the influence of the grace of God. They had learned the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer, and the Creed, together with Dr. Watts's First Catechism. They knew that the Son of God appeared in human form, and died to save them—that there is salvation in Him, and in no other —that to believe in Him is the way to obtain this salvation—that nothing can be done without the Holy Spirit's influence—that there will be a resurrection of the dead, a final Judgment-day, a reward for the righteous, and punishments for the wicked. It appeared further, so far as could be ascertained, that they were willing to forsake all for Christ, and endure whatever persecutions might come upon them: nor could the Archdeacon and our friends discover that they were influenced by temporal motives, except so far as godliness, having the promise of this life, inseparably brings them with it. The inundation may have given an impulse to some; and time will show further to what extent this has gone: but the greater part had professed to be inquirers after Christianity, and numbers of them had been baptized, in 1837 and 1838, a year or two before the inundation occurred.

The result was, that the Archdeacon said to the Rev. Missionaries, Can any forbid water, that these should not be baptized, who have received the Holy Ghost, in His sanctifying influences, as well as we? And, upon their unanimous opinion, holy baptism was administered according to the forms of our Church; first to the 160 then assembled; and then, at three other villages, after like examinations, to about 380 or 400 more. These, together with the little companies which had been received into the Church in 1837 and1838, may amount, including children, to nearly 1000. About 1500 or 2000 more lay so far distant, that it was impossible to visit them at that time. Messrs. Sandys, Weitbrecht, and Mohana Banerjea, however, went to several villages; and found the same eagerness for instruction, but far less attainments in Christian Knowledge: they were inquirers only. Those baptized had been catechumens—most of them for more than a year—under the instructions of Mr. Deerr and his Native Catechists and Assistants. The rest are in earlier stages.

But enough, My Lord, of these details, into which many errors may have crept. You shall have more accurate particulars, as soon as we can ascertain them. I am sure, however, that you will partake of the joy and gratitude to Almighty God, which filled every heart at the Corresponding Committee Meeting at Calcutta, as the narrative was given, partly from Mr. Deerr's Letter to myself, and partly from the notes made on the spot by the Venerable Archdeacon. Solemn acts of praise were devoutly offered up; and it was determined to strain every nerve to meet the Divine Goodness, and to cultivate the opening fields of usefulness. Mr. Alexander, a Catechist at Krishna, had already been removed to Krishnaghur. Mr. Weitbrecht had promised two Catechists; Mr. Sandys two others. I proffered the first-fruits of my Begum Sumroo's Fund at Bishop's College—a very pious Native, Brijonauth Ghose. There were already one Schoolmaster, two Catechists, and five incipient Catechists, with Mr. Deerr. The whole instant body of Teachers would thus be, (1) one Missionary, Mr. Deerr; (2) one English Catechist—whom the Committee solicited me to admit as a Candidate for Holy Orders—Mr. Alexander; (3) and eleven or twelve Native Catechists: but what are these among so many! —fifty-five or sixty villages—3000 inquiring souls—a population all around pressing to hear the Word of God — flocks, upward of 1000 already baptized — distances of fifty or sixty miles on the east, thirty-six on the north, and eighteen on the west of Krishnaghur to be traversed! Such circumstances demand at least three European Missionary Clergymen, three Schoolmasters, and thirty Catechists; and these are little enough for the effective work before them.

But before I venture to suggest any particular measures with reference to these urgent demands, your Lordship will rejoice to hear a few particulars concerning the general state of your Missions, and Corresponding Committee, in my division of your evangelical labours in India —the diocese of Calcutta.

I have now been acquainted intimately with all your Missions, and most of your Missionaries—I believe I may say nearly all—for between six and seven years; nor can I conceive of any Clergy more admirably adapted, as a body, for their sacred work than they are. With a difference of talent and cast of mind, I know of no difference in point of simplicity, of piety, zeal, love for souls, disinterestedness, diligent labour, affection for each other, attachment to the Natives, prudence, fortitude and resignation under a thousand privations. They are, indeed, men of God. * * *

In addition to this substratum of good in your Missionaries, the first rough preparation work is now, after twenty years, a good deal got through—the buildings, compounds, institutions, schools, chapels, are erected—the impression on the vast native population around, as at Burdwan and Benares, is beginning to be acknowledged—the European Gentry's ignorance or prejudices are subdued—the Magistrate's friendly, but righteous aid, is experienced—the translation and circulation of the Scriptures, with the munificent aid of the British and Foreign Bible Society, is advanced—the communication of the Christian Doctrine, by the means of their children at our Schools, to their parents, and also by the conferences held in the bazaars, as well as by the direct preaching of the Gospel, is in full train—some, yea, many souls, I may say, have been added to the Lord, also, of such as shall be saved.

Another important feature is, the Orphan Asylums, in which the most remarkable success of Mrs. Wilson has led the way, and which have been nourished by the necessities created in the famine-stricken provinces: these are preparing a body of intelligent Native Christians for the next age; are furnishing a specimen of the Native Female, when trained and educated in the Christian Faith; and are breaking down the barriers of caste, with a mighty but imperceptible inroad.

Thus, all is waiting for similar visitations of mercy with that which has led me to the present Letter. That very curiosity, that very spirit of inquiry, that very feeling of interest in the subject of Christianity, which is now awakened at Krishnaghur, is what our Brethren are praying and longing for with eager and unceasing anxiety; and this may serve to show us the immense importance of this spirit of inquiry, and also the humble thanksgivings we owe to God, for the distinguished mercy.

Nor is there any thing to prevent similar outbursts, at any given moment, and at any place. Benares, with her 500,000 Brahminical Devotees, may desert the point of the Trident of Shiva, for the Divine Redeemer and His Cross. The city of the Imperial Akhbah (Agra) may quit its gorgeous Tuj for the Christian-Mission Chapel; and the commencement of grace, begun under the honoured and beloved Bishop Corrie, and apparent in Abdool Messeeh and his flocks for a season, may revive, after so long a decline, under your present Missionaries.

The importance, therefore, of the events at Krishnaghur, vast as it is in itself—for the value of a single soul who can estimate?—is elevated much higher by the relative position of your other Missions, and the hopes which they serve to enkindle of the further effusions of the Blessed Spirit. * * *

The Bishop, while remarking on the insufficiency of Native help, when unsupported by European Missionaries, proceeds to observe:—

But your Lordship will remind me, that I promised to offer such suggestions as occurred to me, for the supply of the immediate demand of help at Krishnaghur. * * * Three European Missionaries, I apprehend, are indispensable. They would soon acquire enough of the language to be of essential benefit. And even their going round frequently to each village, and aiding the Native Catechists, and addressing the flocks for the first twelvemonth, through an Interpreter, would be of incalculable moment. India hangs upon European intellect, firmness, and matured piety, under God, for every thing spiritual, abiding, holy, influential. * *

From the number of your own noble Youth in England, your Lordship and the Society must look to supply this mighty occasion, which the providence of God has vouchsafed to a thousand, yea, ten thousand prayers, poured out during the nearly forty years of your labours as a Missionary Body.

The thirty or forty Catechists who will still be wanted, God will raise up by degrees. Extinguish all unbelieving fears. His arm is not shortened, that it cannot save; nor His ear heavy, that it cannot hear. The Apostle intimates, that Titus would find, in every one of the hundred cities of Crete, men fit to be ordained by him to the Priesthood, or Body of Presbyters or Elders. And if so, then we may hope that, now, initiatory Teachers and Catechists, to resound the Name of Jesus in catechetical response, may gradually be found. Novices, "Neophytes," they must at first be; and therefore not to be thought of as Candidates for Holy Orders, lest, being lifted up with pride, they fall into the condemnation of the devil. In the mean time, the three European Schoolmasters to whom I adverted, if you can be happy enough to meet with suitable persons, will be precious as the gold of Ophir, and Catechists and Schoolmasters may hereafter purchase to themselves higher degrees in the Church. * * *

His Lordship then earnestly appeals to the Universities of our land, in the hope that "they will confer no longer with flesh and blood"—"and that England will not desert the conjuncture of grace, now that it seems to have arisen." His Lordship proceeds:—

Surely the love of Christ, the zeal of the Gospel, the glory of the Cross, the patience of the Kingdom of God, the self-denial of the Spirit, the right estimate of Eternity, the bright dawn of Prophetic Bliss, the full accomplishment of the purposes of Grace, are not all observed in England, the glory of the Western world, and the brightest of our Protestant Churches! Surely the case only needs to be fairly stated, and our petty selfishnesses and excuses to be dismissed, to ensure the voluntary offer of an adequate array of Missionary—not Martyrs, but—Labourers! * * *

Your Lordship will forgive my warmth. I stand, as it were, the Advocate of 3000 Inquirers before your table, who cannot plead for themselves. I represent before you the teeming population around these inquirers and catechumens, who are waiting, as it were, for the Kingdom of God. Opportunity is the golden spot of time. I may to-morrow be myself silent in the grave. The Society may wait in vain the recurrence of such a glorious opening as this, if the present moment be allowed to slip by * * * Thirty years back, we had not Delhi: we have now the Indus, and the Punjab, stretching itself in our view. A century since we were unknown in Hindoostan: we are now its masters. To hope to occupy this vast territory is fruitless, unless as we enter vigorously, and joyfully, and with gratitude to God, the particular doors of utterance, as they unfold their golden hinges before us. * *

His Lordship adds, in a Postscript—

Since writing the above, a Letter is come in from Mr. Alexander, whom I mentioned as recommended to me by the Committee—and most joyfully shall I act on the recommendation—as a Candidate for Deacon's Orders: it is dated Ranobunda, near Krishnaghur, Feb. 28th. He informs us, that a great change of character is perceptible in the converts, in their desire for instruction, their constant attendance on such Means of Grace as they possess, and in the love they bear to one another. Females, who a short time since would not have quitted their own private apartments, now bring out the rice and vegetables for the Brethren, passing by, and overtaken by the night. Travellers, fatigued with a day's journey, will sit down and sing hymn after hymn, which they have committed to memory. "It is delightful," says Mr. Alexander, "to hear the whole company join in; and this in a place where ignorance, idolatry, darkness, selfishness, and the destructive precepts of the False Prophet had reigned triumphant. I do trust," he continues, "that a glorious work of grace has been begun: but the almost entire want of Teachers is most distressing. The people have no one to instruct them; and numbers of enemies are stalking about to and fro, accusing the Christians of having left light for darkness. The fields are white for the harvest, but Labourers there are none scarcely."

It is my intention, if Providence should permit, to go up to Krishnaghur, and hold a Confirmation for such of the newly baptized as may be of age, and prepared: this will be toward the end of October, on my way to Burdwan, Gorruckpore, Hazeerabagh, Allahabad, Meerut, the Hills of Mussoure and Simla, Leodrana, Kurnaul, Delhi, Agra, Bareilly, Cawnpore, Ghazepore, Dinapore, &c., a circuit of more than 3000 miles, which will occupy me from Oct. 1839 to March 1841; and which I visited four years since. I need not say, I entreat your prayers for me.

THE LORD BISHOP OF CALCUTTA TO THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF CHICHESTER;

DATED RUTTENPORE, ON THE BHOYRUP, TWENTY-FIVE MILES FROM KRISHNAGHUR, OCTOBER 30, 1839.

My Dear Lord,

I have now been twelve days in the midst of the Mission Villages of this Station, accompanied by my Chaplain, the Rev. John Henry Pratt; and have been examining, to the very best of my power, the mighty work which has been for these two years going on: a work it is—and a great one I cannot doubt—a work of the Lord Jesus—of the same character as that for which St. Paul gave thanks without ceasing on account of the Philippian Converts: Being confident of this very thing, that He which had begun a good work in them would perform it until the day of Jesus Christ—a work, at the same time, requiring all the caution, fear, distrust, discipline, incessant nurture, which the Churches in the Apostolic times demanded, and without which the fairest prospects have been found, in every subsequent age, to fade and disappear; but a work calling for joy, gratitude, adoration to the God of all grace, and which may possibly issue in the awakening of the whole body of the Kurta-Bhojas to that inquiry after the Gospel which has already commenced, and bring 100,000 souls within the boundaries of the Christian Church.

When I last wrote to your Lordship, in February, I mentioned my design of beginning this winter's branch of my Second Visitation by coming to Krishnaghur. We arrived here on Saturday the 19th instant; and the accidental delay of the steamer, which was to have met us at Moorshedabad, has given us a week's additional opportunity for observation.

The progress of things generally, since the Archdeacon's Report in February, has been most encouraging. Seventeen new villages have welcomed the Christian Instructors. The number of those who are asking the way to the Heavenly City is now above 4000. The number baptized is, including those of which I shall presently give some account, between 1000 and 1100. The demand for Teachers stretches over an extent of 80 miles—from Hooghly to the Jelingha; and a family of seven Gooroos, who have had many thousands—perhaps 8000 or 9000—under their direction, as spiritual guides, have embraced the Gospel, and placed themselves among the catechumens of the Missionaries. Nor does there seem, at present, any given limit to the flowing tide: the current is widening and deepening daily on all hands; and, I confess, I stand astonished and overwhelmed with the goodness and grace of God in Christ Jesus! "One day spent as yesterday was," in the Village of Joy (Anunda Bas), is worth—as my honoured predecessor, Bishop Heber, said at Trichinopoly in 1826—"years of ordinary life." I find it difficult, indeed, to sober down my mind to that cool and discriminating point of judgment, which I know I ought to do, in estimating the real good likely to be effected. But I will do my best to moderate my feelings; and your Lordship and the Society will still deduct from my statements whatever you may think needful or safe. We are in a world of sin and temptation: we have an active, powerful adversary. The human heart is deceitful: appearances are treacherous. Popular movements of any kind draw in numbers of ill-informed followers. The habits of Heathen Society soon steal behind the Christian Inquirer, and entangle him in the old ambush. The result of real conversions, even at home, and in our largest parishes, and where crowded congregations in every quarter promise abundant fruit, is comparatively small—what, then, are the allowances to be made for our feeble flocks in Pagan India? Still, the work of grace is, I am persuaded, begun in this Station; and these indications of the Spirit of God moving, as it were, on the face of the waters, are causes of admiration, hope, and praise. Such beginnings of things indeed may, and will to a certain extent, fail; but without these beginnings all would remain fixed in death-like sleep. And these very beginnings are what prophets and kings have desired to see, and have not seen them—if I may allude to our Lord's language, with humble reverence, on such a theme.

In my further remarks, I do not know that I can pursue a better course, than first to give your Lordship a sketch of my proceedings since I have been in the Station. I will then offer such information as I have obtained, on the origin and preparatory steps of this great movement. The prospects and chief dangers of the Mission will next occupy a few lines. * *

Proceedings of the Bishop at Krishnaghur.

I. On our arrival at Krishnaghur, the first tidings which greeted us was the extraordinary fact of two or three Gooroos having come over to the faith of Christ. These were afterward stated to be seven. One had been for many years in a Christian School at Burdwan. They are all of one family, about two days' journey from Krishnaghur; and appear, so far as can be judged, to be sincere in their inquiries—for they are inquirers only. They said to Mr. Deerr, "We hear you have the true doctrine—we are seeking truth. We are Kurta-Bhojas—we hope by devotions to obtain a sight of God, and, through that sight, salvation. We know there is only one God, the Creator of all. We know that without sacrifice there is no salvation. Put us under instruction. We renounce Hindooism—we give up caste—we wish to be Christian Disciples." To these Inquirers, Mr. Deerr began at the same place, so to speak, and preached unto them Jesus. He declared the mystery of godliness: he presented to them the doctrine of God manifest in the flesh. They were struck with this sight of God—this appearance in the flesh. They are now under instruction. What will be the result, time will show. But the first step is of the greatest moment. They cannot retreat. They have given up Hindooism: reproach, difficulty, persecution they must now encounter. This they know. Nor is there one earthly inducement for these Leaders to embrace the Gospel. They lose a large income, collected annually from perhaps 8000 or 9000 disciples. They have nothing to gain, but spiritual riches in the knowledge of Christ. The Society will be careful to observe that the conversion of these Gooroos cannot yet be affirmed—much less any movement whatever among their followers. But there is every reason to hope that some of the seven will stand their ground; and that, ultimately, some thousands of their people may give in their names to the Lord.

The next information we received, was, that the statements published in consequence of the Archdeacon's visit in February had by no means been overcharged —that the flocks were generally conducting themselves well—that as few relapses had taken place as could have been expected, and as few instances of gross misconduct —that an evident improvement in the morals, family order, conduct in civil society, submission under injuries, diligence, and honesty, was observable, with some exceptions—that the money borrowed for seed-corn, after the total desolation of the inundated river, 5000 Company's rupees, was now being repaid—that the increase of inquirers had been steady, and, as nearly as possible, at the same ratio before the inundation, during it, and after its effects had passed. To this particular I beg your Lordship's attention: it is decisive, and most important. We learned, further, that seventeen villages had joined the flocks of catechumens since the Archdeacon's visit; and that messengers were continually arriving, from forty to sixty miles' distance, to beg for instruction— that one or two villages having failed to obtain Teachers, had sent on to Berhampore, to the Missionaries of the London Society, but had been very properly referred back to their own Pastors—that the number of baptized persons was nearly 700; probably, with their infant families, 1000, or more—that more Candidates were in a state of preparation for that Sacrament in every quarter—that nearly 200 were considered ready for Confirmation— that ten Chapels had been built, of mud and bamboo, with open verandahs, costing about 100 Company's rupees each, and capable of standing ten or twenty years with care—that there were twenty Catechists employed, of various abilities, but not very satisfactory persons: indeed, the character of the Native Teachers is too often dubious in the extreme—that the Rev. C. H. Blumhardt had arrived, and was applying himself to learning the language—that the Rev. Messrs. Krauss and Lipp were expected: they arrived on Monday the 21st, and were directed by the Committee to plant themselves in Solo, and in some other centrical spot, with the Rev. A. Alexander and Catechist Rozario, for the same purpose—that their grand wants were, (1) Catechists of really solid piety and character, (2) Houses for the Missionaries, (3) Schools for Christian Children, (4) Chapels in the larger neighbourhoods—that then, as the three newly-arrived Missionary Brethren acquired the Bengalee (two years for a tolerable, and five for a competent knowledge, will, alas! be necessary; but much may be done earlier, in a variety of subsidiary labours) all would proceed well—and, finally, that an Auxiliary Local Society had been formed, to aid the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, and were about to circulate an appeal to the different Stations for help: 600 or 700 Company's rupees had already been sent there, from friends in the army of the Indus; and 2500 Company's rupees had been collected at a Fancy Sale at Calcutta for Female Schools.—With this cheering information we set forth.

It was on Saturday the 19th of October that we arrived at Krishnaghur; and on Monday, the first assemblage from the nearest villages took place there, in the Church-Missionary Boys' Heathen School: 200 or 300 were present; and about 40 were admitted to Confirmation, after two hours as close examination as I could institute. Mr. Deerr, however, was ill with fever: his health is much shaken, and he could in no way leave his couch; and I had no competent interpreter, so that I was unable to learn all which I could have wished: it was a blessed sight, notwithstanding. Most of the men had been Kurta-Bhojas of the Mahomedan class: many were advanced in life, with fine Mussulman features, black flowing beards, and eyes brightening as questions were proposed. I looked at them again and again with indescribable affection; and said to myself, as Dr. Buchanan, when on a visit to the Syrian Churches, "Can these be Children of Abraham?" I was strongly reminded, also, of the scenes which I had witnessed near Calcutta, in the Janjera and Barripore Missions of the Venerable the Incorporated Society. There was the same fervour in responses; the same simplicity of faith; the same occasional point and acuteness in their replies, which had made me almost start from my chair at that time.

Examination of the People, and Administration of Confirmation and Baptism.

On Tuesday the 22d we proceeded to Solo, twenty-two miles. As I entered the first Mission Bungalow erected in this New Mission, where a desolate wilderness stretched two years before, I paused, to give thanks to God, and adore His providence and grace. We bowed our knees as soon as we met—the Rev. Mr. Alexander, whom I had ordained Deacon the preceding Friday, Mr. Pratt, Mr. Rozario, and myself—to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named, that He would strengthen us by His Spirit in the inner man, and enable us to rise up, by the boundless love of Christ, to all the fulness of God. After breakfast, a large concourse filled every part of the chief room—36 feet by 18: there must have been more than 150. Morning Prayers in Bengalee were read; and I preached from Acts xiv. 22: Confirming the souls of the disciples; and exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that we must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God. Such an audience I had never addressed before in Bengal. In the South, at Tanjore, in 1834-35, I had. My heart leapt within me for joy. The examination which followed was entirely satisfactory; as Mr. Alexander has been twenty-one years in the country, and twelve years in the Society's service, and was a perfect Interpreter. I especially addressed the Candidates for Confirmation; and told them, that as they had stood firm for eight or nine months—and had testified this, so far as I could learn, by their spirit and conduct—I was now about to inquire of them whether they would confirm and ratify the vows of their baptism publicly before the Church; and that if they were ready to do it, I would, after the example of the Apostles, lay my hands upon them, and implore the grace of the Holy Ghost—that they would then, by renewed bonds, be dedicated to the Lord—and that assuredly He, who had promised His Holy Spirit to them that ask Him, would not withhold that blessing, when solemnly and humbly sought for on so great an occasion. I confirmed twenty-seven. The Holy Communion was then administered, for the first time, at Solo, to the Missionaries only; as we thought it safer not to admit even those confirmed to these blessed mysteries till they should be further instructed. Indeed, I may assure your Lordship and the Society that I have endeavoured to err on the side of caution, rather than of precipitancy, in our proceedings. There are about twenty villages in Mr. Alexander's District around Solo; and a friend in Calcutta is designing to erect, at his own expense, as we understand, a suitable Chapel, with solid walls, to contain 500 or 600 persons, at a cost of 3000 Company's rupees.

On our return to Krishnaghur on Thursday, we found that the delay of the steamer would allow us a few more days; and we instantly formed a plan for visiting Anunda Bas and Ranobunda, where many candidates for Baptism, as well as Confirmation, were anxiously awaiting us. On Monday the 28th, accordingly, we reached Ruttenpore, where I began this Letter; and on Tuesday celebrated Divine Service at Anunda Bas—so termed from the beauty of its site—about two miles from the little river Bhoyrup, which flows gently, like the waters of Siloah, and blesses, instead of desolating, like the Jelingha, the lands which it inundates. Here a crowd of 500 filled the Missionary Chapel; with verandah and tent-cloths extended beyond, to defend them from the sun. There were 150 or 160 Candidates for Baptism, approved by Mr. Deerr—who had now risen from his sickness, and was, for the first time, with us; and upward of 100 Candidates for Confirmation, of those baptized in February by Archdeacon Dealtry: the rest, to the number of 250 or more, were Catechumens and Heathen. The Service lasted about three hours, in an atmosphere inexpressibly hot; and we were pressed on all sides with human faces. I began, therefore, with the examination for Baptism. The Candidates were arranged in rows.—"Are you sinners?" "Yes, we are all sinners," was resounded from one end of the Chapel to the other.—"How are you to obtain forgiveness?" "By the sacrifice of Christ," re-echoed the crowd.—"Who is Christ?" "The only Son of God?"—"What do you mean by His sacrifice?" "We were sinners, and deserved God's wrath; and Christ bore that wrath in the stead of us," shouted some.—"He suffered in our place," cried other voices.—I pause, to call the Society's attention to this point: the Kurta-Bhojas uniformly seize on the doctrine of atonement: they say, "This is what we have been seeking for." It seems that their notion of obtaining a sight of God is met by the doctrine of a God Incarnate suffering for man. Thus our Missionaries, like St. Paul, know nothing among their converts but Jesus Christ and Him crucified; which, though still a stumbling-block to some, and folly to others, is Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God, to them that are called of all nations and kindreds and tongues and people. But I proceed.—"How is your heart to be changed, and made holy?" "By the Holy Ghost."—"Why do you desire Baptism?" "To obtain the pardon of our sins."—"Will you renounce all conformity to idolatry; poojahs, feasts, processions, &c.?" "We renounce them all."—"Will you give up Caste?" "Yes; we have already."—"Will you forgive injuries for Christ's sake?" "Yes."—In short, I went over the chief points in the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments, and the other topics in the Catechism. I then asked Mr. Deerr how long they had been under instruction. He replied, a year, or more. I inquired if they had been living consistently. He answered, "Yes." Upon this, I begged Mr. Deerr to proceed with the Baptismal Service, in Bengalee. When he came to the questions, I paused, and said, "The Church requires two witnesses for each candidate for adult baptism—will, then, the Baptized Christians present be witnesses for them?" They shouted that they would. "Will you advise, assist, warn, and strengthen them?" They answered, "Yes." The sight now was most touching. The flock already baptized, with keen look, were waiting to know whether the new candidates would be admitted. I said, "Then I accept your sponsion." The Rev. Mr. Pratt and Mr. Alexander, with the Catechists presenting the moveable font, then proceeded along the lines of Catechumens, and administered Holy Baptism. I then stood in the midst; and received them in a body into Christ's Church, pronouncing, as well as I could, in Bengalee, the prescribed formula. The Rev. Brethren then again went round, and signed them with the sign of the cross, repeating to each the appointed words of signature. It is impossible to conceive the solemnity and joy on every countenance.

The Baptisms being ended, I explained the nature of Confirmation or Ratifying: and having the Candidates before me—above 100—I asked them if, after eight or nine months, they were ready to stand to their baptismal engagements; or if, on the contrary, they repented of their vows. They shouted, with thrilling energy, "No, we do not repent: we stand to our baptismal dedication." I inquired whether they were prepared to go on, under the banner of Christ, to their lives' end, whatever they might be called to do, or to suffer. They replied, "Yes." I asked, in what way they hoped to do so. "In the strength of Christ," was the shout of answer, almost in the words of the Apostle: for all our doctrine in these Missions is simple, apostolic, old-fashioned truth; without superstition on the one hand, and without fanaticism or neglect of means on the other. When the Confirmation was over, I addressed a brief exhortation:—"Your village never deserved the name of Anunda Bas till these days of the Son of Man: it is now The Abode of Joy. Three kinds of joy are in it—joy in the tidings of a Saviour, as the angels sang—joy in your hearts, by this Saviour being born and formed within you, as the Apostle speaks—and joy in heaven, over many sinners who have repented. You, who are Confirmed, have now given in your names again as the soldiers of Christ; and the Holy Ghost has been, and will be, communicated to you, in answer to prayer. You who have come to Holy Baptism, repenting and believing, have been 'made children of God, members of Christ, and inheritors of the kingdom of Heaven.' You, who are Inquirers and Catechumens, have this day seen in what holy bonds you are to be knit to Christ. You, who are Spectators only, are now invited to examine the evidences of the Christian Faith, and no longer to worship an Unknown God. Let joy fill every heart—the joy of inquiry, the joy of expectation, the joy of Baptism, the joy of Confirmation in Christ, the joy of a Saviour born into the world, the joy of the heart receiving this Saviour, the joy of angels exulting over penitent sinners. There is only one class of persons which causes no joy—the hypocritical—the false-hearted—the backsliding—the obstinate—the impenitent. What joy can there be on the account of these treacherous and rebellious spirits? None; except to the Devil, the great Adversary, and his angels!"

The following day, Wednesday the 30th, the same blessed duties were repeated at Ranobunda; with this difference, that the Candidates for Baptism were more numerous, about 260; and those for Confirmation fewer, 15. But the crowd, the attendant inquirers, the Heathen, the eager answers of the examined Candidates, &c. were the same. I can truly say that I never was so penetrated with the beauty of our Liturgical Offices for Baptism and Confirmation, as during these visits. The prayers and thanksgivings of the first, the imposition of hands and invoking of the Holy Ghost of the second, were appropriate indeed! The one was the sign and seal and first day, in the eye of the Church, of the heavenly birth; the other was the descent of the strengthening grace of Christ upon the new-born Christian Converts—all was simple, sublime, scriptural.

We returned on Thursday to Krishnaghur, and welcomed Messrs. Krauss and Lipp from Calcutta; and, in the evening, laid the first foundation of the Boys' sleeping apartments; to be succeeded, as we hope, by houses for the Missionaries and Girls' Schools, and appropriate buildings for commencing Christian Education vigorously, as the Mission proceeds. On Friday I spent several hours with the four Brethren, consoling, advising, admonishing, exhorting, to the best of my power. The number of Baptisms was above 400; and of Candidates for Confirmation, 182, or a few more. The Baptisms, added to the 600 or 700 previous, raises the whole number to between 1000 and 1100, and, with the families, many more; while the Confirmation of nearly 200, out of 650 or 700, is a very high proportion, considering how many children were among those baptized. It is a pleasing fact, that a little subscription was begun here on Sunday, in this small Station of fifty or sixty persons; and the subscription paper shows already between 500 and 600 Company's rupees.

Origin and Preparatory Steps of the Awakening.

II. But your Lordship will remind me, that I promised to give such information as I had obtained, of the origin and preparatory steps of this great movement.

1. The principal means is, I have no doubt, the holy and devoted Mr. Deerr's characteristic preaching of Christ Jesus, in intelligible and fervent Bengalee Addresses, sustained by his benevolent and disinterested life. A person more thoroughly a Missionary I never saw. He is like Schwartz, in simplicity of mind, disregard of self, incessant labour, and love to Christ and the souls of men. He lives and thinks of nothing else; however much he may fall short of Schwartz in the wisdom, tact, and management of the human mind, which distinguished that illustrious Missionary. I am speaking only of means: God alone, in His grace, is the Author of all that is truly good. I was not aware till I made the inquiry, that Mr. Deerr, with three or four Catechists, had preached daily, for the space of two years, in the Bazaar of Krishnaghur; so that, not all Asia, but—all the Zillah of Krishnaghur, had heard the Word of the Lord Jesus. The impression made was testified by the fierce opposition with which he met the contradiction, the violent assaults, the gross abuse, so that his life was at times in danger. Arguments were sometimes entered on by the crowd of 200, 300, or 400 persons; and there were often three or four speakers. This was in the course of 1835 and 1836, after his return from Europe. The converts who have since been made, Kurta-Bhojas and others, had thus heard, most of them repeatedly, the mystery of the Gospel, and many of them the arguments which had been held; for the villagers throughout the Zillah are continually coming up to the Courts of Krishnaghur, or for other business.

2. In the next place, the secret preparatory work in the minds of the Kurta-Bhojas joined in upon, and aided, this bold preaching of the sacrifice of Christ, just as the devout and honourable women in the Acts of the Apostles—Lydia, for example, whose heart the Lord opened; as I trust He has, and will, many of these. Their history I cannot fully develope: time will reveal the whole. So far as I can learn, (1) their name means, Worshippers of the Creator. (2) They spring from both Hindoos and Mahomedans. (3) They have been, like the innumerable other subdivisions in Hindoostan, very much unknown, and not often disturbed by their neighbours; for Paganism tolerates all religions but the true. (4) They have a tradition that they came from the West; and indeed some of the older men are Rajpoots, manifestly, by descent. The Bengalee is quite a different person. (5) Many among them date their rise from one Baboo Doolâl, a Gwalior—Milkman Caste—in Ghoorpara near Hooghly, forty or fifty years since. Probably many eminent leaders have appeared in different places. (6) Their chief peculiarities are, (a) They reject all idolatry. (b) They acknowledge neither Korân nor Vedas. (c) They worship one God, the Creator of all things. (d) They perform their devotions in the night; when they eat and drink together, and sing hymns or poems of a religious character. This reminds me of Pliny's language respecting the first Christians. (e) They conform in the day to the Hindooism or Islamism of their families, i. e. they live as Hindoos or Mussulmans from cowardice, and not having hold of enough truth. (f) They profess to seek, by devotion, that God would give them eyes to obtain a sight of Himself, and, through that sight, salvation. (g) They have an expectation that God would become incarnate and visible to their bodily eyes. (h) They have some idea of a Trinity of Persons in the One God, whom they call, [1] Kurta, "Creator;" [2] Thakoo, "Son;" [3] Mohaprabroh, "Great Spirit." The Hindoo Mythology, as is known, is full of incarnations, and traces of a Trinity. (7) The Hindoo Kurta-Bhojas were under the guidance of Gooroos, who are themselves of the Kurta-Bhoja Sect, and who used magical incantations, and committed to each disciple a secret word, or muntra, which, if never disclosed, would lead to salvation. (8) There are five classes among them, of a civil nature; only four of which I could, however, learn: [1] "Bhaoul," which is thought to be a proper name of some leader: [2] "Darbish," or "Dervish," which would appear to be of Persian origin: [3] "Kurta-Bhoja," which I suppose must be a common name of the entire body; [4] "Sahib Dhunney," or "Master of Riches," probably secular only, like "Baboo" or "Zemindar." (9) They are supposed to be 100,000 in number, and to be scattered from Hooghly to Benares.

It was to a village of these people that Mr. Deerr addressed himself, in 1835; and, after a year's consideration, received about thirty of them, in 1836, to Baptism, as I stated in my former Letter to your Lordship. I confess this preparatory work, which was going on so long, gives me a considerable confidence that the whole is, in substance, of God. In fact, if these seven Kurta-Bhoja Gooroos, or two or three of them, turn out sincere believers, it is impossible to say how rapidly the tidings of salvation may extend. The word of the Lord may again run and be glorified, as among the Thessalonians of old, in the length and breadth of India.

3. I assign further, as a preparatory cause, the instructions of early Missionaries at Serampore, Chinsurah, Calcutta, who were accustomed forty years since to travel through the Zillah and preach the Gospel. One convert heard the Word of the Kingdom at Calcutta twenty years ago. One Gooroo had been in the Burdwan School: others are found to have received ideas of the Gospel through their family, &c.

4. The silent distribution of copies of the Holy Scriptures and Religious Tracts have had their share in this blessed machinery; to what extent I do not know; probably not to a wide extent, as the Zillah is entirely destitute of education.

5. The chastening hand, again, of the Almighty, in the fearful inundation of 1838, aroused multitudes; whilst the lovely characteristics of Christian Charity, beaming forth, as I mentioned in my former Letter, would tend to win the alarmed sufferers, and draw them by the cords of love and the bands of men.

6. The power and fame of the British Government, with an indefinite idea of bettering their condition, would have its weight with almost all. While this motive was prevalent, it would produce, of course, only nominal converts; but some influence of it, I apprehend, has been unavoidable. For fifty years after the battle of Plassey, and during the gradual aggrandizement of the British Power, the Natives thought we had no Religion; and indeed the weight of Government was thrown into the scale of Heathenism and Mahomedanism. A Native knew that he should lose its favour, if it were suspected that he had embraced Christianity. For the last thirty years, things have gradually altered. The connexion with Idolatry has been dissolving. The sentiments and feelings of the Government and of the Services, defective as they now are, have been incomparably improved. The Thirty Churches erecting or erected over India, are in the face of the sun. The new Cathedral at Calcutta is known in every bazaar. As therefore, at the first promulgation of the Gospel, the Governing Powers were adverse to the new and despised Religion, and this went to depress the doubting inquirer; so I conceive it to be inevitable that the Christian character of Britons now must have encouraged these numerous converts. Nor is this wrong. Kings the nursing fathers, and Queens the nursing mothers, of the Church, is an object of prophetic expectation. The general and progressive weakness, also, of the native superstitions—their decrepitude—the contempt into which they have gradually fallen—the props of secular authority knocked away from under them—science, literature, commerce, jurisprudence, sapping insensibly their very foundation—must have, doubtless, facilitated the transition to the profession of Christianity on the other hand.

Indeed, wherefore should we not say, that all the subordinate means which I have enumerated, and many others, have contributed, in "the never-failing providence of God, which governs all things in heaven and earth," to the grand result? And why should we not trace with gratitude some of the intricacies and combinations of a thousand wheels within wheels, in the stately march and triumph of Christ? Were there not such sub-arrangements in the conversion of our own Druidical and Saxon Ancestors in the second and sixth centuries? Were the first converts of Augustine and his followers uninfluenced by the royal example? Were the defects of that first age of Christians a barrier to a better class in the succeeding periods? Or, was the Blessed Reformation less important in its result, because of the mixture of motives in the age and race which first witnessed that glorious revolution in matters of Religion?

To God alone, in His grace, we nevertheless ascribe all the glory of hearts renewed, sins pardoned, souls saved, in all those European Movements of old, as in these Oriental now. We guard sedulously, indeed, against proposing secular motives, or being satisfied with Nominal Christianity. We aim at the purest and most spiritual and consistent Christian doctrine, experience, and practice. But we thank God for the least real success; and the least preparatory steps for bringing men under the means of grace, and extracting them from the mire and pitfall of nature's darkness and pollution.

Prospects and Dangers of the Mission.

III. But I am intrenching, I perceive, on my next topic—The Prospects and chief Dangers of the Mission.

PROSPECTS.—With regard to the prospects, I have learned, now that I am in my eighth year of residence in India, to be much less sanguine than I was; and yet I must not, and will not, distrust the grace and power of God. The prospects are, indeed, unbounded. The fields are white for the harvest. The immense Empire committed to the greatest of the Protestant Nations, almost by miracle, speaks for itself. Take things at the very lowest, and what a scene still opens before the view from this Krishnaghur Mission! (1) There are 4000 souls broken off from the chain of Caste, Idolatry, Superstition, Vice: this is a fact of the last moment. (2) These Inquirers are under direct Christian institution and instruction: all is instinct with the fullest and clearest principles of the Gospel: they are not left to their old incipient notions: they are not taught Kurta-Bhojaism, nor any other ism: they are training in the School of God manifest in the flesh. (3) So many of these Catechumens have appeared to manifest a change of heart and the dawning of grace, that 1000 or 1100 have been baptized: I say "appeared," for I am taking things at the lowest. (4) After two years, about one-fifth have been judged fit candidates for Confirmation; or, taking the adults only, one-third perhaps. These are still detained, and kept back from the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, for more matured instructions and firmer habits of piety. (5) New accessions are made of Inquirers: among the rest, seven Gooroos, who have been the guides, and are nominally the guides, of thousands —four, five, six, seven, eight, or nine thousand—take the lowest, 4000 disciples. (6) There is no retreat open to Hindooism or Mahomedanism to any of them—they may be apostates—they may be outcasts —they can never be Hindoos, nor Mussulmans, again. (7) They profess boldly the Name of Christ at their homes, in their villages, and in their circle; and bear the bitter hatred and reproaches of their neighbours, and the petty injuries of the Zemindars. (8) Five European Missionaries are in the field of labour—two, accomplished Bengalee Scholars of experience, standing, and exalted piety—the rest, beginning to become such. (9) All classes of persons bear testimony to the general good conduct of these Inquirers and Converts, so far as they can at present judge—for I still stand on the lowest ground—Judges, Magistrates, Missionaries—strangers who visit them—the Archdeacon, the Bishop's Domestic Chaplain, the Bishop. (10) Every accusation or complaint is examined and sifted to the bottom, with the greatest calmness and perseverance: nothing is passed over. (11) The money lent to the Christians for purchasing seed-corn last spring, to prevent their borrowing funds at 100 per cent. from the native moneylenders, is now being cheerfully repaid. (12) The sect from which most of the converts sprang, ramifies over a large tract, and is allied by the strongest ties together: and as some of their Gooroos have embraced the Gospel already, many seem not unlikely to listen to the same joyful sound. (13) The above-named temporal advantages of seed-corn loans may have swayed many, and influenced more; but those who best know the Hindoos and Mahomedans declare that such transient and uncertain benefits would never move a single Idolater or Mussulman from his faith. The lacs upon lacs given in charity two years since, to the perishing, famine-stricken population of Western India, and very much through the hands of Missionaries—Mr. Moore, for instance, of our own Society, whose exertions at Agra have been publicly acknowledged by the Governor-General and the Hon. Court of Directors—produced no conversions. The constant flow of the Charitable District Societies at Calcutta, Cawnpore, Kurnaul, &c., produces no conversions. False religion sinks far too deeply into the soil for such feeble means to eradicate it.

DANGERS.—The Prospects, then, of the Mission are most cheering, as I cannot but think. But the dangers are unquestionably imminent:—

1. From the dawnings of spiritual life and feeling in the converts being so weak. We thank God for this dawn; but there is at present no strong, impressive, mighty movement of grace; as when the concourse under the sermon of St. Peter were pricked in their hearts, and said unto the Apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?—or as when the Philippian Jailer cried out, Sirs, what must I do to be saved?

2. The Inquirers and Converts are an uneducated class: few can, like the Bereans, search the Scriptures daily, whether those things were so. They are feeble in religious feeling; and dependent on their instructors, like babes.

3. And this brings me to the principal danger—the long period, comparatively, which must elapse before the frame-work of so extended and extending a Mission can be set up—before the three new Brethren can take their full share of labour—before Catechists can be trained—before Chapels can be built, and School-houses prepared, and Schoolmasters provided. Your other Indian Missions are in readiness—the Mission Houses, Compounds, Schools, Chapels, Farms, Native Villages of Christians: the rough work is got through. At Krishnaghur, all is new and unfurnished. Mr. Deerr was absolutely alone till a few months since; and there are now seventy and more villages to watch over, with only himself and Mr. Alexander in a state to labour among them. Nine-tenths of the work stands still of necessity; and the danger to souls is correspondent, with so subtle an adversary as Satan, and in such a fallen world as this.

4. The character of the Native Catechists and Readers augments the peril; because the mischief, if there be mischief, —and there is—is hidden under-ground, in the way of secret bad example, secret extortion, secret dishonesty, secret tricks, secret impurity of conduct, secret correspondence with Heathen Zemindars and Oppressors. It is impossible for your Lordship and the Society to understand me in the way which I could wish on this subject. My Tanjore Charge, in 1835, opens many of the methods which I then was informed the Native Catechists too often resorted to. There are twenty in the Krishnaghur Mission, and not one can be trusted out of sight—not one—good as they say some of them are. The fickleness of the native character is unaccountable—its incapacity of withstanding the threefold temptation of money, pride and conceit of station, and abuse of authority. Of course, they cannot but be raised somewhat, by their talents, acquisitions, station, pay, &c., above the flocks whom they instruct. Pride rushes in like a flood—self-indulgence—affectation of European Manners: all India leans toward British habits—indolence—fine houses, servants, palanquin-travelling. Thus they contract debts; and dishonesty, treachery, apostacy of heart, inconsistency, follow. It is, I assure your Lordship, a perfect mystery to me. But such is the fact: and being such, how indispensable is that order of means, which we know God is pleased to bless, and for which He has instituted His Church and her threefold rank of Ministers, and her Sacraments, and her pastoral functions. It is the want of these last, which, as respects the Catechists, renders them too often worse than useless: constant superintendence, the constant presence of the European Missionary, is absolutely required. A Native Ministry will doubtless arise, just as in the Apostolic Churches, and in those of subsequent ages. But prostrate, effeminate India will be long ere her Converts can work alone. Bishop's College, the Calcutta Head Seminary, Vepery, the Bombay Seminary, and others, are of unspeakable importance, and will ultimately, under God's blessing, fully succeed; but the present moment is everywhere full of difficulty, disappointment, danger; and Krishnaghur forms no exception to the remark. Every thing shall be done, that can be done, to check the rising mischief. A Native Ministry is one of my grand objects. But the first years must pass in probation: the first series of youth be managed as well as we can: the second, or third, or fourth, must be waited for, and European Agency must fill the long interval.

5. There is, however, an attendant danger in the very European Missionary, Archdeacon, Bishop, Chaplain, Visitor, going among these flocks;—the relative distance in civil society is so immense; and the self-importance swelling in the breast of the Native so insidious. The taking of liberties, the presuming on help, the indulging in indolence, are symptoms of this, already showing themselves.

6. The divisions among Missionaries and different bodies of Christians I need scarcely notice as a special danger: though it will be augmented, as so many as five Brethren are labouring in one Station, and as Missionaries of other Societies, not of our Church, are at the neighbouring Stations. The inhabitants of some of our villages, taking umbrage at supposed neglect or ill-treatment, have already marched thirty or forty miles, to Berhampore, as I before intimated, in order to obtain help: and other similar evils may be expected, as things go on. All your sects and novelties at home are re-produced in the unsettled society of India; and a sore probation they are to the faithful Ministers and their flocks. But here, the Ecclesiastical Polity, Prayers and Services, of our fixed Protestant Apostolical Church shine out in their full excellency. I have always thought, from the time I first could estimate the fickleness of the native character, and the unsettled religious opinions of our European residents—unsettled almost to confusion—that the Liturgy, Articles, and platform of Spiritual Government of our Church, as established by Cranmer, and understood by Nowell and Hooker and her other more distinguished Divines, would be the glory of India, as she has been of Britain. Nor shall any thing be wanting on my part, in submitting to the Authorities at home such modifications of our Canons and Regulations as may appear requisite—slight as, in truth, they will be.

7. I ought, lastly, to mention, as a source of danger, the state of society in the lower sub-divisions of our population, and their relations to the Zemindars, Darogas, and generally the Land-owners and Police-officers interposed between themselves and their European Governors. The British Jurisprudence has not yet penetrated deeply below the surface. All is righteous so far as their power extends. Their Courts are open to all. The revenue is fixed and known. Taxes, there are none. Crime is visited with due punishment. But nineteen-twentieths of the agricultural population dare not complain of the incessant extortions, false accusations, and petty cruelties of the large land-owners and the tribe of native policemen. The possession of a rupee by a Ryot is the prelude of some trick to obtain it. No rents, on the other hand, are paid, but at the last extremity. The native money-lenders at 150 per cent., while the Government Securities are at five, first entangle, and then grind the faces of the poor. What is the Christian Ryot to do? How is he to obey the precepts of Christianity, as exemplified by the conduct of St. Paul when unjustly accused and imprisoned? The danger is inconceivably great.—But I must apologize to your Lordship for these details.

The Bishop thus concludes his deeply interesting communication:—

And now I commend India, and this most affecting scene of opening blessedness at Krishnaghur, to your Lordship's and the Society's prayers. Let us honour God in this great emergency, and He will honour us. We stand on the margin of grand operations of Divine Grace. India is moving, from Cape Comorin to the Himalayas, and from the Caspian to the Irrawady. Some knowledge of the Gospel is more widely diffused than we imagine. An acute observer, in the service of the Nizam of Moorshedabad, observed lately to the Governor General's Political Agent,—"I see what you are about. All India will be Christian;—every thing tends that way; and though, as an Hindoo, I cannot assent to Christianity, yet if you can establish your Christian morality among us, I allow it will be a great blessing." Yes, and we will establish that mystery of God manifest in the flesh, on which only can the superstructure of morals be built, and on which, by the grace of the Holy Ghost, it will assuredly be raised.

APPENDIX III.

(See Page 81.)

TO THE HONOURABLE THE COMMONS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, IN PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED:—

[OR, TO THE HOUSE OF LORDS:]

THE HUMBLE PETITION OF

SHOWETH—

THAT your Petitioners, relying on the explicit assurances given to Parliament by Her Majesty's Ministers, in the year 1838, that the connexion of the East-India Company with the Superstitious and Idolatrous Systems of the Natives of India should be forthwith discontinued, abstained from promoting Petitions to your Honourable House on the subject at that time.

That your Petitioners have learned, with extreme concern, that while some steps have been taken, in conformity with those assurances, in some parts of India, in other parts, and particularly in the Presidency of Madras, none have yet been adopted, to redeem the pledge given to Parliament in 1838.

That at the Presidency of Madras the attendance of Christian Troops on the Hindoo and Mahomedan Religious Ceremonies is still enforced, not only to the discredit of the Government and the injury of conscientious individuals, but also to the hindrance of the labours of Christian Missionaries by the countenance thus given to Idolatry.

That at that Presidency generally, and at the other Presidencies partially, the connexion of the Company with the "unhappy and debasing superstitions of the Natives," as the Court of Directors have justly characterized the native religious systems, continues to prevail, under the following heads:—

1. In deriving a revenue from taxes levied upon Pilgrims resorting to certain Temples, and from the offerings of Devotees at others.

2. By administering the endowments for the support of the Native Religious Institutions—the appointment of the establishments—the maintenance of the buildings—the application of the public money toward the expense of heathen ceremonies—and for offerings to the heathen gods.

3. In tokens of honour—as the firing of salutes, and the attendance of the British Christian troops and public servants—at Hindoo and Mahomedan festivals and superstitious ceremonies.

That your Petitioners have learned, with strong satisfaction, that, so far as progress has been made in relinquishing the Company's connexion with the idolatrous customs and rites of the Natives, none of the evil consequences apprehended by some persons have been experienced.

That your Petitioners entirely disclaim all intention of compulsory interference with the religion of the Natives: they simply require that practices declared, seven years ago, by the Honourable Court of Directors themselves, to be incompatible with the character and duties of a Christian Nation, shall cease.

Your Petitioners therefore respectfully, but most strenuously, urge your Honourable House to adopt measures, that clear and unqualified orders may be given for the immediate and complete dissolution of the Company's connexion with the Religious Rites and Establishments of the Natives; and that thus a practice may at length be terminated, which is in the highest degree discreditable to a Christian Government, and which operates as a serious obstacle to the success of the labours of Christian Missionaries, in imparting the blessings of Christianity and of social improvement to the vast population which are our fellow-subjects in India.

And your Petitioners will ever pray, &c.

(See Page 84.)

LETTER FROM THE BISHOP OF AUSTRALIA TO THE SECRETARY.

Sydney, New South-Wales,
March 28, 1839.

REV. SIR,

ALTHOUGH several weeks have elapsed since my return from my late voyage, in the course of which I fulfilled my long-cherished intention of visiting the Missionary Settlements in New Zealand, the constant occupation which I have since found in discharging the arrears which had accumulated during my absence, and the necessity of keeping up a correspondence with all parts of the Diocese, have hitherto prevented my forwarding that Report of my proceedings which, I am persuaded, the Society will be anxious to receive.

I employ my first interval of comparative leisure in acquainting you, for the Society's information, that I embarked on Wednesday, December 12, 1838, on board H. M. S. "Pelorus," commanded by Capt. Francis Harding; who, at my request, had obligingly consented to afford me a passage to the various points which I was desirous of visiting. On the following day we left this harbour; and on the morning of Friday, 21st December, anchored in the Bay of Islands, having experienced no incident worthy of observation during the passage. The Rev. O. Hadfield—whom, on the recommendation of the Society, I had, at my late Ordination, admitted to Deacon's Orders—accompanied me; and I was gratified by observing the perceptible benefit which his health had already derived from change of climate. The Rev. R. Maunsell, whose station is at Manukau, to the southward, happened at this time to be at the Bay of Islands, on account of the state of Mrs. Maunsell's health; and was so kind as to receive me on my landing, the day following, at the house of the Resident, James Busby, Esq. Several other members of the Mission were also present on the occasion; and I received from all a friendly reception and cordial welcome, which afforded me great encouragement. The Rev. Henry Williams, I found, was absent; having undertaken a voyage to the neighbourhood of East Cape, in the hope of composing some serious differences which had arisen among the tribes there, and of preventing their proceeding to extremities, and thereby alarming or endangering the residents attached to the Missionary Stations in the neighbourhood of those contests. The Rev. W. Williams came over from Waimate, as soon as the intelligence of our arrival reached him.

On Sunday the 23d, the Captain of the "Pelorus" sent his boat to convey me to the Chapel at Paihía. It is merely a cottage of unpretending appearance; but not incommodiously fitted up. The very appearance of a place of Christian Worship on those shores was marvellous in my eyes, and excited feelings and thoughts of peculiar and earnest interest. There was a degree of repose and quietness in the scene, which seemed to betoken that this was indeed the Sabbath Day: and I am not ashamed of acknowledging myself to be so much under the influence of external objects, as to have felt a calm shed over my mind by the sight of the green turf, and the scent of the sweetbriar hedges which surround this humble temple: and I took part in the Service, and preached there, much supported by hopes, which I pray to a God of infinite mercy may be realised, on behalf of the hitherto ignorant and barbarous Natives of this land, many of whom attended the Service. The numbers, however, both of Natives and Europeans, present on this occasion, were considerably under the usual average, as I understood; so many being prevented attending as usual by the general prevalence of a disease termed Influenza; which, when we quitted Port Jackson, was raging in most parts of New South-Wales, and in an equal degree throughout the island of Van Diemen's Land. Its effect upon the constitution of the Natives in New Zealand appears to exceed in virulence even that to which the Europeans are exposed; although in the families of the Missionaries, and of the English Settlers in general, very great distress and suffering are occasioned by this very prevalent disorder. In every house there were some disabled; and in some families, every individual was attacked, so as to put a stop to every ordinary domestic proceeding. As it affects the Natives, I shall have further observations to offer upon the subject of this disease, before I conclude this Letter.

It will be unnecessary to trouble the Society with a detail of my personal proceedings, further than by stating, that during my stay in the Bay of Islands I made excursions to visit the Settlements at Kerikeri and Waimate; and also to the Kauakaua, where there is a large assemblage of Converted Natives. I officiated again at Paihía on Christmas Day; which completed the 24th year of the establishment of the Mission; my venerated friend Mr. Marsden having landed on the 24th December 1814, and preached his first sermon, on the beach, on the day following—the festival of the Nativity. Mr. King, who was then present, is still alive, and in the enjoyment of good health; and recalled that impressive scene with animated recollection. On Sundays 30th December and 6th January, I also took part in the Services of the Missionary Chapel; and on the last of these days, being the day of the Epiphany, and therefore a most appropriate occasion, I, in the same place, conferred Priest's Orders on Mr. Hadfield. * * * * In the Ordination Service I was assisted by the Rev. Henry Williams, who had arrived at home after an absence of two months, the Rev. W. Williams, and the Rev. R. Maunsell. The feelings excited in the minds of all present, on this solemn occasion, were most gratifying; and to themselves, I trust, would afford permanent benefit. I was thankful to have such an opportunity given of showing them the nature of our Orders, and our Apostolical mode of conveying the Ministerial Office.

Another duty, scarcely less edifying, devolved on me, in administering the Ordinance of Confirmation to about twenty young persons of European parentage, and to double that number of adult New Zealanders, Converts of the Missionaries. In the case of the former class, there could be no doubt of their being suitably prepared, and grounded in the rudiments of Religious Knowledge, as required by our Rubrics; consisting, as they did principally, of children of the Missionaries themselves, or of those who were living in habits of close intimacy and intercourse with them. The appearance of these young persons was pleasing, and interesting; their demeanour unassuming; becomingly serious, without any mixture of affectation; and their almost total unacquaintance with the world giving them a simplicity of manner which forcibly attracts esteem. It was also gratifying to observe the readiness of the parents to present their children for the reception of this becoming Ordinance; proving, that they had not, through long disuse, lost their feeling of the advantage which even the most spiritually-minded may derive from the faithful and pious use of external Services. It was not possible for me to decide, with equal certainty or confidence, upon the actual fitness, in point of preparation, of the native candidates; but they were carefully and perseveringly examined by the Clergymen, as to their degree of acquaintance with the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Commandments: they were living in all apparent godliness and honesty, under the constant observation, it may be said, of the entire Mission; and no evil heart of unbelief had betrayed itself among them: and they drew near in a very earnest and humble spirit, desiring to partake of this rite as a means of grace; the nature of it having been previously explained to them in the fullest terms. I therefore—with, I trust, not a misplaced confidence—laid my hands on them, receiving from them the personal ratification of the promises made in their baptism; and I regard the day, on which this full admission of them into the fold of Christ took place, as marking a very memorable era, both in my own life, and in the annals of the New-Zealand Church. God grant that they may indeed daily increase in His Holy Spirit more and more, until they come to His everlasting kingdom! The Service of Confirmation was translated into the New-Zealand Language, and a sufficient number of copies printed at the Mission Press, preparatory to the day of that ceremonial. The same was done with regard to the Form for Consecrating a Church-yard; and I employed it in the consecration of the burial-grounds, both at Paihía and Kororarika. I likewise appointed the Rev. Messrs. Williams to act as my Surrogates, for granting marriage-licenses; the want of which is very inconveniently felt, and affords encouragement to the irregular celebration of marriage-rites, which it is desirable not to have introduced.

After departing from the Bay of Islands, we proceeded to the River Thames; where I found Mr. Fairburn established as a Missionary, and, with the aid of his wife and daughter, imparting instruction to a large number of Natives, both male and female. At the particular desire of Mr. Fairburn, I confirmed his children. I also baptized an infant born of New-Zealand parents, who had been given by its mother, before her death, to the charge of Mrs. Fairburn; and a middle-aged native woman, then lying in a state of great exhaustion and apparent danger on a sick bed: she had long known the way of Salvation, and had much desired the privilege of Baptism, which she now received with a meek and quiet spirit. The hut in which this took place was pretty full of Natives, who appeared to look with much interest on what was being done: they were very quiet, and respectful. I read the Baptismal Service in their own tongue; with sufficient correctness, I trust, to make myself intelligible among them;—and if so, God may graciously permit their remembrance of that occurrence to turn hereafter to a profitable account in His service. It was my earnest wish to have visited Tauranga, where the Rev. A. N. Brown is stationed; as well as Manukau, Waikato, and other Stations to the Southward; including the East Cape, where it is proposed, on the arrival of the Rev. R. Taylor from Sydney, to form a new Establishment; but Captain Harding felt, that, from the nature of the service he was upon, he could not with propriety prolong his absence from Sydney to the extent that would be necessary to accomplish all this; and therefore on the 11th of January we sailed from the Thames for Norfolk Island, which also I proposed to visit.

Having rendered this short account of the principal incidents during my residence in New Zealand, I shall now offer to the notice of the Society those conclusions, with regard to the present state and future prospects of their Mission, which I was enabled to form, through the exercise of my judgment upon all which presented itself to my observation. In thus proceeding, I shall use great plainness of speech.—It is in my power, I think, effectually to contradict the assertions of the adversary and the scoffer, who have sometimes gone the length of affirming that the attempt to Christianize the people of this nation has been a failure,—that nothing has been done. On the other hand, I shall not suffer my admiration of that which has really been effected, to hurry me into an unqualified approval of every thing connected with the establishment of the Mission, or the operations of the Missionaries; nor to deter me from pointing out any particulars in which I think there is room for improvement.

First, with regard to the Missionaries of the Society, I must offer a very sincere and willing testimony of their maintaining a conversation such as becomes the Gospel of Christ, and the relation in which they stand to it, as the professed guides and instructors of those who are, by their agency, to be retrieved from the service of sin. Their habits of life are devotional: they are not puffed up with self-estimation; but appeared, to me, willing to learn, as well as apt to teach: and among themselves, they appear to be drawn together by a spirit of harmony, which is, I hope, the sincere effusion of their hearts; prompted by that spirit, of which love, gentleness, and goodness, are among the most delightful fruits. It is upon the continuance of this spirit among themselves that I raise my principal expectations of their continued success among the Natives. Without unanimity, there can be no successful combination of their exertions; nor is any blessing upon them to be hoped for, such as has hitherto visibly attended them, and in a very ample measure.

At every Station which I personally visited, the Converts were so numerous, as to bear a very visible and considerable proportion to the entire population; and I had sufficient testimony to convince me that the same state of things prevailed at other places, which it was not in my power to reach. As the result of my inspection, I should state, that in most of the Native Villages, called Pas, in which the Missionaries have a footing, there is a Building, containing one room, superior in fabric and dimensions to the native residences; which appears to be set apart as their place for assembling for religious worship, or to read the Scriptures, or to receive the exhortations of the Missionaries. In these buildings generally, but sometimes in the open air, the Christian Classes were assembled before me. The grey-haired man and the aged woman took their places, to read and to undergo examination, among their descendants of the second and third generations. The Chief and the Slave stood side by side, with the same Holy Volume in their hands; and exerted their endeavours each to surpass the other, in returning proper answers to the questions put to them concerning what they had been reading. These assemblages I encouraged, on all occasions; not only from the pleasure which the exhibition itself afforded, but because I was thus enabled, in the most certain and satisfactory way, to probe the extent of their attainments and improvements. The experience thus acquired, has induced me to adopt the habit of applying the term "Converts" to those alone—for many such I found there were—who, in the apparent sincerity of their convictions, and in the sufficiency of their information, compared with their opportunities of acquiring it, may be considered Christians indeed. They have, as the Society is probably informed, the whole, I believe, of the Liturgy in their own language; accompanied, for several years past, with portions of the New Testament.

But a very great work has been accomplished, in now providing them with a Translation of the whole Volume; copies of which are distributed to such as are likely to employ them well, as rapidly as, with the limited means in their possession, the Missionaries are able to have them bound. This Translation will ever remain a monument of laborious and well-directed piety. My acquaintance with the language was not sufficient to enable me critically to judge of its fidelity to the original; but, in my conversations with the Rev. W. Williams, the principal agent in this great work, I availed myself of every opportunity to ascertain the exact literal rendering of any passages which chanced to be the subjects of our immediate attention: and upon inquiring, which I did very closely, into his reasons for adopting particular words or phrases to express the sense of the original, I was gratified to find that he was invariably prepared with a reason; and my impression is, that where there were conflicting reasons, each carrying weight, he had generally given the preference to that which deserved it.

In speaking of the character of the Converted Natives, I express most unequivocally my persuasion, that it has been improved, in comparison with the original disposition, by their acquaintance with the truths of the Gospel. Their haughty self-will, their rapacity, furiousness, and sanguinary inclination, have been softened—I may even say, eradicated; and their superstitious opinions have given place, in many instances, to a correct apprehension of the spiritual tendencies of the Gospel.

Their chief remaining vices appeared, to me, to be indolence, duplicity, and covetousness. The source of all these may probably be found in the ability of the Missionaries and other Europeans to supply their limited wants, in return for a very moderate amount of labour; and it is a natural, perhaps necessary, consequence, that they should anxiously desire the possession of articles so strange, and at the same time so valuable to them, as the Europeans have to offer; as well as, that, through their prevailing anxiety to obtain those much-coveted conveniences, they should adopt a fawning and submissive air toward those who have the means of bestowing them. They retain too much—considering what intercourse they have enjoyed with the English—of their native lounging and dirty habits. I do not think that we met with a single instance, during our stay, of one man who had done a fair day's work, according to an Englishman's reckoning; but they sit about from morning till night—I am speaking of the neighbourhood of the Bay of Islands—and occupy themselves, most perseveringly, in doing nothing. In the Thames, I thought, or hoped, that I saw symptoms of a more industrious disposition. I did not scruple to inform the Missionaries of my opinion, that they were to blame in suffering their followers to continue this degrading and mischievous course. Their disposition to allow slovenliness and neglect to prevail, was manifested even in some of the Places of Worship, and in their Native Villages, which were slovenly, and even filthy, in a degree which excited my regret and displeasure. The Missionaries allege, that they cannot insist upon a reform of these admitted blemishes, without a risk of disgusting and alienating the Natives, who delight in dirt and disorder. But it appears to me, that this is a short-sighted policy; more likely, than not, to confirm the nation in habits of the kind here alluded to; and which must be broken off, before the New Zealanders can ever form a community worthy to be ranked among civilized Christian Nations. They can labour well, it is evident, if properly trained by the influence of superior understandings, and encouraged by the personal example of those to whom they look almost as Beings of a superior race. They are of a joyous, yet reflective turn; pleased to be instructed; humble in listening to exhortation; very quick and ingenious in tracing the analogies of Religion by comparing spiritual things with spiritual; amenable, apparently, to the use of those outward forms which are necessary to conduct all things with decency and order; yet sensible, so far as I could judge, that these did not form the substance of Religion, but that it was something altogether different. Some of them, I think, are deeply and unfeignedly devout. Such I noticed, especially, at the Kauakaua and Maraetai: though I ought by no means to deny the occurrence of proportionate instances at the other Stations.

The great problem at present, I think, is, how they may be preserved, to form a Christian Nation; for such, if they be preserved, they assuredly should become. But, in mournful sincerity of heart, I express my own opinion, that their numbers have diminished in a fearful ratio since our first connexion with them; and that unless preventive measures can be suggested, the race is wearing out, and will, at no very remote period, altogether disappear. The Missionaries refer to instances throughout the country, where the numbers of Natives are less by one-third, or even one-half, than they were on the first establishment of Europeans being formed.

It presented itself to me as a most remarkable circumstance, that, wherever we went, the children were very few; very few, indeed, compared with the number of adults; and compared also with the proportion of children among the Missionaries themselves, who have generally large families. To what causes this disparity could be attributed, I was diligent in endeavouring to ascertain; but came away without receiving satisfaction. The effect of wars is spoken of, as accounting for the diminution of the population. But any one, who reflects for a moment, must be sensible that the wars of the present generation are mere bloodless skirmishes, compared with the combats of their forefathers. The introduction of fire-arms has tended much to abate the effusion of blood. Formerly, the hostile bands marched front to front, and with their native weapons almost every man slew or wounded his opponent; so that the slaughter was quite tremendous. But now they are, generally speaking, content with firing from a distance, without doing one another much harm. I was assured, indeed, by an eye-witness of some of the latest conflicts in the Bay of Islands, that he had known many thousand shots to be fired, and, as the result of all this, no more than five or six on each side to be wounded. It seems, indeed, very clear, that the population was greatest when wars were most sanguinary; and is declining most rapidly where wars are nearly extinct. The practice of infanticide I hope, and believe, does not prevail among any who are Christians by profession; but in their native state, there can be no doubt that it does prevail. I think that the very infant which I baptized had been saved from death by its mother's hands, through the interposition of Mrs. Fairburn, giving clothing for the child; the want of which would have led to the desperate determination of destroying it as soon as born. If it were not this very infant, yet I am quite sure that an instance of that nature was related to me, and mentioned as having many parallels. Cannibalism, among those who associate much with Europeans, and especially among those under instruction by the Missionaries, may be considered as extinct. I believe that the people whom I chiefly saw had no more disposition to devour one another, or any one else, than the same number of our own countrymen would have felt. How, therefore, to account for the perceptible and unceasing diminution of their numbers, I am utterly at a loss. The epidemic which was raging while I was there, and which had visited them in former years, appeared, undoubtedly, to lay very serious hold upon their constitutions; rapidly prostrating their strength, and, I have no doubt, laying the foundation of other fatal disorders. So deeply was I impressed with the persuasion that deficiency of proper nourishment formed one very sensible cause of their falling victims to this insidious disorder, that I solicited Captain Harding to leave with the Missionaries such stores of flour, sugar, and rice, as could be spared from his ship, engaging to replace the same on our return to Port Jackson; and I left a small supply of money for the purchase of similar articles, and of animal food, for the use of the sick and convalescent. These measures were adopted in conformity with the judgment of Mr. Ford, the surgeon attached to the Mission, and of the surgeon of the Pelorus, T. H. Nation, Esq.; who most obligingly, at my request, visited and prescribed for the sick, and furnished a supply of medicines for the most urgent cases. On my return hither, I preached a Sermon in St. James's Church, Sydney, on behalf of the suffering people whom I had visited; and the same thing was done at St. Philip's Church, by the Rev. W. Cowper. The amount of the Collections was sufficient to cover the entire expenses which had been incurred by me; and to enable us to despatch a further small supply of medicines and necessary comforts, which I earnestly hope will fulfil the benevolent purpose of those who charitably furnished the means of supplying them. My opinion is, in a few words, that the general state of health among the Natives is not satisfactory; that there is some cause, not very obvious, by which their constitutions are undermined; that the investigation of that cause has not been pursued with due energy, or attention to system; and that the wants of the Natives, in point of clothing, warmth, and comfort, especially during the winter season, deserve and demand the attention of the Church Missionary Society, and of its charitable supporters, who can feel for the situation of these, their destitute Brethren.

It will probably be expected by the Society, that I should offer some remarks upon the constitution of the Mission, and its adaptation and probable sufficiency to accomplish the great and holy purposes of its establishment. I have already spoken my sentiments as to the general character and deportment of the Missionaries; in which observations, I should wish it to be understood, it is my intention to include the Lay Catechists no less than the Clergy. All appeared to me, so far as I was able to judge, to be animated by a good spirit, and a desire, according to their several abilities, to work the work of God. I am, however, in duty bound to state my persuasion, that the present Missionary Body is inadequate to the successful prosecution of that work and labour of love upon which their cares are bestowed. Indeed they do not occupy, to the uttermost, even their present limits; and these require to be extended day by day, so that the necessity for additional help is becoming constantly more urgent. The Society has been informed that Mr. Hadfield was added to their number while I remained; and since that time the Rev. R. Taylor has proceeded to join the establishment. The services of one of these gentlemen must, however, be absorbed by the charge of educating the sons of Missionaries; and the other will be required to institute a new Missionary Station at the East Cape, where there appears to be a most favourable opening. The Mission, therefore, within its present limits, will continue as inefficiently supplied with Clergymen for Missionary purposes as before; and it is most earnestly to be desired, for the sake of the high and eternal interests which are at stake, that this deficiency should not be suffered to continue. The Natives have now, to a certain extent, been christianized, through the power of the Holy Spirit accompanying the efforts of their Teachers; and have hitherto lived in that simple and confident reliance on the truth and sufficiency of the doctrines taught them, and in that spirit of dutiful reverence for their Teachers, the continuance of which was most earnestly to be desired; as such principles, united with liberty to search the Scriptures, would best have insured to them the enjoyment of the peaceable fruits of righteousness. But it is easy to foresee, that this portion of Christ's flock cannot long continue; if it be even now exempt from the aggressions of that spirit, concerning which, no less truly than of the Gospel, it may be said, that its sound is gone into all lands, and its words unto the ends of the earth. * * If we are to contend successfully, it must be by a prudent use of those means to which God has promised and annexed His blessing, for the propagation of Christian Truth; that is to say, we must not spare the agency of the Word, the Ministry, and the Sacraments; accompanying them with our prayers, that they may be attended by that grace and power, through which alone they can be made effective instruments to build up this people in our most holy Faith, as it was once delivered to the saints.

In my conferences with the Missionaries, I found but one opinion prevailing as to the necessity of an immediate increase of the number of Clergymen. Many Stations are, from necessity, left without a resident Minister; and the occasional visits which may be paid cannot be of that frequency or that duration which are necessary to make them fully profitable. The administration of the Sacraments is neither satisfactory to those who officiate; nor so serviceable, it may be feared, as it ought to be, to those who partake of them; because the parties, being associated only during a very brief interval, are comparatively unknown to each other: and there cannot be that feeling of confidence on the one hand, nor that knowledge of individual character on the other, upon which the benefit of pastoral superintendence principally depends; neither can the services of Lay Catechists effectually supply the void between such Ministerial visits. * * * The Church of England requires to be planted there, in the full integrity of its system; its Ordinances administered by a Clergy duly ordained; and the Clergy themselves subject to regular Ecclesiastical Authority. I beg it may be understood, that I do not make these observations with any reference to the Lay Missionaries now in the employment of the Society; all of whom, so far as I can venture to pronounce a judgment, have proved themselves zealous and faithful men. * * * In considering the means of augmenting the number of Ordained Ministers, some consideration was given by me, in conversation principally with the Rev. Messrs. W. Williams and Maunsell, to the practicability of admitting any of the Catechists to Holy Orders. I confined myself to expressing my conviction of the eligibility of this proceeding, under certain supposed circumstances; but forbore to pledge myself, until I should have an opportunity of consulting the feelings of the Society upon the subject, and of profiting by their knowledge of the characters and attainments of the individuals who might probably be proposed to me as candidates for the sacred office.

I am happy in thinking, that, by my late visit to the Mission, a foundation of regard and confidence has been laid between the members of it and myself, which, through the Divine Blessing, may tend much to facilitate any future proceedings connected with its extension. Upon any subject concerning which the Society may be anxious to consult me, I shall always be prepared to offer the most candid opinion, and to give the best advice in my power. My heart and hope are fixed earnestly upon the success of this holy undertaking; the fruit of which, I trust, will be to spread abroad the knowledge of the Truth, and to bring many souls to eternal salvation, happiness, and glory, through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Praying earnestly that the endeavours of the Society may be blessed to the establishment of His kingdom in the hearts of men,

I remain, &c.

STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY RELATIVE TO THE NEW-ZEALAND MISSION.

ATTENTION having of late been drawn to the state of the NEW-ZEALAND MISSION, and especially to the purchase of Land by the Missionaries and Catechists employed there, the Committee submit to the Members the following information on that and some other subjects.

PURCHASE OF LAND.

In bringing before the Members of the Society the question relative to the purchase of land, it is requisite to divide it into two heads:— 1. THE COURSE PURSUED BY THE COMMITTEE IN REFERENCE TO THE PURCHASE OF LAND IN NEW ZEALAND; and, 2. THAT PURSUED BY THE MISSIONARIES.

1. The Course pursued by the Committee, in reference to the Purchase of Land in New Zealand.

The following statements will explain to what extent, and under what considerations and conditions, any purchase of land by the Missionaries had received the sanction of the Committee.

As the children of the Missionaries grew up, it was natural and right that their parents should feel solicitude as to the future settlement of them in life. The subject was, in consequence, brought by them under the consideration of the Committee; and they, on the 27th of July 1830, adopted the following Resolution, in reference to it:—

"That, under the peculiar circumstances of the New-Zealand Mission, the Committee are of opinion, that purchases of land from the Natives, to a moderate extent, should be authorised, as a provision for their children after they are fifteen years of age: the nature and extent of the purchase to be, in each case, referred to the Committee, for their sanction, after having been considered and approved in a Meeting of Missionaries."

On transmitting the above Resolution, in a Letter of the same date, it was accompanied by the following remarks:—

"You ask what is to be done with your children, after they attain the age of fifteen years? This question is very natural, and very reasonable. The answer to it is contained in the Resolutions inclosed. You will perceive that the Committee have adopted your own suggestions on the subject. It did not escape the notice of the Committee, that the arrangement exposes you to some danger of having your minds unduly drawn to secular concerns. The duty, however, of seeing your children provided for is manifest and paramount; and the mode in which it is intended to enable you to discharge it seems suited to your circumstances, and to involve as little risk, either to the parent or child, as the nature of the case will admit. There is little doubt, we think, that such a body of settlers as your children will, we trust, through the blessing of God, become, will exert a very beneficial influence on the New-Zealanders, and tend in various ways to advance the objects of the Mission. We earnestly pray that you may all be enabled to pursue this, as well as every other undertaking in which you engage, in that spirit of faith, prayer, dependence, and superiority to selfish considerations, which will surely receive blessing from God.

"In making the contemplated purchases of land, it is very desirable that you should act on a well-considered plan, in reference to the future bearing of such purchases on each other and on the Missionary Settlements. They should be sufficiently near the Settlements to be protected by them; and, at the same time, so far removed from them, as neither to inconvenience those Settlements, or be inconvenienced by them. These purchases, also, should be so arranged, as eventually to form commodious villages and communities. You will not, of course, overlook those advantages of water, wood, soil, &c., by means of which these villages may, with the greatest facility and certainty, be made the sources of domestic comfort and productive industry. May the Lord guide your minds, in carrying this important measure into effect; and abundantly bless both you and your children, in the event!"

It will be seen, that, by the Resolution of the Committee, the land to be purchased by the Missionaries for each child, under their sanction, was to be of "moderate extent." How this was interpreted by the Missionaries will appear by the following Resolution, which they recorded, April 9th, 1833:—

> "That it be recommended to the Parent Committee, that an allotment of 200 acres of land be given to each child, on arriving at the age of fifteen."

It thus appears that it was proposed by the Missionaries themselves to fix, by the authority of the Committee, the maximum of land to be acquired by the Missionaries for each child at 200 acres. Some considerations suggested themselves to the Committee, which led them to doubt the expediency of fixing on that quantity as a permanent arrangement. They therefore addressed the following remarks to the Missionaries, in reference to it, under date of July 13, 1835:—

> "The Committee do not deem it eligible to make a grant of a particular quantity of land to a child at fifteen years of age, as proposed in your Minutes of April 9, 1833. At present, 50*l.* may represent the value of 200 acres of land in New Zealand; but it is clear that the value of land will rise in proportion as civilization advances. Hence, the fixing of a land-grant to your children, as proposed in the Minute under consideration, would give a very undue advantage to the children of future Missionaries."

The acquisition of land by Missionaries, for the use of their children, has since remained on this footing. By a general regulation, the Committee grant 50*l.* to the son of a Missionary on completing his fifteenth year, and 40*l.* for the daughter of a Missionary at that age, from which time all claim on the Society in behalf of a Missionary's child ceases. In the case of New-Zealand, agriculture being almost the only pursuit open to the child of a Missionary, the purchase of land to "a moderate extent" was sanctioned by the Resolution of the 27th of July 1830; which Resolution still forms the authorised rule of conduct to the Missionaries.*

The circumstances of the Society's Missionaries are peculiar, and, in certain respects, distinguish their case from that of other Missionaries labouring in New Zealand, as they have themselves pointed out. The distinction lies especially in this. The Missionaries of the Wesleyan Society go to New Zealand only to sojourn there for a limited period, intending ultimately to return, with their families, to their native country. Hence all their views for the education and settlement of their children in life have reference to their father-land. The Society's Missionaries, on the contrary, look forward to terminating their earthly course in New Zealand, and to see their children settling around them in their adopted country. As parents, they not only considered themselves warranted in making prospective arrangements for the welfare of their children in New Zealand, when grown up, but bound to this course by the strongest obligations as men and Christians. Whether or not the Missionaries have, in any respect, fallen into error in the performance of this duty, is open to fair examination.

* In February last the children of the Missionaries amounted to 122. In New South-Wales each of these children would, it is understood, receive a grant of 1200 acres of land.

2. The Course pursued by the Missionaries in the Purchase of Land.

Toward the close of the year 1837, reports reached the Committee, that large purchases of land in New Zealand had been made by the Missionaries. These Reports, if not originating with, had currency given to them by Mr. John Flatt, who had formerly been employed as an Agriculturist in the Mission, and who returned to this country in October 1837. On the publication of Mr. Flatt's statements, a copy of the Pamphlet in which they were contained was sent to the Missionaries, and they were called upon for explanation on the subject. Various communications were received from them, in answer to those inquiries. On considering these communications, December 4, 1838, the Committee adopted the following Resolution:—

"That while the Committee give the Missionaries entire credit for the purity of their motives in the purchases of land which they have made in New Zealand, with a view to provide for their families as they grow up, and are not prepared, on the information now before them, to condemn the purchases so made, they very much regret that the subject was not referred to them for their consideration, previously to the Missionaries entering on such a course of proceeding; and that the nature and extent of the purchase, in each case, were not reported to them for their sanction, as directed by their Resolution of July 27, 1830."

The information before the Committee is still too imperfect to enable them to pronounce an opinion either justifying or condemning the purchases referred to in the foregoing Resolution.

It appears, however, from the statements of the Missionaries, that much of the land held by them has been assigned to them by the Natives, to secure it rom improvident alienation to other White Persons. Such land is still the property of the Natives, and is held by the Missionaries as their trustees. This interposition of the Missionaries appears to the Committee, in the actual state of New Zealand, a judicious proceeding, and calculated materially to benefit the Natives.

Other purchases of land the Missionaries and Catechists have made in behalf of their children. Considering the imperfect nature of the information which has as yet reached them, the Committee feel it their duty to abstain, for the present, from entering into further particulars respecting these purchases. Feeling themselves unable to pronounce an opinion, they call upon their friends and the public to refrain from coming to a conclusion upon a case as yet so imperfectly understood.

Later publications have imputed to the Missionaries that they have defrauded the Natives in their purchases of land, and have paid inadequate prices. With regard to these charges, there has not been time to obtain any answer from the Missionaries.

Knowing, however, the jealousy which exists—and not improperly exists—of Missionaries using their influence to acquire property from the people among whom they labour, and the difficulty of inducing the world to form a calm and impartial judgment of any proceeding on their part tending to their own secular advantage, the Committee have adopted the following Resolutions:—

I. "That, with respect to the purchase of land by Missionaries, with the funds of the Society, the Resolution of the 27th July 1830, explained by the Letter of the 13th July 1835, be adhered to, as defining the limits and purposes to which all such purchases are to be confined.

II. "That, with regard to purchases of land by Missionaries out of their private resources, or otherwise independently of the Society, while the Committee disapprove of such transactions, in general, as liable to prejudice the character and usefulness of the Missionaries, they do not feel themselves justified in assuming to lay down a prohibitory rule upon their conduct, in respect to such purchases, except so far as they may involve the above consequences; and that, in order to the Committee's exercising such a controul as the interests of the Society demand, they desire that any purchase of this description, made by a Missionary, be entered on the Minutes of the Missionary Committee of the District, with all particulars respecting the same, and that such Minute be forwarded to the Home Committee by the earliest opportunity afterward."

The Missionaries are also charged with having had their minds diverted from their proper pursuits by the attention given to the cultivation of the land which they have purchased. The Committee feel it due to the Missionaries to state, that, on the best consideration which they can give to the information before them, they believe the imputation to be unfounded. The general testimony, indeed, borne to the character and conduct of the Missionaries by the Bishop of Australia, the Rev. S. Marsden, and the Rev. F. Wilkinson, given under this and a following head, refutes the charge, as also does the testimony of other perfectly impartial persons who have visited the Mission.

With the evidence given by Capt. Fitzroy and Mr. Wilkinson, bearing more particularly on the purchases made by the Missionaries, the Committee close this part of their statement.

Capt. Fitzroy, R.N., who was employed by H. M. Government in surveying the coasts of the Peninsula of South America, and who visited the Missions at the end of 1835, and who must be regarded as a perfectly impartial witness, thus writes:—

"I will ask for attention to the too-little-considered fact, that these unjustly-blamed individuals have, by their engagements, divided that tie which once held them to a country whose inestimable value can only be fully felt by those who have long been wanderers in other lands. New Zealand, or Otaheite, or a less-known island, is now their home; and there are around them a host of little children, whose smiling healthy looks would interest even strangers in their behalf, whose country is that adopted by their parents, and to whom every good father would anxiously desire to leave a sufficient maintenance, such as his own honourable exertions could procure. Shall the Missionaries be debarred from providing in a proper manner for the future welfare of their own children? If a Missionary and a more recent settler are each in treaty for a particular piece of ground, and the former obtains it upon easier terms than the latter, is it not a natural consequence of the good-will entertained toward him by the Natives, many of whom understand and appreciate his motives, and are themselves very fond of the little white children, considering them as belonging to their country? The Missionaries have bought land, as opportunities offered; and they of course, from their residence upon the spot, have had better opportunities than occasional visitors, or late settlers." *

The Committee quote the whole passage, not thinking it right to suppress any part of it. But they deem it necessary to remark, that, in their opinion, a Missionary would not be justified in availing himself of the good-will entertained toward him by the Natives, to obtain land for any thing short of a fair and full consideration. The Committee conceive that Capt. Fitzroy did not intend to impute such conduct to the Missionaries, and that in his deliberate judgment he would not approve of purchases so made; for he adds:—

"In opposition to such an idea as that of their eagerly grasping at territory, and using undue means to procure it, I know with certainty, that the Rev. Henry Williams, and his brother William, exerted all their real influence—that of advice—in pointing out the consequences which would result to some tribes who were inclined to part hastily with extensive tracts of valuable pine forests. The real value of those trees was explained to the Natives; and they were shown distinctly how a careful management of such stores of spars would ensure a future property, and sufficient maintenance for the native children, who would otherwise be deprived of their birthright. Did this show a desire to monopolize?"*

* "Voyages of the Adventure and Beagle," Vol. II. pp. 616, 617.

Captain Fitzroy thus considerately reviews the difficulties in which the Missionaries have been involved by that influx of White Persons into New Zealand, which has been the consequence of the comparative safety of residing there resulting from the labours of the Missionaries:—

"Embarrassments of many kinds are rising: one, jealousy of that influence which has enabled even those who are jealous to approach the spot upon which they now stand, and oppose the Missionary as he exerts himself to suppress licentious habits and the use of ardent spirits. While assisting their early settlement, the Missionaries were the best friends of those adventurers who sought a livelihood among the islands of the Pacific, in New Zealand especially. But when once established, ingratitude, and utter want of reflection, became too prevalent among the worst sort of settlers, whose only occupations were those of publicans and especial sinners."†

The following testimony is borne by Captain Fitzroy to the character of the Missionaries under these difficult circumstances:—

"Surrounded by those who are engaged in a commerce annually increasing; unavoidably involved in local dissensions; referred to on all occasions, as interpreters or as peace-makers, and, I may say, as the consular agents of White Men of all nations; it argues very favourably for the Missionaries, that they have as yet upheld the character of their sacred office, though sneered at by nominal friends, censured by enemies, and always struggling against opposition."‡

Captain Fitzroy further remarks—

"By such men as those, who are jealous of the influence of the Missionaries, an outcry has been raised against their 'attempts to monopolize the lands.'"§

The Rev. Frederick Wilkinson, a New-South-Wales Chaplain, who visited New Zealand with the Rev. S. Marsden, in 1837, thus expresses himself in his evidence before the Lords' Committee on the Islands of New Zealand:—

"'Do the Missionaries possess much land?'

"'I do not think the Wesleyans possess much land: the Church Missionaries do, I know.'

"'Do you think the possession of that land, to the extent to which it goes, impedes the full success that might be given to their labours?'

"'No; I do not think that it does. I think they are a very conscientious set of men, and that they would not allow their attention to be diverted from their proper employment.'" ‖

PRINCIPLE ON WHICH THE MISSION WAS ESTABLISHED, AND HAS BEEN CONDUCTED.

It has been stated, that the Mission was originally established, and, for a long time, systematically conducted, on the principle of first civilizing, and then Christianizing, the Natives. This is wholly a mistake. The agents employed in establishing the Mission were Laymen, because Clergymen could not be had; and the instructions given to them necessarily corresponded with their lay character. The foremost object of the Mission has, from the first, been, to bring the Natives, by the use of all suitable means, under the saving influences of the grace of the Gospel; adding, indeed, the communication to them of such useful arts and knowledge as might improve their social condition. The proof of this is found in the Committee's instructions to the Missionaries.

The first Agents in the Mission were two Laymen — Mr. William Hall, and Mr. John King. They left this country in 1809; and were thus instructed by the Committee respecting their duties:—

"Ever bear in mind, that the only object of the Society in sending you to New Zealand, is, to introduce the knowledge of Christ among the Natives; and, in order to this, the arts of civilized life."

After directing Messrs. Hall and King to "respect the Sabbath Day;" to "establish Family Worship;" "at any favourable opportunity to converse with the Natives on the great subject of Religion; and to instruct the children in the knowledge of Christianity;" the instructions add—

"Thus, in your religious conduct, you must observe the Sabbath, and keep it holy; attend regularly to Family Worship; talk to the Natives about Religion when you walk by the way, when you labour in the field, and on all occasions when you can gain their attention; and lay yourselves out for the education of the young."

Mr. Thomas Kendall, also a Layman, went out in 1813. By arrangements with His Majesty's Government, he was to remain for a time in New South-Wales, as a Government Schoolmaster. No detailed instructions were therefore given to him, in reference to the Mission; but he was directed to follow those previously delivered to other Missionaries, so far as applicable to his own situation.

In December 1818, the Rev. John Butler, Mr. Francis Hall, and Mr. James Kemp, left this country, to enter on their labours in New Zealand. After referring to the establishment of Public Worship, and the erection of a church, their instructions proceed—

"The Committee would observe, that they wish, in all the Missions of the Society, that the Missionaries should give their time as much as possible, and wholly if practicable, first to the acquisition of the Native Language, and then to the faithful and constant preaching of the Gospel to the Natives, in such ways as may be found most advisable."

It is subsequently added, in their instructions—

"Do not mistake civilization for conversion. Do not imagine when heathens are raised in intellect, in the knowledge of the arts, in dress and outward decency, above their fellow-countrymen, that therefore they are Christians; and so rest content, as if your proper work were accomplished. Our great aim is far higher: it is, to make them children of God, and heirs of His glory. Let this be your desire, and prayer, and labour among them. And while you rejoice in communicating every other good, think little or nothing done till you see those who were dead in trespasses and sins quickened together with Christ."

These passages fully exhibit what have been the views of the Committee as to the principles on which the Mission should be conducted, from the first moment of its establishment.

But, while the conversion and moral improvement of the Natives have ever been the chief objects of the Missionaries, great and important progress has been made through their means in the civilization of the Natives. In reference to this bearing of the subject, it may be sufficient to state, that the arts of agriculture and gardening have been introduced by the persons sent out by the Society for the purpose—the plough also, and cattle, sheep, and horses. Roads have been formed, and bridges built.* And a country once inaccessible to Europeans, as a subsequent passage in this Paper will prove, has been rendered, by the salutary influence of the Missionaries, under the blessing of God on their labours, habitable to settlers of all classes.

RESULTS OF THE MISSION.

Statements have also been put forth depreciating the progress of the Mission. Doubtless its advancement, both as it respects religion and civilization, is far short of what both the Missionaries and the Committee desire. At the same time, the evidence of the cheering progress, in both these respects, is, through the blessing of the God of grace, manifest and unequivocal. Let one fact speak. When the Mission was projected by the late Rev. S. Marsden, he states, that "he waited for more than three years, and no master of a vessel would venture, from fear of his ship and crew falling a sacrifice to the Natives." How widely different the present state of New Zealand is, will be seen from the following communication from the Missionaries, dated Aug. 9, 1838—

* See Capt. Fitzroy's testimony in the "Voyages of the Adventure &c." pp. 601—607.

"It must be obvious to every person who claims any acquaintance with the history of New Zealand and its inhabitants, that they are, in many respects, an altered people; and have become, from atrocious and savage cannibals, a partially civilized race of men. It is equally observable, that this great change of character is confined to those parts of the island brought under the influence of Missionary exertions, even where the Natives remain heathen, and make no profession of Christianity. We mean, those in the precincts of our labours are not what they once were: they lay claim to different views and feelings to what they once had: there is something like compassion for suffering humanity, with some desire that their children should be better instructed and informed. It may, we think, be clearly shown, that the line of conduct pursued by the principal part of the settlers has effected nothing to their present state, but rather tended to impede the work of civilization. The example generally set them by settlers has had a tendency to make the Natives more heathenish than they were previous to their taking up their residence among them. To what, then, but to the labours of the Missionaries, can we attribute the change that has taken place? Where there are no Missionaries, but only traders, settled, the New Zealander is still a cannibal, and a terror to those who live among them; whereas a stranger travels as peaceably and as securely on this part of the island as in civilized countries."

But there is direct evidence of the effect of the Missionaries' labours, which place the results of the Mission on a very different footing from that on which they have, by some, been represented. Writing in August 1838, they state—

"The number of adults admitted to the rite of Baptism, since the formation of the Mission, has been 533; of infants, 305; making a total of 838. The attendants on Public Worship are about 4070; the Communicants, being the average number of those only who attend, 213. Schools about 50, and Scholars 1600."

The following is the testimony of Mr. Marsden, given on his last visit to New Zealand in the early part of 1837. He thus reviews the Mission, twenty-three years after its commencement, in a Letter dated April 1837:—

"When I left Hokianga, a number [of Natives] accompanied me—upward of seventy. Some met us from Waimate. We had to travel about forty miles, by land and water. The road lay through a very thick wood. The Natives carried me, on something like a hammock, for twenty miles. We reached Waimate as the sun went down; where we were kindly received by the Rev. W. Williams and his colleagues. One principal Chief, who has embraced the Gospel, and has been baptized, accompanied us all the way. He told me he was so unhappy at Hokianga, that he could not get to converse with me, from the crowds that attended; and that he had come to Waimate to speak with me. I found him to be a very intelligent man, and anxious to know the way to Heaven. I met with numbers, wherever I went, who were anxious after the knowledge of God. I was much pleased to find, that wherever I went I found some who could read and write. The Church Service has been translated into the native language, with the Catechism, Hymns, and some other useful pieces. They are all fond of reading; and there are many who have not had an opportunity of attending the Schools, who nevertheless can read. They teach one another in all parts of the country, from the North to the East Cape. The prospect of success to the Mission is very great. Since my arrival at the Missionary Station I have not heard one oath spoken, either by European or Native. The Schools and Church are well attended; and the greatest order is observed among all classes.

"In the midst of all the miseries of war, God is prospering the Mission. Since my arrival, I have visited many of the Stations within the compass of a hundred miles, and have observed that a wonderful change has taken place within the last seven years. The portions of the Sacred Scriptures which have been printed have had a most astonishing effect. They are read by the Natives at every place where I have been. The Natives teach one another, and find great pleasure in the Word of God, and carry that sacred treasure with them wherever they go. Great numbers have been baptized, both Chiefs and their people. I have met with some very pious Chiefs, who have been invited by Pomare and Titore to join them in their present war; but they have refused. I met with one pious Chief who had been a great warrior, and was severely wounded in action the very day I arrived in New Zealand on my last visit, who informed me that Titore had sent for him, but that he would fight no more. I visited his Station: he has built a neat clean Place of Public Worship, which is visited by the Missionaries: in this he teaches school, as well as his son. I am at present at Waimate, which was formerly one of the most warlike districts in the island; and I could not learn that one individual had joined the contending parties. Waimate is the most moral and orderly place I ever was in. A great number of the inhabitants, for some miles, have been baptized, and live like Christians. There are neither riots nor drunkenness, neither swearing nor quarrels; but all is order and peace. The same effects I have observed to be produced by the Scriptures, and labours of the Missionaries, in other districts. My own mind has been exceedingly gratified with what I have seen and heard; and I have no doubt that New Zealand will become a civilized nation. I consider the Missionaries, as a body, very pious, prudent, and laborious men; and that they and their children are walking in the admonition of the Lord, so as to make them a national blessing, when they have finished their labours."

It has been already stated, that the Rev. F. Wilkinson visited New Zealand, with Mr. Marsden, in 1837. Mr. Wilkinson afterward came to England. On his arrival in London, he called at the Church Missionary House, in reference to this visit. He said that he had gone thither with the impression that the progress of the Mission had been exaggerated, and that he had therefore closely scrutinized its state; but that, having thus personally investigated its circumstances with these views and feelings, he found that its actual advancement exceeded what had been represented in New South-Wales.

The following passages from Mr. Wilkinson's evidence before the Lords' Committee on the Islands of New Zealand illustrate the progress of the Mission:—

"'Do you think that the Missionaries have been of great service in New Zealand?'

"'Of very great service; immense service. I look upon the northern part of the island as a Christian People. There are individuals who are not Christians; but they are, generally, Christians. They observe the Sunday very strictly.'

"'Do you think the Missionaries have much influence with the Natives?'

"'Very great.'

"'They are willing to exercise it at all times, to make peace between the Natives?'

"'I think so, entirely.'

"'Your answer applies both to the Church Missionary Society and the Wesleyans?'

"'Both of them.'

"'Had you an opportunity of visiting any Schools which had been formed by the Missionaries?'

"'Yes; I lived with Mr. Williams at Waimate, one of the Missionaries: his lady had a school which I witnessed almost every day.'*

"'Your opinion is, that the labour of the Missionaries has effected a great deal of good in Christianizing the country?'

"'A very great deal. I was quite astonished, though I had been so near them. I did not believe the extent to which it had gone.'†

"'Had you an opportunity of observing whether, among the Natives who had not had the advantage of being visited at all by the Missionaries, there was any notion of Religion?'

"'The second night that I slept in the bush, in New Zealand, I came to a native's house, and was exceedingly tired. He begged of me to stop there, and made me very comfortable indeed. They gave me a clean blanket and plenty of fern to sleep on; which I did. After their supper (which was potatoes) they got their Book down (their Testament)—the most of them had a Testament—and read a chapter out of the Testament, and the family collected round, and afterward they knelt and prayed, and then we retired to rest. In the same way they began the day the next morning. That man was not a baptized Christian, but he was a Christian. I have seen him at the Service afterward; but he had not yet been baptized, nor any of his family. He belonged to the Church Missionary Stations at Waimate.*

The Lord Bishop of Australia visited the Mission at the end of last year, at the instance of the Committee. On his departure from New Zealand he delivered an Address to the Missionaries, and one to the Christian Natives.

To the Missionaries he said, Jan. 5, 1839—

"Through the blessing of its Great Head upon your Missionary labours, and by the operation of the Holy Ghost giving the increase, a visible body of believers is here collected out of the dark places of heathenism, to whom none of the outward ordinances and means of grace are now wanting."

The Christian Natives he thus addressed:—

"Though you are sprung from a different family, and your forefathers long continued strangers to us, and we to them, it affords me great satisfaction to call you brethren, because you have entered into the fellowship of the same Gospel with ourselves. Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ. There is neither Jew nor Greek: there is neither bond nor free: there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus. It is with us a perpetual cause of joy, and a sufficient reward for all the labour that has been bestowed among you, that you are become partakers of the common salvation through faith in the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was preached among you by those ministers through whom ye believed.

"It is my duty, and a principal part of my office, to remind you, that in your baptism you made a solemn promise that you would renounce the world, and the flesh, and the devil: and by the laying on of my hands upon such of you as were suitably prepared and disposed, according to the custom practised by the Apostles of our Lord, I have endeavoured to stablish, strengthen, and settle you in this faith; praying on behalf of every one of you, that God will 'defend you with his heavenly grace, that you may continue His for ever, and daily increase in His Holy Spirit more and more, until you come to His everlasting kingdom.'"

After the return of the Bishop of Australia to Sydney, he addressed to the Committee a Letter, March 28th, 1839, detailing his proceedings in New Zealand, relative to the Mission; and fully stating his views as to its state, and the measures which its present circumstances call for. From that very important and valuable communication the Committee extract the following passages, illustrative of his Lordship's candid judgment, both of the progress of the Mission, and of the character of the Missionaries.

His Lordship states—

"It is in my power, I think, effectually to contradict the assertions of the adversary and the scoffer, who have sometimes gone the length of affirming, that the attempt to Christianize the people of this nation has been a failure; that nothing has been done. On the other hand, I shall not suffer my admiration of that which has really been effected to hurry me into an unqualified approval of every thing connected with the establishment of the Mission, or the operations of the Missionaries; nor to deter me from pointing out any particulars in which I think there is room for improvement."

Accordingly, in the Letter of the Bishop, which will appear as early as possible in the Church Missionary Record, it will be seen that he has pointed out a want of a due regard, on the part of the Missionaries, to the improvement of the personal habits of the Christian Natives, and adverted to their yet imperfect character; while the following passages bear ample testimony to the favourable impression of the general state of the Mission produced on his Lordship's mind by his visit.

"They [the Native Candidates for Confirmation] were carefully and perseveringly examined by the Clergyman, as to their degree of acquaintance with the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Commandments.—They were living in all apparent godliness and honesty, under the constant observation, it may be said, of the entire Mission; and no evil heart of unbelief had betrayed itself among them. They drew near in a very earnest and humble spirit, desiring to partake of this rite, as a means of grace; the nature of it having been previously explained to them in the fullest terms. I therefore—with, I trust, not a misplaced confidence—laid my hands on them, receiving from them a ratification of the promises made in their baptism: and I regard the day on which this full admission of them into the fold of Christ took place, as marking a very memorable era, both in my own life, and in the annals of the New-Zealand Church. God grant that they may indeed daily increase in His Holy Spirit more and more, until they come to His everlasting kingdom!"

* "Minutes of Evidence &c." p. 97.

Again:—

"At every Station which I personally visited, the converts were so numerous, as to bear a very visible and considerable proportion to the entire population; and I had sufficient testimony to convince me that the same state of things prevailed at other places, which it was not in my power to reach.

"As the result of my inspection, I should state, that in most of the native villages, called Pas, in which the Missionaries have a footing, there is a building, containing one room, superior in fabric and dimensions to the native residences, which appears to be set apart as their place for assembling for Religious Worship, or to read the Scriptures, or to receive the exhortations of the Missionaries. In these buildings generally, but sometimes in the open air, the Christian classes were assembled before me. The grey-haired man, and the aged woman, took their places, to read, and to undergo examination, among their descendants of the second and third generations. The Chief and the Slave stood side by side, with the same holy volume in their hands, and exerted their endeavours each to surpass the other in returning proper answers to the questions put to them concerning what they had been reading. These assemblages I encouraged on all occasions; not only from the pleasure which the exhibition itself afforded, but because I was thus enabled, in the most certain and satisfactory way, to probe the extent of their attainments and improvements.

"The experience thus acquired has induced me to adopt the habit of applying the term 'converts' to those alone—for many such I found there were—who, in the apparent sincerity of their convictions, and in the sufficiency of their information, compared with their opportunities of acquiring it, may be considered Christians indeed."

With regard to the Missionaries and Catechists, the Bishop writes—

"I must offer a very sincere and willing testimony of their maintaining a conversation such as becomes the Gospel of Christ, and the relation in which they stand to it, as the professed guides and instructors of those who are, by their agency, to be retrieved from the service of sin. Their habits of life are devotional; they are not puffed up with self-estimation; but appeared to me willing to learn, as well as apt to teach: and among themselves, they appear to be drawn together by a spirit of harmony, which is, I hope, the sincere effusion of their hearts, prompted by that Spirit, of which love, gentleness, and goodness, are among the most delightful fruits. It is upon the continuance of this spirit among themselves that I raise my principal expectations of their continued success among the Natives. Without unanimity, there can be no successful combination of their exertions; nor is any blessing upon them to be hoped for, such as has hitherto visibly attended them, and in a very ample measure."

In another part of his Letter, the Bishop adds—

"I have already spoken my sentiments as to the general character and deportment of the Missionaries: in which observations, I should wish it to be understood, it is my intention to include the Lay Catechists no less than the Clergy. All appeared to me, so far as I was able to judge, to be animated by a good spirit, and a desire, according to their several abilities, to work the work of God."

The Bishop thus concludes his Letter:—

"I am happy in thinking, that, by my late visit to the Mission, a foundation of regard and confidence has been laid between the members of it and myself, which, through the Divine Blessing, may tend much to facilitate any future proceedings connected with its extension. Upon any subject, concerning which the Society may be anxious to consult me, I shall always be prepared to offer the most candid opinion, and to give the best advice in my power. My heart and hope are fixed earnestly upon the success of this holy undertaking; the fruit of which, I trust, will be, to spread abroad the knowledge of the Truth, and to bring many souls to eternal salvation, happiness, and glory, through our Lord Jesus Christ."

VIEWS OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT RESPECTING NEW ZEALAND—PROPOSED CHURCH MISSIONARY DEPUTATION TO THE MISSION.

In the present state of things in New Zealand, the Committee see much cause for solicitude. Her Majesty's Government has come to the determination to interpose the British Sovereignty in New Zealand, and to acquire the cession of portions of the island, by treaty with the Chiefs, with the especial view of affording protection to the Natives against wrongs and aggressions on the part of British subjects.

In reply to an inquiry of Sir Robert H. Inglis, the Right Hon. H. Labouchere, then Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, made the following official statement on the subject:—

"In answer to the question of the Hon. Member, I beg to state, that, in consequence of various circumstances, Government has come to the determination of taking steps which will probably lead to the establishment of a British Colony in that country, as the number of British Subjects there renders the establishment of some Authority absolutely necessary; but, as those measures are still incomplete, I trust the Hon. Baronet will excuse me from entering further into them. A number of persons have gone out to New Zealand; and in order to protect the Aborigines, and for the maintenance of good order, it has been thought fit that measures should be taken to establish Legal Authority in the island.

"With regard to the New-Zealand Land-Companies, I need hardly assure the Hon. Gentleman that these Companies could not have been hitherto recognised by the Government. They have sent expeditions from this country on their own responsibility, and without any sanction from the Government: at the same time, an explicit declaration was made to them, that, in any future step which the Government might take with reference to New Zealand, it would not consider itself bound to recognise any title to land that might be set up, which should appear to be fraudulent or excessive.

"I feel it better to give this explanation, because I perceive, by the Newspapers, that various schemes have been projected relative to the island. Although, in the event of a British Colony being established in New Zealand, the Government would by no means discourage emigration to it, which would be conducted in a manner not to interfere with the rights of the Aboriginal inhabitants, or with any titles to land which shall have been fairly acquired; yet, at the same time, it is necessary that parties should understand, that, in the case of land acquired from the Aborigines—a class quite unable to protect, properly, their own interest—it is the duty of Government to protect them; and to see that no title to land be set up, which, as I before said, should appear either fraudulent or excessive."*

The Committee having long pressed on Government the obligation to take measures on behalf of the Natives of New Zealand, feel strong satisfaction that this has at length been done. While it will be the duty of the Missionaries to limit themselves more cautiously than ever to their appropriate work, the Committee will rejoice to find their legitimate influence rendered subservient to the social and religious welfare of the Natives in the new circumstances in which they are about to be placed.

The steps taken to locate large bodies of Settlers in New Zealand must likewise needs have an important bearing on the Mission. Toward these parties it will be the duty of the Missionaries to conduct themselves in a kind and friendly manner, at the same time that they rigidly abstain from mixing themselves up with their plans and proceedings.

The progressive enlargement of the Mission to its present extent—especially in the new circumstances in which it must hereafter be carried on—and the arrangements of an ecclesiastical nature to which the Committee look forward as the result of the Bishop's visit, call for modification in the administration of the Mission, answerable to its advanced state and altered circumstances.

* "Mirror of Parliament," June 20, 1839.

The amount, too, to which the expenditure of the Mission has of late risen, demands investigation, especially in the actual state of the Society's finances, without any imputation on the Missionaries by whom its affairs have been locally administered.

The Committee have, therefore, come to the determination to send a Deputation to New Zealand, composed of one Clergyman and one Layman, in order to a thorough investigation of its whole state and circumstances, and with the view to such arrangements, both secular and ecclesiastical, as its situation and that of the island may demand. The Missionaries themselves feel the need of such a measure, and call for its adoption.

In these circumstances, the Committee are most solicitous to engage the services of two suitable persons for the objects above specified, with as little delay as possible.

The Committee, in conclusion, earnestly solicit the prayers of their friends, that the Great Head of the Church may be pleased so to provide for the wants of the Mission, in its present critical situation, as that its future operations may prove eminently conducive to His glory, in promoting both the temporal and eternal welfare of this interesting people in the momentous change which they are about to pass through.

FURTHER STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY RELATIVE TO THE NEW-ZEALAND MISSION.

THE COMMITTEE of the CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY being in a situation to communicate to the Members further information on their Proceedings relative to the NEW-ZEALAND MISSION, and particularly as to the acquisition of land by the Missionaries*, proceed to do so, in continuation of the "Statement" circulated under date of the 29th of November last.

The Proceedings referred to may be stated as follows:—

I. THE REQUIREMENT OF SPECIFIC AND DETAILED INFORMATION AS TO EVERY PURCHASE OF LAND BY A MISSIONARY OR CATECHIST, FOR WHATEVER OBJECT THE PURCHASE MAY HAVE BEEN MADE.

II. THE COURSE PURSUED BY THE COMMITTEE IN DEALING WITH THE CASE OF MR. FAIRBURN.

III. THE GENERAL INTRODUCTION OF MONEY-PAYMENTS INTO THE MISSION, IN LIEU OF PAYMENTS PARTLY BY MONEY AND PARTLY BY RATIONS.

IV. FURTHER MEASURES RELATING TO THE PURCHASE OF LAND BY ANY MEMBER OF THE MISSION, WITH THE ENTIRE PROHIBITION OF THEIR DOING SO WITH THEIR PRIVATE MEANS, WHILE CONNECTED WITH THE SOCIETY.

I.—The Requirement of specific and detailed Information as to every Purchase of Land by a Missionary or Catechist, for whatever object the Purchase may have been made.

In the Statement of the 29th of November, the Committee remarked, that notwithstanding their previous correspondence with the Missionaries, relative to the acquisition of land by some members of the Mission, the information obtained by the Committee was too imperfect to justify a decision as to the conduct of the parties concerned; and they besought the friends of the Society to suspend their judgment, till satisfactory grounds were obtained for a just and equitable decision.

Feeling the deep importance of the subject to the character of the Missionaries — a body of men, according to every testimony to which the Committee could attach consideration, entitled to the confidence and sympathy of the Society; and having failed in their endeavours to send out a Deputation to make inquiries on the spot; the Committee, in December last, transmitted a Form of Return, calculated to obtain full and explicit information as to the quantity and nature of the land acquired by each Individual, without precluding themselves from dealing with any case with which communications might in the mean time make them sufficiently acquainted to admit of their forming a correct judgment upon it. Accordingly, on the 14th of December, the Committee wrote to the Missionaries to the following effect:—

"In order to secure uniformity and completeness in the information required respecting purchases of land under each head, a Form of Return is inclosed, agreeably to which the Committee direct that each purchase of land by any Member of the Mission should be reported to them. In cases where the same Individual has purchased land, both with the funds of the Society* and with his own private means, a separate Return is to be made of each, distinguishing the class to which it belongs. The Committee therefore direct that the Form of Return should be immediately printed at the Society's Press, and four copies forwarded to each member of the Mission. Of these copies, two of each class are to be filled up: one of these is to be sent to the Secretary of the District, to be forwarded to the Parent Committee by him; and the other is to be transmitted to them by the Individual himself. The District Committee will also fix an early date for the Returns being made by each Individual in the District; and you will transmit the same to us, as already stated, by the very earliest opportunity afterward. It is almost superfluous to observe, that this Form of Return is to be adhered to in all purchases of land which may hereafter be made by any member of the Mission, either with the Society's money or his own means."

II.—The Course pursued by the Committee in dealing with the case of Mr. Fairburn.

Almost simultaneously with the above-mentioned communication to the Missionaries, the Committee received such further information, relative to acquisition of land made by Mr. Fairburn, a Lay-member of the Mission, as appeared to them to warrant and to call for the special consideration of his case. Having deliberately weighed all the circumstances connected with it, the Committee, on the 7th of January, adopted the following Minute, and Resolutions thereupon:—

Read the following Despatches from the Southern District Committee, received since the publication of the Committee's Statement relative to the Mission; namely, Mr. T. Chapman's Letter to the Secretaries, May 27, 1839; Minutes of Missionary Committee, May 3, 1839; and Mr. Fairburn's Letter to Mr. Chapman, May 4, 1839.

The Committee consider that the arrival of these Despatches, in addition to the information previously possessed, relative to Mr. Fairburn's purchase of land, enables and requires them to come to an immediate decision upon his case.

The tract of land acquired by Mr.

* The Resolution under which such purchases were sanctioned is as follows: "That, under the peculiar circumstances of the New-Zealand Mission, the Committee are of opinion, that purchases of land from the Natives, to a moderate extent, should be authorised, as a provision for their children after they are fifteen years of age: the nature and extent of the purchase to be, in each case, referred to the Committee, for their sanction, after having been considered and approved in a Meeting of Missionaries."—July 27, 1830.

Fairburn is described by the Rev. H. Williams, in his Letter of Jan. 11, 1839, as "about eight miles in extent." Mr. Fairburn, in his Letter of the 27th of Nov. 1838, calls it about "eleven miles in length;" and in that to Mr. Chapman of May 4, 1839, he says, "It may contain, including good and bad, about 40,000 acres," and that "about one-twentieth of the land is timbered."

Admitting the force of the reasons which induced Mr. H. Williams and Mr. Fairburn to accept of this tract of land from the Natives, whose respective claims were a source of contention and warfare*, it is impossible to contemplate the fact of such an acquisition of land by any Member of the Mission without its being reported to the Committee; or some recognition of other than personal advantage from its acquisition, without equal surprise and regret.

Additional reasons for requiring the Committee to deal immediately with Mr. Fairburn's case are furnished by the circumstance of the Local Committee having proposed Mr. Fairburn's being placed on a superannuation allowance, in consequence of his application to be permitted, on account of his declining health, to retire from the effective service of the Mission, and to settle upon his land; and by Mr. Fairburn's refusal to sell to the Society, on application of that Committee, a piece of his land, containing 500 acres, for the purpose of forming a Missionary Station thereon.†

Mr. Fairburn's position, relatively to his land and to the Society, as represented by the various documents before the Committee, having been fully considered, it was Resolved—

I. That the Committee are of opinion, that Mr. Fairburn's retaining, for his own private advantage, the large tract of land above referred to, is incompatible with his office and connexion with the Church Missionary Society.

II. That it is incumbent on the Committee, in order to vindicate their own character, as implicated in the acts of the Missionaries, to assert the right of dealing with such a transaction, as that under consideration, in such a manner as, under all the circumstances of the case, shall appear to be just and equitable.

III. That if this right be denied by Mr. Fairburn, the Committee must adopt the painful alternative of declaring his connexion with the Society terminated.

IV. That if, however, as they will not permit themselves to doubt, Mr. Fairburn shall recognise the justness of the principle laid down in the Second Resolution, the Committee direct that the circumstances connected with the land in question, in all their bearings, be immediately taken into consideration by a Special Committee,

* In reference to this tract of land, the Rev. H. Williams wrote as follows, in his Letter of Jan. 11, 1839, above mentioned:—

"It was a disputed piece of land between the Natives of Waikato and those of the Thames: that is, the former wanted to encroach upon it, and take possession. I was, previous to this transaction, with the Natives of both parties, endeavouring to bring about a better understanding among them, and was told that the great obstacle was this piece of land;—that neither party could take possession, as it would create an immediate war. In order, therefore, to set this question at rest, I told them that neither should have it, but that I would take the land for myself: to which all gave consent. Of course, it was understood that a payment was to be made for it. I had no desire for the land myself; but felt that it was needful that it should be purchased. I therefore proposed to Mr. Fairburn to take it, which he accordingly did; and since that period there has not been a word of dispute between the Natives of Waikato and the Thames upon the subject."

Mr. Fairburn thus explains the circumstances under which he acquired the tract of land in question, in his Letter of Nov. 27, 1838, above mentioned:—

"In January 1836, Mr. Williams arrived at the Puriri, with a few Ngapuhi Chiefs from the Bay of Islands, to endeavour to effect the establishment of peace between the Waikato and the Thames: which object having been accomplished, and the boundaries of land settled between the two parties, the Thames Natives immediately made application to sell at once their portion of land joining on to that of Waikato; declaring, that peace could not exist for any length of time unless they did so, as there would be perpetual infringements on each other's territories. About a week afterward, the same Natives came in a body to the Puriri, and almost insisted that the land should be purchased. It is also particularly worthy of remark, that the whole of that portion purchased was entirely unoccupied by the Natives: but now I am enabled to invite such Natives as are well disposed to sit down together, without any distinction of tribe; and there are now living in the neighbourhood a portion of three different tribes, who would not have sat together under other circumstances.

† The Committee had been willing to hope, that, in so large an acquisition of land, especially regard being had to the circumstances attending its acquisition, Mr. Fairburn had the interests of the Mission and of the Natives, rather than his individual benefit, in view. The two facts, therefore, stated in Mr. Chapman's Letter—Mr. Fairburn's wishing to retire upon his land, and also his refusing to part with a portion of it, at the application of his Brethren in the District, for Missionary purposes—showed that Mr. Fairburn regarded the purchase as a personal advantage, and thus furnished the Committee with clear grounds for the decision comto in the following Resolutions.

to be formed of five Members of the Mission, not being holders of land beyond the limit recognised by the Committee's Resolutions of July 27, 1830, and the 29th of November last; of which Committee three Members shall be Clergymen.

v. That such Committee be instructed—

(1) To determine what portion of the land ought fairly and reasonably to be retained by Mr. Fairburn for his own use and the benefit of his family.

(2) That the circumstances, out of which the acquisition of the land originated, precluding its restoration, the remainder of it be placed in Trust, in the name of the Society, either for some object of a public nature, for the benefit of the Natives, whether for the purpose of locating Christian Converts, endowing some Public Institution, or in some other manner which shall divest the Missionaries and the Society from all imputation of personal interest in its retention.

(3) That Mr. Fairburn be compensated equitably for any pecuniary loss in respect to the proportion of land to be surrendered by him;—the amount of compensation being fixed in reference to the price or other compensation given to the Natives for the acquisition of the whole.

vi. That the proceedings of such Special Committee be laid before both District Committees of the Mission, and transmitted to the Society as early as possible; and that the report of the same be submitted to Her Majesty's chief Authority in the island.

vii. That the way being cleared, by these measures, for considering Mr. Fairburn's application for a retiring allowance, the Southern Committee be authorised, subject to the approval of the Parent Committee, to grant Mr. Fairburn such retiring allowance as they may deem eligible, to be enjoyed by him until the culture of his land shall afford him the means of independent support.

The Committee trust, that, on a calm review of the scope and intention of the foregoing Resolutions, and of all the circumstances under which they have been passed, the Members of the Mission at large, and Mr. Fairburn in particular, will perceive that they are indispensable, in order to clear the Mission and the Society from imputations seriously affecting the interests of both; and to remedy a state of things in the Mission, which, if suffered to remain, must impair that purity of purpose in its proceedings, without which the Divine Favour cannot be expected upon its Members or their undertakings.

The Committee assure themselves, that, viewed in these lights, the measures now directed will meet with the cordial and zealous co-operation of all the Members of the Mission, in order to their prompt and effective execution.

The foregoing document is a pledge of the determination of the Committee to exercise an impartial judgment upon any similar case—if such there be—which may come before them. Though deeply deploring the imputations to which the investments in land by some of the Missionaries have exposed the body, the Committee have thought it right, on principles of common justice—as well as in consideration to the testimony borne to their character by the Bishop of Australia, and by other persons of high reputation who have visited the island—to suspend their judgment till further information shall be received; but they are prepared, upon sufficient information, to deal with each case as its merits, when fully before them, shall demand. The principles laid down in Mr. Fairburn's case would guide the decision of the Committee in every other to which they were justly applicable.

III.—The general introduction of Money-payments into the Mission, in lieu of payments partly by money and partly by rations.

The Committee have adopted other measures having respect to the new state of things arising in the island, consequent on the progress of commerce and colonization. One of them is, to direct the introduction, as early as possible, of a money-salary to the various classes of persons in the Mission, as in the other Missions of the Society, in lieu of the mixed support hitherto assigned, consisting partly of money and partly of rations. This course was also desired by the Missionaries. It could not, however, be adopted, until the progress of commerce and civilization should have introduced a money circulation. The colonization of the island, following the gradual advance of the Natives in social improvement, under the influence of the Missionaries, prepared the way to the attainment of the object which the Committee had in view. The rapid influx into New Zealand of Settlers from New South-Wales, of which the Committee have recently been informed, combined with the activity of the movements in this country for the colonization of New Zealand, led the Committee to conclude that the period had arrived, or was near at hand, when this arrangement would be practicable. The effect of it will be, both to define the expenditure of the Mission—possibly to reduce its amount,—and to relieve the Missionaries from a portion of the secular employments in which they have hitherto been unavoidably engaged for the subsistence of themselves and families. As the formation of colonies in the island will facilitate the general introduction of money-payments into the Mission, so it may be expected to open employments suitable for the children of the Missionaries, which have not previously existed, and in the absence of which the cultivation of the land was the only resource of the Missionaries, as a means of provision for their children. The Committee therefore addressed a Letter to the Missionaries on 17th of Feb. last; which is printed as an Appendix, fully explaining the grounds on which the Committee proceeded in taking this step.*

IV.—Further measures relating to the Purchase of Land by any Member of the Mission: with the entire prohibition of their doing so with their private means, while connected with the Society.

The general introduction of money-payments into the Mission placed the Committee in a situation to adopt other measures respecting the purchase of land by the Missionaries. One of these is directed to define and limit, and ultimately to discontinue altogether, purchases of land with the Society's allowance on account of children, under the Resolution of July 27th, 1830. Another prohibits henceforward all purchase of land by Members of the Mission, with their private means.—The Committee give entire a Letter to the Missionaries of 18th Feb., conveying their instructions on these points.

TO MR. GEORGE CLARKE AND THE MISSIONARIES.

Church Missionary House, Feb. 18, 1840.

DEAR SIR—

1. In our Letter of yesterday's date†, we conveyed to you the directions of the Committee, respecting the introduction of money-payments into the Mission. There are, however, other important bearings of the general introduction of money-payments into New Zealand, which we will now explain.

2. The serious embarrassment and difficulty in which both the Missionaries and the Committee have been involved, by the purchases of land in New Zealand by Members of the Mission, render it obligatory upon the Committee to terminate, at the earliest possible moment, a course of proceeding which has been attended with such consequences. The grounds on which the Committee sanctioned purchases of land to "a moderate extent," in behalf of your children, as they respectively completed their fifteenth year, were explained in our Letter of July 27, 1830. Of the expediency of sanctioning such a course, in your then circumstances, the Committee see no reason to doubt. It was, however, a deviation from the uniform practice of the Society in its other Missions, and was called for and justified only by the peculiar situation in which you were placed in New Zealand. There was then no social state in the country, into which your children could possibly enter with a view to their future settlement in life. There was no trade nor profession to which they could betake themselves for a livelihood. There was, in fact, no means of providing for them, as they successively grew up, but by the cultivation of the soil. Hence the Missionaries, anxious for the future welfare of their children, naturally turned their eyes in this direction; and hence the Committee felt themselves fully justified in sanctioning the purchase of land in their behalf, to "a moderate extent," as stated in their Resolution of July 27, 1830.

3. The same considerations which lead the Committee to conclude that money-payments may now be introduced generally into the Mission, as explained in our Letter of yesterday's date, induce them to believe that the time is approaching when the social state of the island will have undergone such a change as no longer to render it necessary to provide for your children in the manner above mentioned. For as soon as the state of New Zealand will admit of your children being provided for, as in other Missions, the necessity for providing for them by purchases of land will cease.

* See p. 180.

4. A reference to our Letter of July 27, 1830, will show, that while the Committee consented to your making purchases of land in New Zealand as a provision for your children, they were not unmindful that "the arrangement exposed you to some danger of having your minds unduly drawn to secular concerns." Nothing, indeed, but the necessity of the case could have warranted you in placing yourselves, or the Committee in sanctioning your being placed, in such circumstances.

5. Abstaining, in the imperfect state of their information, from expressing an opinion on the manner in which you have acted on the Resolution of July 1830 — except, which the Committee greatly regret, your not having referred to them, for their sanction, the nature and extent of each purchase, as required by that Resolution—they are most solicitous, no less on your account than on general grounds, to terminate a mode of providing for your children unavoidably carrying along with it some danger of withdrawing you from your duties in the Mission, and of secularizing your minds.

6. Under the impression, that the period, if not actually arrived, is not far distant, when the mode of providing for your children, sanctioned by the Resolution of July 27, 1830, may be defined and limited, if not discontinued altogether, the Committee request that you will without delay submit to their consideration such other plan of providing for them as may be feasible, and a statement of the means by which it may best be carried into effect.

7. The question of other land-purchases by your own private means stands on different grounds, and has, as you are aware, engaged the anxious attention of the Committee. While the Committee, in their Resolution of the 29th of November last, abstained from laying down a prohibitory rule as to your conduct in this respect, it expressed their disapproval of such transactions in general, as liable to prejudice the character and usefulness of the Missionary, and to operate injuriously both to the Mission and to the Society. Still, not calling into question the abstract right of the Missionaries in this respect, they are of opinion that purchases of land of this description should be altogether discontinued by the Missionaries. The progress of colonization in New Zealand will probably be rapid; and will thus place the Missionary in the same situation, as to the temporal interests of his family, as the Missionaries of the Society in other quarters. Under such circumstances, it would unquestionably be unwarrantable in the Missionary to make large acquisitions of landed property in New Zealand. Beside the bearing of such acquisitions on his own character and duties, and the character of the Society with which he is connected, it could scarcely fail to awaken the jealousy of the Colonists, and thus to create a state of feeling between them and the Missionaries highly prejudicial to the Mission. It may occur too—and it is even very probable that in some instances it will occur—that tracts of land purchased by the Missionaries, originally barren and unprofitable, would acquire, by the progress of colonization, a value far beyond any thing calculated upon when the purchase was made; and which, on that account, it would be altogether incompatible with the character and office of a Missionary that he should possess.

8. At the same time, therefore, that the Committee admit the abstract right of the Missionaries to employ their private property in such a manner as they may think proper, they must assert, on the other hand, that the exercise of this right is limited and controlled by the nature of the relation into which the Missionaries have entered with the Society for the promotion of its spiritual objects. The due discharge of the duties of this relation render it impracticable for the Missionary to occupy his mind or employ his time, to any considerable extent, in the management of landed property, the cultivation of the soi., or in commerce. The only ground, the Committee conceive, on which these purchases of land could at any period be defended or extenuated, is rapidly passing away, by the altered circumstances of New Zealand, in consequence of the introduction of colonization, and the prospect of its rapid advance.

9. The Committee, therefore, feel themselves called upon to require that all purchases of land, except those under the Resolution of July 27, 1830, shall be discontinued by the Members of the Mission, after the arrival out of this Letter. Such as may have been made previously to the receipt of it will, of course, be reported to the Committee, in the manner required by the Form of Return transmitted under cover of our Letter of December 14, 1839.

10. The course which the Committee may judge it right to take with regard to purchases already made by the Missionaries with their private means will depend on the facts connected with each transaction. The Missionaries may, however, rest assured that the Committee have no wish to interfere in reference to these purchases, unless, as in Mr. Fairburn's case, such interference is demanded by the facts connected with it; nor to carry that interference one step further than the obligation to watch over the state of the Mission and the proceedings of the Missionaries absolutely requires at their hands, as the Administrators of the Society's affairs.

11. With regard to purchases of land made under the terms of the Resolution of July 1830, the Committee have already adduced their reasons for wishing this permission to be most cautiously exercised. They hope that the necessity for its exercise at all will be of short duration; but in every instance, where the circumstances of the country and of the Missionary may still seem to justify its continuance, they wish it distinctly to be understood, that no such purchases of land should be considered as complete, until the Society has had an opportunity of considering and approving it.

We remain, Dear Sir,

Very truly yours,

W. JOWETT,

From the foregoing statement of the proceedings of the Committee, since the 29th of November, it will be seen that they have steadily pursued such a course as was calculated to place its secular arrangements on a sound footing, as well as to remedy whatever might have taken place in the Mission inconsistent with its Missionary character.

It should be understood, that the measures now explained have not been willingly deferred till the present period. It was stated, in the Statement of the 29th of November, that the Committee had determined to send a Deputation to New Zealand, to investigate and report upon the whole state of the Mission, with a view to its improved organization; of which its own growth, and the gradual changes in the state of the country, had rendered it susceptible. This determination was taken as early as December 1838; and means were used to engage suitable persons for the undertaking, both privately and through the Annual Report and Church Missionary Record*. The land-investments, and the new system of supporting the Mission, would have been among the principal objects of investigation and improvement to be referred to the Deputation. But, notwithstanding all the endeavours of the Committee to procure the services of suitable persons, they were not obtained; and thus a design failed, which would in the speediest and most satisfactory manner have placed the Mission on a sound and unimpeachable footing. It was not till the Committee lost the hope of effecting, by this method, the objects which they had in view, that they felt warranted in adopting the less eligible, but the only practicable measures now explained, for attaining, as it is hoped they may attain, the settlement of the affairs of this important Mission, on a footing adapted to its present circumstances.

It is with no intention to justify what may have been blameworthy in the conduct of any one connected with the Mission that the Committee suggest to the consideration of the Members of the Society the hardships and perils under which the New-Zealand Mission was formed, and under which it has grown to its present magnitude; and remind them, that it is chiefly by the labours of its devoted members, in every department of their Mission-life—combining with their sacred duties, as it necessarily has, a great variety of secular occupations — that New Zealand has become what it is. They found it a barbarous, inhospitable shore, dreaded and avoided by the mariner, abandoned to its native wretchedness. Patient toil, for many years, sustained by simple faith and unceasing prayer, have, under the Divine Blessing, rendered the island an attractive field for emigration, as well as one of the most encouraging scenes of Missionary labour.

The Committee close this Paper with the following Extract of a Letter from the Rev. W. Williams, dated August 28, 1839: from which the Members of the Society will learn, with lively interest, and gratitude to the God of all grace, that the Divine Blessing continues to rest on the labours of the Missionaries in behalf of the benighted Natives:—

"I learnt to-day, that at Opotiki, where no Missionary has yet been, the Natives assemble for Christian Worship in a regular and orderly manner. As I stated in my last, the whole line of coast from Wakatane, a little to the east of Tauranga, round the East Cape to Table Cape, requires immediate occupation. The way is, I trust, opening for a movement shortly. I hope to take twenty Native Teachers from among our most hopeful Christians; and may it please the Lord, by means of them, to carry on His work!

"The Papists are on the alert. Their establishment now is, one Bishop, eight Priests, and two Catechists; and a French ship of war is expected to bring, it is said, ten more..... But they have not, as yet, done much mischief. The Natives who have received instruction from us remain stedfast; and many who hitherto have kept aloof, seeming now to think that they must join one or the other, have declared themselves in favour of us. The Testaments and Prayer-Books are eagerly sought after, and the truth will be rooted deeply.

"There are those here who think that the Mission is in a most unhealthy state; and that, with the want of faith which has been manifested, particularly in seeking a provision for the children, we cannot prosper. I think, however, the Mission Body was never in so healthy a state. There may be excrescences and tumors, which require the knife: and where is the body which is not subject to these? But whether I look at the work in our old Stations—not superficial work, but sound and solid, based on the Word of God; or whether I look at the more recent Stations of the Northern District, and the regular increase in the Congregations and Schools; or again, I look still further, beyond our labours, where Natives will have Christianity whether we will give it or no; I am constrained to say, that the body was never in so healthy a state; that we in New Zealand never had greater cause for encouragement, nor the Church at home stronger ground for thankfulness. I, therefore, will thank God, and take courage."

(NORTHERN DISTRICT.)

Church Missionary House,

DEAR SIR— Feb. 17, 1840.

1. No communication from the Mission has reached us since the despatch of our Letter of the 11th instant.

2. In that Letter we informed you that the general introduction of money-payments into the New-Zealand Mission was under the consideration of the Committee. We now communicate the result of their deliberations.

3. The Committee have always felt, that to provide for all payments in a Mission by a fixed amount in money, so far as it was practicable to reduce them to a fixed amount, was the soundest principle in itself, and most satisfactory at once to the Committee and to the Missionary. At the commencement of a Mission — and, in some cases, for a considerable period afterward — it has not been practicable to take this course. Until sufficient information has been gained of the cost of the necessaries of life, and of various other incidents of Mission Expenditure, the necessary data are wanting for fixing the annual amount of the different heads of that expenditure in money. So soon as the progress of things has supplied the needful information, fixed payments have been uniformly introduced into all the Society's Missions.

4. In the case of New Zealand, this exception to the general rule has been most unequivocal, and has operated for the longest period. When the Mission was commenced in 1814, the Natives were in a state of unmitigated barbarism; and there was no alternative, but to provide for the Mission by supplies in kind, and such articles for legitimate barter as were valued by the Natives: and for the acquisition of which, they gave in return to the Missionaries, food for their support, land for the settlements, timber for buildings, labour, and other means of establishing and extending the Mission.

5. As the Mission advanced, and, under the Divine Blessing, the Natives were gradually brought more or less under the influence of Christianity, an approach was made to a more settled and regular social state. The process, though slow, was sure. One of the effects of this melioration of the native character was the access of Europeans to the island. In the first instance, it was chiefly limited to visits of whalers, which resorted to the coasts of New Zealand, especially to the Bay of Islands, for water and provisions. As the influence of the Gospel, preached by the Missionary, controlled the fierce and savage dispositions of the New-Zealander, and rendered intercourse with him safe and practicable, other Europeans resorted to his shores. The value, for commercial purposes, of the New-Zealand timber and flax became known; and the importation of these articles into Sydney, and afterward into Great Britain, gradually increased. The timber was deemed an object of importance to the British Navy; and ships, chartered by Her Majesty's Government, have for many years visited New Zealand, to supply the royal dock-yards with spars.

6. As a further consequence of this gradual change in the circumstances of New Zealand, and the diffusion of information in this country respecting its climate, waters, soil, and productions, the attention of many persons was turned toward that country for the purposes of colonization. This led first to the location of many individuals on the islands, and then to the sending out from hence of a considerable number of colonists. To meet this state of things, and to guard the interests of the Aborigines, Her Majesty's Government have sent out a Mission to New Zealand, under the direction of Capt. Hobson, R.N., to acquire, progressively, the sovereignty of the entire island, by treaty with the Chiefs. The country is thus fast approaching to the state of a British Colony.

7. The large accession of European Settlers consequent on these proceedings is rapidly tending to displace the barter system in New Zealand, and to introduce generally one of money-payments, in its stead. That which, in this respect, is found practicable and convenient to Colonists, will prove no less so to the Missionaries.

8. The Committee are therefore of opinion, that the time is arrived when this system may be generally adopted in the Mission. They are aware, from your communications, that this course of proceeding falls in, entirely, with your own views and wishes. They therefore do not doubt that all connected with the Mission, in both Districts, will address themselves earnestly to the subject, and take immediate steps to carry the directions of the Committee into effect.

9. In adjusting the payments of different descriptions which are now to be reduced to a fixed annual amount in money, so far as the actual state of the island may admit of its being done at present, you will be governed by these principles :—

(1) That with regard to salaries to Missionaries, Catechists, and others on the establishment of the Mission, the amount is to be regulated by the general rule which is acted on in all the Society's Missions; viz. the assignment of such a salary as may be found requisite to provide for their necessary expenses in prosecuting the objects of the Society at the Stations where they may be severally placed. Present healthy maintenance is all for which provision is to be made by the salary assigned to each agent. The amount, as is now the case, will vary according to the class to which the individual may belong; as, Missionary, Catechist, Lay Assistant—as Mr. Wade,—Printer, or Artisan; and as he may be married or unmarried. A specific amount is also to be assigned, as heretofore, for the maintenance of each child under fifteen. The income of the individual will consequently always range with the claims of his family upon it. At present, the money-salary is for a part of the Missionary's maintenance: hereafter, it is to be for the whole.

(2) With regard to other heads of charge — for the salaries of Native Teachers, native labour, and other miscellaneous expenses — the Missionaries must well consider what the several cases require, and fix the payment accordingly; always exercising the strictest economy that is consistent with justice to the party, and efficient service to the Mission.

10. In order that these instructions may be most speedily and effectually acted on, the Committe direct, that a Special Committee of seven persons, including four Clergymen, be immediately formed, to whom this Letter shall be referred. This Committee should be composed of persons of the best information and most extensive experience, selected from both Districts; of whom three should be a quorum. They will keep minutes of their proceedings, and record their conclusions and the grounds of them, with any additional remarks or explanations which they may think proper. The Committee request that no time may be lost in the formation of the Special Committee, and the prosecution to completion of the business referred to them. So soon as this shall be done, you will transmit to us the whole of that Committee's proceedings, through the Lord Bishop of Australia, as President of the Corresponding Committee in Sydney. The strong interest taken by his Lordship in that Mission, the information which he gained in New Zealand, and his personal acquaintance with many of the Missionary body, render the Committee very solicitous to be aided by the Bishop's judgment in making these important changes in the internal affairs of the Mission, to which this Letter is directed.

11. The Committee further beg, that, in considering the matters hereby referred to a Special Committee, they will also report their views as to the most safe and advantageous mode of negociating Bills on the Colony and on England, in providing for the payments in money intended to be introduced into the Mission.

We remain, Dear Sir,

Very truly yours,

 Those to which asterisks are prefixed, were preached at St Ann's, Blackfriars: those marked †, at St. Bride's, Fleet Street: the Twenty-third was preached at Christ Church, Newgate Street; that of the Thirty-first at St. Sepulchre's; the Thirty-second at St. Clement Danes; and the Thirty-third at St. Andrew's, Holborn.

The Collections at the Sixteenth and subsequent Anniversaries include the sums contributed at the Annual Meetings.

St. Michael's Church, Cornhill; by rev. C. F. Childe (less expenses) 13 11 4

☞ It is requested that Committees of Associations will transmit a List of Contributors to their respective Associations, with a copy of the BALANCE SHEET, to the Society's Office, made up to the period of their several Anniversaries.

ASSOCIATIONS IN AND NEAR LONDON.

 Some misapprehension having arisen with regard to the Association Balance Sheets appended to the Society's Report, the Committee beg to state that there is no connexion between those Balance Sheets and the Balance Sheet of the Parent Committee. The Association Accounts are, for the most part, made up to the period of their respective Anniversary Meetings, and thus, necessarily, vary from the Parent Committee's Balance Sheet, which includes the actual payments made at the Society's House between April 1st and 31st March in each year, and is, therefore, quite irrespective of the periods at which, for local convenience, Association Accounts are made up and balanced. An Account Current is kept at the Society's Office with each Association, by which the actual transmission of its receipts to the Parent Committee is shown. The appending to the Society's Report of the Balance Sheets of the Associations may be regarded as a universal acknowledgment to the local Contributors that their Contributions have been received by the Parent Committee; though the varying periods at which, as above stated, those Accounts are made up, render it impossible that their totals should correspond with the amount received from Associations, specified in the Parent Committee's Balance Sheet.

It is further to be observed, that there are other causes of discrepancy, beside that of difference in time, which has the effect of swelling the amount acknowledged in the Association Balance Sheets beyond that which is exhibited in the Balance Sheet appended to the Report; inasmuch as Legacies, Benefactions, &c., although paid direct, are frequently claimed by an Association, the Benefactor having lived within the limits of such Association, though the payment was made direct to the Parent Society. As these Accounts have no reference to the Parent Committee's printed Balance Sheet, there has been no hesitation in transferring such amounts, as desired. The effect, however, of this has unavoidably been, in some instances, that the sums transferred have been twice acknowledged; the Committee's Balance Sheet having been made up before notice desiring such transfer was received at the Society's Office.

N.B. Benefactors of Ten Guineas and upward, whose Names have appeared in former Lists of the Associations, will now find them in the General List.

HELSTON.

Rev. H. Mann, President.
Rev. J. Perry, Treas. & Sec.

The Helston account being closed up to Dec. in each year, while the Eastern District, of which it is a Branch, closes in June, it has been thought advisable, in order to prevent the inconveniences on the one hand of printing the List in one Report and the money in another, or, on the other, the necessity of making Helston a separate Association, to detain the list from that place till next year; when the particulars will appear in the Eastern District Treasurer's Account.

LEGACIES.

By the Third Law of the Society, Executors paying Bequests to the amount of Fifty Pounds become Members of the Society for Life. If there be more Executors than one, and the Legacy be not of sufficient amount to constitute each Executor a Member for Life, the Executor first named in the Will is considered to be the Member.

Legacies under 100l., which have been acknowledged in former Years, are omitted in the present List.
